RUSSIAN CONSUL TO DEFY COURT

Allies Freeze Red-Sponsored Bank Accounts

Take To Offensive; Coal Trains Ready If Blockade Lifted

BERLIN, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Western Powers took the offensive in the East-West economic war in Berlin tonight, freezing all East mark (Russian sponsored) accounts in western banks.

The development came after days of marking time in apparent anticipation of an agreement in the Moscow parleys.

An official statement said the action was necessary because the Russian-created Deutsche Noten Bank had refused to release accounts of firms in Western Berlin unless they promised to do business only in East marks.

Many western sector firms had been unable to meet their payrolls as a result of the Soviet action and the western military governments had been forced to assist these firms by arranging credits for them.

Pilot Sights Shell Explosion

On the air lift front, an American pilot reported Russian antiaircraft shells exploded in sight of his plane last night in the American air corridor over the Soviet zone. American officials said the Russians were holding target practice and that this was the fifth incident of the kind in recent months.

Inside the blockaded city, Germans massed in a square in the United States sector tonight and appealed to the Western Powers not to make a settlement in Moscow at their expense.

Other developments during the day included:

1. An announcement by United States transport officials that a fleet of coal trans has been marshaled close to the border of the Soviet zone to speed to Berlin if the four-power talks in Moscow result in the lifting of the Soviet blockade.
2. United States Secretary of Air W. Stuart Symington said the air lift supplying Berlin could be operated through the winter, if necessary.
3. British authorities said they planned a protest to the Russians over a flight of 12 Yak fighters over Western Berlin last night.
4. A new report of food shortages in the Soviet occupation zone.

20 Coal Trains Lined Up

United States transport officials said 20 coal trains are waiting in the Hannover area about 75 miles east of the Marienborn railroad line in the event the Russians reopen the road they closed six weeks ago for "technical repairs."

Plans are ready to divert other coal cargoes to the Ruhr-Berlin run as soon as a break comes, the officials said.

Symington expressed confidence American fliers could continue their blockade-busting flights on a large scale through the winter. He called the freight operation the Air Force's No. 1 job, and said it was "growing

Rep. Knutsen Says GOP Plans Excise Tax Slash

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (INS)—Chairman Knutson (R) Minn., of the House Ways and Means Committee, announced today that Republican leaders plan to cut excise taxes.

Knutson disclosed that the committee's staff was studying the entire excise tax problem with a view to overhauling it when the 81st Congress convenes January 3. He said:

"Undoubtedly some of the war taxes will have to be repealed while others will have to be reduced during the next session of Congress if the revenues of the government will permit."

Bandit Gang Gets $562,000 In Bank Holdup In Havana

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 11 (AP)—A smooth-working bandit gang herded 18 persons into a rear room of a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in midtown Havana today and sauntered out with $562,000 in cash.

So well planned was the robbery that the bandits were not molested as they scooped up handfuls of currency from the bank's vault and the cashier's cage. Although they were well-armed with pistols and machine-guns, not a shot was fired.

The robbers, believed to have numbered eight to 10 and led by a man dressed in a policeman's uniform, walked into the bank about a half-hour after the 3 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) closing time as the front door was opened to allow a customer to leave.

National Guard Federalization Plan Is Opposed

Gen. Walsh Against Peacetime Merger

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The National Guard Association today resisted with all its force a proposal that would let the Army absorb the guard in peacetime.

However, Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the association, said he favored a law that would automatically put the guard into the Army and Air Force in case of an emergency.

Yesterday a special Defense Department advisory committee after long study recommended that the guard, now under state control, be placed under federal control.

A major reason for the proposal was that in case of war technicalities might slow the guard in going into action.

Congress first has to authorize such use of the guard troops, and all guard property and equipment must be formally transferred to the federal government by the individual states.

Walsh, in a telegram from Minnesota to the association's national headquarters today, said this delay could be eliminated by amending the National Defense Act, so that the National Guard would pass instantly to the Army and Air Force in event of an emergency, without waiting for action by Congress.

He said he had even recommended the plan to the Defense Committee while it was studying its recommendations.

He was emphatic in his opposition to the peacetime merger, however, and he was promptly joined by other guard and state officials.

Walsh said the guard will fight the plan "at every turn", adding that state control of the National Guard "is practically the last bastion in the fortress of state rights."

He predicted that the various states, aided by Congress, would join the guard in a battle against efforts of "bureaucrats to centralize all power in Washington."

"Obnoxious," Reckord Says

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ranking officers of the National Guard in Maryland and West Virginia tonight opposed a recommendation to place the state units under exclusive federal jurisdiction.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Adjutant General of Maryland, called "obnoxious" the proposal of the "Gray board" of the Committee on Civilian Components. He promised he'd have more to say after studying the full report made to the national military establishment.

Brig. Gen. Charles R. Fox, Adjutant General of West Virginia, called the proposal "dangerous and unwise.

Allies, USSR Unable To Agree On Wording Of Joint Communique

By DREW PEARSON

It is now possible to give further details of the cautiously guarded "war or peace" talks being held inside the Kremlin. The technica delays of coding and decoding these talks have kept Washington somewhat behind, but the following is the most up-to-date summary available even at the highest levels of government.

The conferences in Moscow opened with the Western Powers bluntly asking the immediate lifting of the Berlin blockade. Molotov kicked this one upstairs to Stalin.

When the three western envoys saw Stalin all was "peaches and cream." Butter wouldn't have melted in Stalin's mouth. He spoke of his friendship for President Truman and Secretary Marshall, also of his admiration of British Foreign Minister Bevin. Stalin even invited American Ambassador Smith to drop around to his apartment for a drink "now or anytime."

The three western envoys left Stalin's office in the Kremlin with hopes soaring. The Russian dictator had indicated his assent to all western demands, including lifting of the blockade, a Big-Four conference on Germany, a permanent corridor to Berlin, recognition of the West's right to stay in Berlin and just about everything else that was discussed.

Reds Put Demands To Envoys

But several days later, when the ambassadors came to grips with Molotov, whose name in Russian means, "The Hammer," things were not so smooth. In fact, they've been getting tougher ever since.

Molotov made several sharp demands on the West. They included the following:

1. Western acceptance of Soviet currency for all Berlin.
2. Indefinite delay by the West of the formation of a Western German government.
3. Four-power control of the Ruhr with Russia sharing in the production of that rich industrial area.
4. A four-power meeting in Paris at which the problems of Germany, Austria and other outstanding European questions could be discussed.
5. A firm agenda for the Big-Four meeting to be agreed to by the West in advance.

The three ambassadors cabled these demands back to London, Washington and Paris late last week. The response of their governments was unanimous and firm.

U. S. Envoy Firm to Molotov

The West was willing to agree to Soviet currency for Berlin, but not as a condition for lifting the blockade. It was also willing to agree to a four-power meeting in Paris as originally stated to Molotov and Stalin, but again not as a payment for lifting the blockade.

Contract For Two Big Liners Is Let

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) — The largest contract ever let by the Maritime Commission called today for construction of two passenger vessels costing about $25,000,000 each for the American Export Lines, Inc.

The ships, 683 feet long with a top speed of about 25 knots, will be the second largest merchant ships to be built in this country and the first passenger ships constructed here since the war.

The contractor is the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Quincy, Mass. The ships are scheduled for service in the Mediterranean trade.

The vessels will accomodate 972 passengers and crews of 551 each. They will contain 360 staterooms.

A commission announcement said that the award marks the first agreement by the shipping industry to participate in the merchant shipbuilding program jointly with the commission and national defense officials following Congress' authorization of $94,000,000 in contracts.

The government will pay 45 per cent of the construction costs based on the difference in cost of building the vessels in American and foreign yards, as authorized by the 1936 Merchant Marine Act.

Commencement of a shipbuilding program will help American shipyards to regain "serious losses" in experienced shipbuilding personnel, a situation that has caused concern from a national defense standpoint, the commission said.

"Government officials are hopeful that other steamship lines will also agree to participate in the program," the commission said.

Man And Wife Begin Trip Around World In "Duck"

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP) — An Australian major and his American wife were reported several hundred miles at sea tonight in a converted amphibian "duck" they hope will take them around the world by land and water.

The daring voyage that began here without fanfare last Saturday was disclosed today by an associate of the Australian, after a Navy destroyer was said to have sighted the strange 17-foot craft. Ducks were used during the war to shuttle men and supplies from ship to shore and other purposes.

The destroyer reportedly saw "two women" in the amhibious duck about 150 miles off New York at 6:10 p. m. Monday. Its occupants hailed the ship and asked that "Lynch," at a New York City telephone number, be notified that they were okay."

Today Ware Lynch, president of a public relations agency, revealed that he had received a message from the Navy's Eastern Sea Frontier.

The "two women," he said, were Maj. Benjamin F. Carlin, 35, and his wife, the former Elinore Arone, 29, Boston.

Lynch told this story of the Australian's attempt to do "what everybody tells him he's crazy to try":

A mining engineer from Perth, Australia Carlin was serving in China when he got the idea of making one of the small land-and-water vehicles into a sea-going craft.

With Army pay he had saved up, Carlin bought the truck from the Army for $901. At Arlington, Va., he spent many hours and $9,000 of his savings to convert it.

He placed a transparent plastic hood over the top of the truck on an iron frame, and installed a bigger propeller. A 500-gallon gasoline tank was installed under the truck—to go on top when it rode on land.

The whole body was coated with rubberized paint. The tiny "cabin" was equipped with radio and a jumble of other equipment, with a 4½-foot bench where only one could sleep at a time.

Probate Court Judge Thomas Staples granted the decree on grounds of cruelty.

Truman Backers May Take Legal Action In Dixie

Contend Electors Bound By State Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) — Democratic Party officers said today that pro-Truman forces may resort to court action in some southern states to compel Democratic electors to vote for the Truman-Barkley ticket.

They said the national committee itself is adopting a hands-off attitude, but that the question may be raised locally.

Alabama's 11 and Mississippi's nine electors already have been pledged to vote in the electoral college for the states' rights ticket headed by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, and Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi.

Truman Plans Campaign

Party officials here profess not to know how the people of those states may get a chance to choose between the Truman-Barkley and Thurmond-Wright tickets.

But they indicated legal action may be taken locally, contending that state laws bind electors to vote for the nominees of the regular Democratic national convention if the state's popular majority goes Democratic.

Meanwhile, President Truman was reported by White House callers today as planning a "vigorous, active and personal campaign," opening with a speech at a Labor Day rally in Detroit. They said, too, that he may speak at least once in Indiana.

Officers of a newly-formed Truman-Barkley club also announced after a White House conference with the President and Sen. Barkley, of Kentucky, his running mate, that they intend to organize nationally. They added they will try to raise $3,000,000, the maximum allowed each national political committee.

Dewey And Scott Confer

On the Republican side today, Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., GOP national chairman, conferred at Albany with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, on campaign plans.

Then, in an address prepared for delivery to a dinner of Young Republicans, Scott declared the Truman administration is not being honest with the people on the issues of inflation, prices, taxes, and cost of government.

"Our campaign is to re-establish honest government in Washington," he asserted. "x x x We do not have honest government under the Truman administration."

Agreement For Agreement's Sake Is Ruled Out By Marshall

Swedish Vessel Burning In Bay Near Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11 (AP) — The Coast Guard fought tonight to save a Swedish freighter in Chesapeake Bay from a stubborn fire in its hold.

Two Coast Guard cutters and three fireboats were battling the fire in the hold of the S.S. Axel Salen 12 miles out of Baltimore. One cutter was pouring chemical foam directly into the hold and the fireboats were spraying the sides which already were peeled of paint by the heat.

The rescue ships went to the aid of the burning 7,500 gross ton vessel shortly before 9 p. m. when the cutter Appalachee intercepted its call for help.

Soviets Ridicule No-Accord Idea

MOSCOW, Aug. 11. (AP)—The first editorial comment in the Soviet press on the East-West diplomatic meetings here appeared today. It scoffed at the idea that there are no grounds for compromise between Russia and the Western Powers on Germany.

Authoritative sources predicted the representatives of the United States, Britain and France would meet soon again with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to discuss further the Berlin situation and kindred subjects.

The time for such a conference was not determined. The informants said the western diplomats must first co-ordinate the reactions of their governments to proposals made by Molotov on Monday. Secrecy surrounded what ground has been covered thus far toward settling East-West differences.

The publication New Times carried the first comment on the East-West meetings. It ridiculed statements published abroad that there is "no ground for compromise between the Western Powers and the Soviet Union on the German question."

New Times said this attitude had been taken by the French newspaper L'Epoch. The London Economist came in for similar criticism.

Secretary Of State Maintains Secrecy On Moscow Parley

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today laid down the principle that in negotiating with the Russians the United States must not seek agreement merely for agreement's sake.

He applied this rule specifically to the international conference on Danube River navigation now underway at Belgrade, Yugoslavia. His words virtually foretold the failure of this meeting to produce East-West agreement on future operation of traffic on the vital waterway—unless there is a radical change in Soviety policy.

Speaking at a news conference, Marshall declined to say whether the principle also applied to current talks in Moscow over the Berlin crisis and other German problems. But from the broad scope which he himself gave his remarks it appeared there was no question but that the rule does apply.

Silent On Moscow Talks

On the Moscow talks Marshall maintained the strict secrecy which the British, French, American and Soviet governments have all imposed from the beginning. He said that for him to go into detail about what is happening in Moscow would be a breach of faith.

Likewise, he declined to say anything about long-continuing negotiations between the United States and the Western European nations regarding American military support for Western Europe. These talks are going on in Washington under a secrecy agreement.

But when a reporter inquired whether in view of Russia's attitude, the Western Powers should continue to participate in the conference on Danube navigation, Marshall spoke at length.

The Danube conference, he said, provides an excellent example of the difficulties which the United States has encountered in all its negotiations to bring peace and stability to Europe.

The American government feels, he explained, that it should be willing to discuss European problems and should not assume in advance that agreement is impossible. Officials feel, he said, that the United States should keep on trying to reach agreement through negotiation.

U. S. Won't Sacrifice Principles

Still talking about the broad problem of negotiations rather than the Danube conference alone, he asserted that it is perfectly clear the United States must not seek agreement merely for agreement's sake. There are certain fundamentals to which this government attaches great importance. He made clear that the United States was unwill-

Two Arab-Jewish Gun Battles Rock Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Aug. 11. (INS)—Two Arab-Jewish gun battles shook Jerusalem today in the heaviest fighting in the area since the July 18 Palestine truce went into effect.

The fighting erupted in Jerusalem's southern Deir Abu Tor quarter and near the Zion Gate of the Arab-held walled city.

In the Zion Gate fight, one Jew was killed, and two others were wounded. The Arab Legion suffered an undetermined number of casualties.

Maurice Tobin Accepts Labor Secretary Post

BOSTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Maurice J. Tobin, 47-year-old former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, announced tonight he would acept the post of Secretary of Labor. He said he would not run for governor.

In accepting the Cabinet post, Tobin threw his support to former Masachusetts Attorney General Paul A. Dever for governor.

Tobin, nominated by President Truman in a surprise move just before the special session of Congress adjourned Saturday night, conferred at the White House yesterday on whether to accept the post, vacant since the death of Lewis B. Schwellenbach June 10.

Thurmond, Wright Blast Truman's Civil Rights Plan

Accept Nominations At Houston Meeting

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 11. (AP)—Cheering states' rights Democrats, launching a national campaign tonight, heard their presidential nominee attack the Truman civil rights program as "calling for a police state in this country."

"We sound a call for a return to constitutional government in America," Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, said in accepting his nomination.

His vice - presidential running mate, Gov. Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi, in his acceptances peech, asserted that the principle of states rights "is the only alternative to abject subjection to the tyranny of dictatorship."

9,000 Turn Out

H. O. Johnson, Coliseum manager, estimated the crowd at 8,000 to 9,000 persons. As the states' righters gathered four pickets of the Texas Progressive Party appeared briefly in front of the building.

The pickets distributed leaflets listing the platform of the Progressives and saying "the organized Dixiecrats operate in what is really only a sham battle with the Democrats."

They moved their line of march about a block away after an unidentified youngster rushed out, grabbed a sign, and began tearing it apart. They continued to distribute leaflets.

Former Gov. Frank Dixon, of Alabama, introduced both Wright and Thurmond. As each was introduced the band played and the crowd whooped it up.

14 States Represented

Markers indicated delegations present from Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, South Carolina, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida, Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, and Georgia.

Thurmond and Wright received formal notification of their nominations from leaders of the state Democratic Party organizations in Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

The Democratic Party in these states have named the states rights standard bearers as the party's official nominees.

Thurmond attacked federal anti-poll tax bill, the anti-lynching bill pending in Congress; said states had a right to handle segregation by "means and methods that will best promote harmonious relations," and called the proposed Federal Fair Employment Practices Commission "patterned after a Russian law written by Joseph Stalin about 1920."

Won't Produce Soviet Woman, Lomakin Says

Delicate Diplomatic Problem Is Whipped Up In Red Spy Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—A court fight suddenly whipped up a delicate diplomatic problem in the Russian spy case tonight—with a Soviet consul announcing his defiance of a New York state judge.

The State Department said the question involved is unprecedented. It wasn't taking sides yet.

The struggle centers around a middle-aged Soviet woman, Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, wanted by the House Un-American Activities Committee to see if she can shed light on stories of Soviet intrigue. She is secluded at the Soviet consulate in New York City—whisked there after "rescue" from anti-Comunist White Russians.

A suit was filed before Supreme Court Judge Samuel Dickstein in New York City by Common Cause, Inc., an anti-Comunist organization. It charged that Mrs. Kosenkina is held prisoner to keep her from exposing Soviet conditions. Dickstein issued a writ of habeas corpus and it was served on the consul general, Jacob Lomakin, as he entered the consulate. He went on in in silence.

But quickly he sent out word that as far as he is concerned he never was served. He said he will not produce Mrs. Kosenkina tomorow morning in court as ordered—and he won't be there himself either.

Is Writ Legally Binding?

Is the writ legally binding on Lomakin? State Department officials said it won't give an opinion unless it is asked officially. It was conferring informally with the Justice Department.

Secretary of State Marshall told reporters today that this government won't countenance any action which interferes with diplomatic immunity of Soviet officials and certain Soviet premises in this country. He apparently was referring to the Kosenkina case but that was before the writ was issued and the knotty new problem arose.

The suit was filed by Christopher Emmet, chairman of the board of Common Cause, which he described as "a movement to strengthen democracy and promote united American resistance to Communist aggression."

Earlier in the day, the House Committee on Un-American Activities heard Elizabeth T. Bentley link the Russian government and its Washington embassy to her wartime spying. She said she was handed $2,000 by an embassy official, who also told her that she had been awarded a Soviet medal.

The payoff took place, she testified, after she had told everything in secret to the FBI—and she believed protecting FBI men were hovering near when she accepted 100 $20 bills from the Russian on a New York street corner in 1945.

Britain Warns She May Balk At Danube Pact

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 11. (AP)—Britain warned tonight she may not approve the new Danubian shipping pact now being drafted along the pattern of giving the Communist states control over the vital European waterway.

Sir Charles Peake, the British ambassador, said participation of the United Kingdom delegation in the conference is without prejudice to its rights and privileges under the 1921 Danubian convention.

British authorities here said this was, in effect, notice to the conference that Britain may not approve a new pact and insist upon a ruling later, probably by the International Court of Justice at The Hague, on whether the 1921 convention is still valid.

Rules Tossed Out To Let Girl Be Nurse To Brother

ATLANTA, Aug. 11 (AP) — A great big hospital, faced with the pleas of snaggle-toothed, pig-tailed Linda Jane Blanchard, 7, threw away the rule book to let her be a real-life nurse to her six-year-old brother, Tommy.

Tommy entered the hospital two weeks ago with a serious kidney ailment and the doctor suggested that one of the parents remain with him at all times, mostly to keep him from fretting.

But the press of housekeeping and work made it pretty difficult for Mr. and Mrs. T. Wayne Blanchard to keep things going as they should so Linda Jane stepped up.

Emory University Hospital authorities were a little dubious at first, but after all . . .

So Linda Jane moved into Tommy's room. She trots around at his whim for water and ice, sees to it that he eats every bite, reads the funny books for him and wheels him around on visits to other patients.

At night she trundles out the cot she keeps under Tommy's bed and sleeps, almost with one eye open, just in case he might need a regular nurse.

After considerable family consultation Linda Jane's professional fee was set at $2 per day.

Linda Jane thought about that for a spell, finally investigated the ethics of the nursing profession and could find nothing about rebating part of a fee to a patient. So she now splits with Tommy.

Tommy is suffering from the relatively rare kidney disease — nephrotic syndrome — which causes his body to swell. One treatment is the injection of salt-free albumin.

The national supply of the albumin is limited but the Red Cross authorized the shipment of 30 doses to Tommy. It arrived yesterday by air from Washington.

National Guard Federalization Plan Is Opposed

Gen. Walsh Against Peacetime Merger

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The National Guard Association today resisted with all its force a proposal that would let the Army absorb the guard in peacetime.

However, Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the association, said he favored a law that would automatically put the guard into the Army and Air Force in case of an emergency.

Yesterday a special Defense Department advisory committee after long study recommended that the guard, now under state control, be placed under federal control.

A major reason for the proposal was that in case of war technicalities might slow the guard in going into action.

Congress first has to authorize such use of the guard troops, and all guard property and equipment must be formally transferred to the federal government by the individual states.

Walsh, in a telegram from Minnesota to the association's national headquarters today, said this delay could be eliminated by amending the National Defense Act, so that the National Guard would pass instantly to the Army and Air Force in event of an emergency, without waiting for action by Congress.

He said he had even recommended the plan to the Defense Committee while it was studying its recommendations.

He was emphatic in his opposition to the peacetime merger, however, and he was promptly joined by other guard and state officials.

Walsh said the guard will fight the plan "at every turn", adding that state control of the National Guard "is practically the last bastion in the fortress of state rights."

He predicted that the various states, aided by Congress, would join the guard in a battle against efforts of "bureaucrats to centralize all power in Washington."

"Obnoxious," Reckord Says

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ranking officers of the National Guard in Maryland and West Virginia tonight opposed a recommendation to place the state units under exclusive federal jurisdiction.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Adjutant General of Maryland, called "obnoxious" the proposal of the "Gray board" of the Committee on Civilian Components. He promised he'd have more to say after studying the full report made to the national military establishment.

Brig. Gen. Charles R. Fox, Adjutant General of West Virginia, called the proposal "dangerous and unwise.

By DREW PEARSON

It is now possible to give further details of the cautiously guarded "war or peace" talks being held inside the Kremlin. The technica delays of coding and decoding these talks have kept Washington somewhat behind, but the following is the most up-to-date summary available even at the highest levels of government.

The conferences in Moscow opened with the Western Powers bluntly asking the immediate lifting of the Berlin blockade. Molotov kicked this one upstairs to Stalin.

When the three western envoys saw Stalin all was "peaches and cream." Butter wouldn't have melted in Stalin's mouth. He spoke of his friendship for President Truman and Secretary Marshall, also of his admiration of British Foreign Minister Bevin. Stalin even invited American Ambassador Smith to drop around to his apartment for a drink "now or anytime."

The three western envoys left Stalin's office in the Kremlin with hopes soaring. The Russian dictator had indicated his assent to all western demands, including lifting of the blockade, a Big-Four conference on Germany, a permanent corridor to Berlin, recognition of the West's right to stay in Berlin and just about everything else that was discussed.

Reds Put Demands To Envoys

But several days later, when the ambassadors came to grips with Molotov, whose name in Russian means, "The Hammer," things were not so smooth. In fact, they've been getting tougher ever since.

Molotov made several sharp demands on the West. They included the following:

1. Western acceptance of Soviet currency for all Berlin.

2. Indefinite delay by the West of the formation of a Western German government.

3. Four-power control of the Ruhr with Russia sharing in the production of that rich industrial area.

4. A four-power meeting in Paris at which the problems of Germany, Austria and other outstanding European questions could be discussed.

5. A firm agenda for the Big-Four meeting to be agreed to by the West in advance.

The three ambassadors cabled these demands back to London, Washington and Paris late last week. The response of their governments was unanimous and firm.

U. S. Envoy Firm to Molotov

The West was willing to agree to Soviet currency for Berlin, but not as a condition for lifting the blockade. It was also willing to agree to a four-power meeting in Paris as originally stated to Molotov and Stalin, but again not as a payment for lifting the blockade.

Contract For Two Big Liners Is Let

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) — The largest contract ever let by the Maritime Commission called today for construction of two passenger vessels costing about $25,000,000 each for the American Export Lines, Inc.

The ships, 683 feet long with a top speed of about 25 knots, will be the second largest merchant ships to be built in this country and the first passenger ships constructed here since the war.

The contractor is the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Quincy, Mass. The ships are scheduled for service in the Mediterranean trade.

The vessels will accomodate 972 passengers and crews of 551 each. They will contain 360 staterooms.

A commission announcement said that the award marks the first agreement by the shipping industry to participate in the merchant shipbuilding program jointly with the commission and national defense officials following Congress' authorization of $94,000,000 in contracts.

The government will pay 45 per cent of the construction costs based on the difference in cost of building the vessels in American and foreign yards, as authorized by the 1936 Merchant Marine Act.

Commencement of a shipbuilding program will help American shipyards to regain "serious losses" in experienced shipbuilding personnel, a situation that has caused concern from a national defense standpoint, the commission said.

"Government officials are hopeful that other steamship lines will also agree to participate in the program," the commission said.

Divorce Granted Man Unable To Learn Polka

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 12. (AP)—A husband who claimed his wife punished him because he could not dance the polka was granted a divorce today.

Because of his inability to learn the dance, Robert H. Smith, Erie, Pa., said his wife slapped and kicked him until his weight dropped from 165 pounds to 140.

Probate Court Judge Thomas Staples granted the decree on grounds of cruelty.

Man And Wife Begin Trip Around World In "Duck"

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP) — An Australian major and his American wife were reported several hundred miles at sea tonight in a converted amphibian "duck" they hope will take them around the world by land and water.

The daring voyage that began here without fanfare last Saturday was disclosed today by an associate of the Australian, after a Navy destroyer was said to have sighted the strange 17-foot craft. Ducks were used during the war to shuttle men and supplies from ship to shore and other purposes.

The destroyer reportedly saw "two women" in the amhibious duck about 150 miles off New York at 6:10 p. m. Monday. Its occupants hailed the ship and asked that "Lynch," at a New York City telephone number, be notified that they were okay."

Today Ware Lynch, president of a public relations agency, revealed that he had received a message from the Navy's Eastern Sea Frontier.

The "two women," he said, were Maj. Benjamin F. Carlin, 35, and his wife, the former Elinore Arone, 29, Boston.

Lynch told this story of the Australian's attempt to do "what everybody tells him he's crazy to try":

A mining engineer from Perth, Australia Carlin was serving in China when he got the idea of making one of the small land-and-water vehicles into a sea-going craft.

With Army pay he had saved up, Carlin bought the truck from the Army for $901. At Arlington, Va., he spent many hours and $9,000 of his savings to convert it.

He placed a transparent plastic hood over the top of the truck on an iron frame, and installed a bigger propeller. A 500-gallon gasoline tank was installed under the truck —to go on top when it rode on land.

The whole body was coated with rubberized paint. The tiny "cabin" was equipped with radio and a jumble of other equipment, with a 4½-foot bench where only one could sleep at a time.

GRIEF-- Mrs. James F. Evans, Omaha, her face mirroring grief, holds her 14-month-old daughter, Leann, just after the child's head was stepped upon yesterday by a horse. The child, who had been playing in the yard near the untethered horse, died after being taken to a hospital. Giving assistance is Police Patrolman John R. Wilhelm.

Truman Backers May Take Legal Action In Dixie

Contend Electors Bound By State Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) — Democratic Party officers said today that pro-Truman forces may resort to court action in some southern states to compel Democratic electors to vote for the Truman-Barkley ticket.

They said the national committee itself is adopting a hands-off attitude, but that the question may be raised locally.

Alabama's 11 and Mississippi's nine electors already have been pledged to vote in the electoral college for the states' rights ticket headed by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, and Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi.

Truman Plans Campaign

Party officials here profess not to know how the people of those states may get a chance to choose between the Truman-Barkley and Thurmond-Wright tickets.

But they indicated legal action may be taken locally, contending that state laws bind electors to vote for the nominees of the regular Democratic national convention if the state's popular majority goes Democratic.

Meanwhile, President Truman was reported by White House callers today as planning a "vigorous, active and personal campaign," opening with a speech at a Labor Day rally in Detroit. They said, too, that he may speak at least once in Indiana.

Officers of a newly-formed Truman-Barkley club also announced after a White House conference with the President and Sen. Barkley, of Kentucky, his running mate, that they intend to organize nationally. They added they will try to raise $3,000,000, the maximum allowed each national political committee.

Dewey And Scott Confer

On the Republican side today, Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., GOP national chairman, conferred at Albany with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, on campaign plans.

Then, in an address prepared for delivery to a dinner of Young Republicans, Scott declared the Truman administration is not being honest with the people on the issues of inflation, prices, taxes, and cost of government.

"Our campaign is to re-establish honest government in Washington," he asserted. "x x x We do not have honest government under the Truman administration."

Agreement For Agreement's Sake Is Ruled Out By Marshall

Swedish Vessel Burning In Bay Near Baltimore

Two Coast Guard cutters and three fireboats were battling the fire in the hold of the S.S. Axel Salen 12 miles out of Baltimore. One cutter was pouring chemical foam directly into the hold and the fireboats were spraying the sides which already were peeled of paint by the heat.

The rescue ships went to the aid of the burning 7,500 gross ton vessel shortly before 9 p. m. when the cutter Appalachee intercepted its call for help.

Soviets Ridicule No-Accord Idea

MOSCOW, Aug. 11. (AP)—The first editorial comment in the Soviet press on the East-West diplomatic meetings here appeared today. It scoffed at the idea that there are no grounds for compromise between Russia and the Western Powers on Germany.

Authoritative sources predicted the representatives of the United States, Britain and France would meet soon again with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to discuss further the Berlin situation and kindred subjects.

The time for such a conference was not determined. The informants said the western diplomats must first co-ordinate the reactions of their governments to proposals made by Molotov on Monday. Secrecy surrounded what ground has been covered thus far toward settling East-West differences.

The publication New Times carried the first comment on the East-West meetings. It ridiculed statements published abroad that there is "no ground for compromise between the Western Powers and the Soviet Union on the German question."

New Times said this attitude had been taken by the French newspaper L'Epoch. The London Economist came in for similar criticism.

Secretary Of State Maintains Secrecy On Moscow Parley

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today laid down the principle that in negotiating with the Russians the United States must not seek agreement merely for agreement's sake.

He applied this rule specifically to the international conference on Danube River navigation now underway at Belgrade, Yugoslavia. His words virtually foretold the failure of this meeting to produce East-West agreement on future operation of traffic on the vital waterway—unless there is a radical change in Soviety policy.

Speaking at a news conference, Marshall declined to say whether the principle also applied to current talks in Moscow over the Berlin crisis and other German problems. But from the broad scope which he himself gave his remarks it appeared there was no question but that the rule does apply.

Silent On Moscow Talks

On the Moscow talks Marshall maintained the strict secrecy which the British, French, American and Soviet governments have all imposed from the beginning. He said that for him to go into detail about what is happening in Moscow would be a breach of faith.

Likewise, he declined to say anything about long-continuing negotiations between the United States and the Western European nations regarding American military support for Western Europe. These talks are going on in Washington under a secrecy agreement.

But when a reporter inquired whether in view of Russia's attitude, the Western Powers should continue to participate in the conference on Danube navigation, Marshall spoke at length.

The Danube conference, he said, provides an excellent example of the difficulties which the United States has encountered in all its negotiations to bring peace and stability to Europe.

The American government feels, he explained, that it should be willing to discuss European problems and should not assume in advance that agreement is impossible. Officials feel, he said, that the United States should keep on trying to reach agreement through negotiation.

U. S. Won't Sacrifice Principles

Still talking about the broad problem of negotiations rather than the Danube conference alone, he asserted that it is perfectly clear the United States must not seek agreement merely for agreement's sake. There are certain fundamentals to which this government attaches great importance. He made clear that the United States was unwill-

Two Arab-Jewish Gun Battles Rock Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Aug. 11. (INS)—Two Arab-Jewish gun battles shook Jerusalem today in the heaviest fighting in the area since the July 18 Palestine truce went into effect.

The fighting erupted in Jerusalem's southern Deir Abu Tor quarter and near the Zion Gate of the Arab-held walled city.

In the Zion Gate fight, one Jew was killed, and two others were wounded. The Arab Legion suffered an undetermined number of casualties.

Maurice Tobin Accepts Labor Secretary Post

BOSTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Maurice J. Tobin, 47-year-old former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, announced tonight he would acept the post of Secretary of Labor. He said he would not run for governor.

In accepting the Cabinet post, Tobin threw his support to former Massachusetts Attorney General Paul A. Dever for governor.

Tobin, nominated by President Truman in a surprise move just before the special session of Congress adjourned Saturday night, conferred at the White House yesterday on whether to accept the post, vacant since the death of Lewis B. Schwellenbach June 10.

Thurmond, Wright Blast Truman's Civil Rights Plan

Accept Nominations At Houston Meeting

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 11. (AP)—Cheering states' rights Democrats, launching a national campaign tonight, heard their presidential nominee attack the Truman civil rights program as "calling for a police state in this country."

"We sound a call for a return to constitutional government in America," Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, said in accepting his nomination.

His vice - presidential running mate, Gov. Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi, in his acceptances peech, asserted that the principle of states rights "is the only alternative to abject subjection to the tyranny of dictatorship."

9,000 Turn Out

H. O. Johnson, Coliseum manager, estimated the crowd at 8,000 to 9,000 persons. As the states' righters gathered four pickets of the Texas Progressive Party appeared briefly in front of the building.

The pickets distributed leaflets listing the platform of the Progressives and saying "the organized Dixiecrats operate in what is really only a sham battle with the Democrats."

They moved their line of march about a block away after an unidentified youngster rushed out, grabbed a sign, and began tearing it apart. They continued to distribute leaflets.

Former Gov. Frank Dixon, of Alabama, introduced both Wright and Thurmond. As each was introduced the band played and the crowd whooped it up.

14 States Represented

Markers indicated delegations present from Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, South Carolina, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida, Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, and Georgia.

Thurmond and Wright received formal notification of their nominations from leaders of the state Democratic Party organizations in Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

The Democratic Party in these states have named the states rights standard bearers as the party's official nominees.

Thurmond attacked federal anti-poll tax bill, the anti-lynching bill pending in Congress; said states had a right to handle segregation by "means and methods that will best promote harmonious relations," and called the proposed Federal Fair Employment Practices Commission "patterned after a Russian law written by Joseph Stalin about 1920."

Won't Produce Soviet Woman, Lomakin Says

Delicate Diplomatic Problem Is Whipped Up In Red Spy Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—A court fight suddenly whipped up a delicate diplomatic problem in the Russian spy case tonight—with a Soviet consul announcing his defiance of a New York state judge.

The State Department said the question involved is unprecedented. It wasn't taking sides yet.

The struggle centers around a middle-aged Soviet woman, Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, wanted by the House Un-American Activities Committee to see if she can shed light on stories of Soviet intrigue. She is secluded at the Soviet consulate in New York City —whisked there after "rescue" from anti-Comunist White Russians.

A suit was filed before Supreme Court Judge Samuel Dickstein in New York City by Common Cause, Inc., an anti-Comunist organization. It charged that Mrs. Kosenkina is held prisoner to keep her from exposing Soviet conditions. Dickstein issued a writ of habeas corpus and it was served on the consul general, Jacob Lomakin, as he entered the consulate. He went on in in silence.

But quickly he sent out word that as far as he is concerned he never was served. He said he will not produce Mrs. Kosenkina tomorrow morning in court as ordered—and he won't be there himself either.

Is Writ Legally Binding?

Is the writ legally binding on Lomakin? State Department officials said it won't give an opinion unless it is asked officially. It was conferring informally with the Justice Department.

Secretary of State Marshall told reporters today that this government won't countenance any action which interferes with diplomatic immunity of Soviet officials and certain Soviet premises in this country. He apparently was referring to the Kosenkina case but that was before the writ was issued and the knotty new problem arose.

The suit was filed by Christopher Emmet, chairman of the board of Common Cause, which he described as "a movement to strengthen democracy and promote united American resistance to Communist aggression."

Earlier in the day, the House Committee on Un-American Activities heard Elizabeth T. Bentley link the Russian government and its Washington embassy to her wartime spying. She said she was handed $2,000 by an embassy official, who also told her that she had been awarded a Soviet medal.

The payoff took place, she testified, after she had told everything in secret to the FBI—and she believed protecting FBI men were hovering near when she accepted 100 $20 bills from the Russian on a New York street corner in 1945.

Britain Warns She May Balk At Danube Pact

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 11. (AP)—Britain warned tonight she may not approve the new Danubian shipping pact now being drafted along the pattern of giving the Communist states control over the vital European waterway.

Sir Charles Peake, the British ambassador, said participation of the United Kingdom delegation in the conference is without prejudice to its rights and privileges under the 1921 Danubian convention.

British authorities here said this was, in effect, notice to the conference that Britain may not approve a new pact and insist upon a ruling later, probably by the International Court of Justice at The Hague, on whether the 1921 convention is still valid.

Rules Tossed Out To Let Girl Be Nurse To Brother

ATLANTA, Aug. 11 (AP) — A great big hospital, faced with the pleas of snaggle-toothed, pig-tailed Linda Jane Blanchard, 7, threw away the rule book to let her be a real-life nurse to her six-year-old brother, Tommy.

Tommy entered the hospital two weeks ago with a serious kidney ailment and the doctor suggested that one of the parents remain with him at all times, mostly to keep him from fretting.

But the press of housekeeping and work made it pretty difficult for Mr. and Mrs. T. Wayne Blanchard to keep things going as they should so Linda Jane stepped up.

Emory University Hospital authorities were a little dubious at first, but after all . . .

So Linda Jane moved into Tommy's room. She trots around at his whim for water and ice, sees to it that he eats every bite, reads the funny books for him and wheels him around on visits to other patients.

At night she trundles out the cot she keeps under Tommy's bed and sleeps, almost with one eye open, just in case he might need a regular nurse.

After considerable family consultation Linda Jane's professional fee was set at $2 per day.

Linda Jane thought about that for a spell, finally investigated the ethics of the nursing profession and could find nothing about rebating part of a fee to a patient. So she now splits with Tommy.

Tommy is suffering from the relatively rare kidney disease — nephrotic syndrome — which causes his body to swell. One treatment is the injection of salt-free albumin.

The national supply of the albumin is limited but the Red Cross authorized the shipment of 30 doses to Tommy. It arrived yesterday by air from Washington.

Maharajah Charged With Dipping Into State Treasury Heads Home

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Maharajah of Baroda said today he would fly to India to face charges he financed an almost $10,000,000 six-week spending spree by dipping into the state treasury.

In a ship-to-shore conversation with the Associated Press before he arrived at Southampton on the Queen Elizabeth tonight, the Maharajah scoffed at the charges, which were made by the Baroda Legislature.

"Someone must have put out this rumor about me," he said.

He refused to say whether he would give in to the legislature's demand for his abdication and had "nothing to say" about complaints among the almost 3,500,000 people of his princely state on his extensive horse racing activities.

He would not say when he intended to fly to India except that it would be "very shortly" and declined to say whether he would take his wife and young son, who have been staying in England, with him.

The Maharajah, one of the world's richest men, dodged newsmen when the ship docked and sped away by car to London, where it was understood his private plane was waiting to fly him to Paris.

Reporters found out after he had gone that he had hidden in a stateroom near a gangplank while they swarmed over the ship searching for him. He dashed with a Cunard official to a seldom-used customs shed, where his young wife was waiting in a limousine.

Testifying in the probe, the 40-year-old star witness said she later learned the Rusian was Anatol Gromov, first secretary of the embassy, although she knew him then only as "Al"—a Soviet contact man.

Samarin To Tell Story

He previously had told her about the medal, she said, and that it was awarded by the Soviet Supreme Council. He showed it to her in a box, with the award described in a little book with her name on it, she said.

(At the Russian Embassy, an informant said the press secretary was out and therefore no comment was available.

State Department officials said their records showed that an Anatol Gromov was the embassy's first secretary from September 1944, to Februery, 1946.)

Testimony of Miss Bentley again highlighted the spy investigation, which also developed:

1. Henry H. Collins, Jr., 43-year-old former military government officer, denied he had done espionage for any foreign power or broken any United States law. He refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist. Collins was accused by Whittaker Chambers, an avowed former Communist, of having been treasurer of a prewar Comunist underground here.

2. Announcement that a special three-man subcommittee will go to New York City tomorrow and in closed session hear from Michael Invanovitch Samarin and his wife. Samarin is a former teacher of children of Soviet diplomats here who is in hiding from Russian officials and says he wants to remain in this country. The State Deartment has cold-shouldered an embassy demand that he be handed over.

Four Youths Rescued After Boat Capsizes

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md., Aug. 11 (AP) — Four vacationing Washington youths were rescued today by a fishing boat from a capsized sailing boat to which they clung for four hours in Chesapeake Bay.

Captain Al St. John heard the boys yelling about five miles from shore. They were taken aboard and identified as John Brennan, Charles McComb, James Hill and Leroy Vandenberg.

"Voice" Broadcasts Soon To Reach Soviet Ukraine

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The State Department is preparing to start Voice of America broadcasts to the Soviet Ukraine as part of a huge expansion of American foreign broadcast operations.

Ten new languages will be added to the 22 tongues in which the "Voice of America" programs now reach people around the world.

Most interest, however, centers on plans for the Ukrainian program which will be the first in the "Voice series" directed at a political subdivision of the Soviet Union. It will be in addition to the standard Russian language broadcasts.

Body Of Once-Famous Singer-Actress Claimed

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The body of May De Sousa, world famous singer and actress of yesteryear, will not be buried in a potter's field after all.

May, who sang her way from Chicago's lusty Tenderloin District to command performances before European royalty, died Sunday of malnutrition. An obscure charity case, her body lay unclaimed in the county morgue for three days. The once-glamorous 66-year-old widow had been working as a part time scrubwoman.

Today when news leaked out of her death, undertakers offered free burial and a sister-in-law claimed the body.

Baltimore Man Indicted In Strangling Of Girl

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11. (AP)—Duncan Livingstone, Jr., 25, was indicted by a Baltimore grand jury today on a charge of slaying the 18-year-old girl with whom he was once engaged.

Livingstone is in a hospital for treatment of bullet wounds. Police have guarded him ever since he was taken from a car at Aberdeen early in the morning of July 31, bleeding profusely from the chest.

Beside him, when police found the car, was the body of Shirley Will. Doctors said she had been strangled.

Woman Plunges To Her Death From Top Of Dam

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11. (AP)—With five persons watching helplessly, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Walterick, 58, Towson, plummeted 117 feet from the top of Loch Raven Dam to death on the rocky spillway base last night.

Dr. Rollin C. Hudson, Baltimore County medical examiner, said the woman's neck was broken and other bones fractured in the fall.

Maharajah Charged With Dipping Into State Treasury Heads Home

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Maharajah of Baroda said today he would fly to India to face charges he financed an almost $10,000,000 six-week spending spree by dipping into the state treasury.

In a ship-to-shore conversation with the Associated Press before he arrived at Southampton on the Queen Elizabeth tonight, the Maharajah scoffed at the charges, which were made by the Baroda Legislature.

"Someone must have put out this rumor about me," he said.

He refused to say whether he would give in to the legislature's demand for his abdication and had "nothing to say" about complaints among the almost 3,500,000 people of his princely state on his extensive horse racing activities.

He would not say when he intended to fly to India except that it would be "very shortly" and declined to say whether he would take his wife and young son, who have been staying in England, with him.

The Maharajah, one of the world's richest men, dodged newsmen when the ship docked and sped away by car to London, where it was understood his private plane was waiting to fly him to Paris.

Reporters found out after he had gone that he had hidden in a stateroom near a gangplank while they swarmed over the ship searching for him. He dashed with a Cunard official to a seldom-used customs shed, where his young wife was waiting in a limousine.

Testifying in the probe, the 40-year-old star witness said she later learned the Rusian was Anatol Gromov, first secretary of the embassy, although she knew him then only as "Al"—a Soviet contact man.

Samarin To Tell Story

He previously had told her about the medal, she said, and that it was awarded by the Soviet Supreme Council. He showed it to her in a box, with the award described in a little book with her name on it, she said.

(At the Russian Embassy, an informant said the press secretary was out and therefore no comment was available.

State Department officials said their records showed that an Anatol Gromov was the embassy's first secretary from September 1944, to Februery, 1946.)

Testimony of Miss Bentley again highlighted the spy investigation, which also developed:

1. Henry H. Collins, Jr., 43-year-old former military government officer, denied he had done espionage for any foreign power or broken any United States law. He refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist. Collins was accused by Whittaker Chambers, an avowed former Communist, of having been treasurer of a prewar Comunist underground here.

2. Announcement that a special three-man subcommittee will go to New York City tomorrow and in closed session hear from Michael Invanovitch Samarin and his wife. Samarin is a former teacher of children of Soviet diplomats here who is in hiding from Russian officials and says he wants to remain in this country. The State Deartment has cold-shouldered an embassy demand that he be handed over.

Four Youths Rescued After Boat Capsizes

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md., Aug. 11 (AP) — Four vacationing Washington youths were rescued today by a fishing boat from a capsized sailing boat to which they clung for four hours in Chesapeake Bay.

Captain Al St. John heard the boys yelling about five miles from shore. They were taken aboard and identified as John Brennan, Charles McComb, James Hill and Leroy Vandenberg.

"Voice" Broadcasts Soon To Reach Soviet Ukraine

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The State Department is preparing to start Voice of America broadcasts to the Soviet Ukraine as part of a huge expansion of American foreign broadcast operations.

Ten new languages will be added to the 22 tongues in which the "Voice of America" programs now reach people around the world.

Most interest, however, centers on plans for the Ukrainian program which will be the first in the "Voice series" directed at a political subdivision of the Soviet Union. It will be in addition to the standard Russian language broadcasts.

Body Of Once-Famous Singer-Actress Claimed

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The body of May De Sousa, world famous singer and actress of yesteryear, will not be buried in a potter's field after all.

May, who sang her way from Chicago's lusty Tenderloin District to command performances before European royalty, died Sunday of malnutrition. An obscure charity case, her body lay unclaimed in the county morgue for three days. The once-glamorous 66-year-old widow had been working as a part time scrubwoman.

Today when news leaked out of her death, undertakers offered free burial and a sister-in-law claimed the body.

Baltimore Man Indicted In Strangling Of Girl

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11. (AP)—Duncan Livingstone, Jr., 25, was indicted by a Baltimore grand jury today on a charge of slaying the 18-year-old girl with whom he was once engaged.

Livingstone is in a hospital for treatment of bullet wounds. Police have guarded him ever since he was taken from a car at Aberdeen early in the morning of July 31, bleeding profusely from the chest.

Beside him, when police found the car, was the body of Shirley Will. Doctors said she had been strangled.

Woman Plunges To Her Death From Top Of Dam

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11. (AP)—With five persons watching helplessly, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Walterick, 58, Towson, plummeted 117 feet from the top of Loch Raven Dam to death on the rocky spillway base last night.

Dr. Rollin C. Hudson, Baltimore County medical examiner, said the woman's neck was broken and other bones fractured in the fall.

Bats, Bacteria Make Potassium Nitrate

MOSCOW—(AP)—A large number of bats in a cave near Ashkhabad are turning out valuable saltpeter without the aid of man.

The newspaper "Turkmenian Iskra," relating the story of the Durnsky cave, said, "All production is carried on by bats and bacteria. Tens of thousands of bats which inhabit this cave produce the raw material necessary for the production of saltpeter while the millions of bacteria change this first into humus, then into ammonial salt and then into saltpeter.

"As a result of activity of many ages one can see how all this is formed. The upper layer consists of fresh bat manure under which is a thick layer of humus and then follows the layer of ammonial salt under which is saltpeter. This is a rare case which proves the theory of nitrification."

Tax Relief Should Be General in Scope

At long last, Governor Lane has discovered that his Administration has been demanding too much money in taxes from the people of this State. That fact became known a day or so ago when Mr. Lane suggested that the Board of Revenue Estimates prepare a new compilation of the expected tax collections during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1949.

Governor Lane is frank enough in stating that a surplus of $20,773,515 which has piled up in the treasury during the past year is too much. He says he hopes that it will be possible to lessen this monetary burden on individuals through the levying of income taxes on fewer people. In face of the latest estimate, covering the current fiscal year the present surplus would be increased $5,000,000, for a total of more than $25,000,000.

If it hadn't, it should have dawned on Mr. Lane as long ago as last November that much more money than the State would require was being accumulated through the payment of income taxes and the retail sales tax—the one revenue source which is causing increased irritation among the people. He was reluctant, even then, to offer any relief from this but finally gave his approval to a change which advanced the starting point for collecting this levy from 10 to 13 cents. But the in-take has continued upward until the excess from this source alone amounts to approximately $9,000,000 over what had been estimated it would yield.

Realizing, no doubt, that it is not good politics to keep dipping into the pockets of the people (already over-burdened by demands of the Federal government) for more revenue than is needed to meet the State's proposed programs and obligations, Gov. Lane is now seeking ways to correct this error. It is doubtful if he is going to make much of a dent in the surplus if the cut in income taxes, he tentatively proposes, is limited to those in the low income brackets.

Mr. Lane's Board of Revenue Estimates should keep in mind, in attempting a readjustment of this tax, that under the provisions of a measure which Gov. Lane sponsored two of the three income rates are slated to be advanced next April. The earned income rate will be increased from 2 to 2½ per cent, while the rate against corporations will be jumped from 1½ to 4 per cent. The present rate of 5 per cent against incomes from investments will remain at that figure. Is it the intention of Governor Lane to have those changes revoked? We think they should be. In fact, consideration should be given to repeal of the income tax altogether and reducing the sales tax to the very minimum, in the light of collections from that source during the past year.

The Governor and his administration has shown little in the way of accuracy in estimating what the income and sales taxes would produce. They erred badly, and while it may be pointed out that in doing so they erred on the side of safety, it can also be pointed out that such a resulting surplus was not in accordance with sound taxing principle.

The error has been recognized, however, and it to be hoped that the imposition on the taxpayers will be corrected without too much delay. But the relief given should be general in scope and not confined to a minority.

War On Insects Being Won At Maryland Station

The fear that insects some day will overrun and destroy mankind is without basis in fact. At least that is the comforting word that comes from the research center of the Federal Department of Agriculture in the Maryland community of Beltsville, where the weapons are being forged to enable man to retain his supremacy over bugs and bacteria.

According to government scientists, who were hosts at the Maryland research center the other day to fellow-scientists from 42 nations, the means are already at hand to keep most of the world's food-destroying and disease-producing insects under control. The guns that are being used in this war include aircraft of all types and, of course, such things as mist-makers, sprayers and death-dealing insecticides.

But man is not yet out of the woods. It is stated, for instance, by Norris E. Dodd, Undersecretary of Agriculture, that in the United States alone, 10 per cent of all crops raised are destroyed by insects before they reach the market. The toll that was thus taken from the grain crops last year is estimated at 300,000,000 bushels.

And there are millions of square miles of territory where people cannot live safely today because of diseases that are spread by flies and mosquitos. Before the rich resources of these regions can be tapped for man's benefit, the scientists will have to make the lands inhabitable. That is the problem they are working on now.

In any event, it is reassuring to learn that we are not only holding our own against the insects but have good prospects of defeating them altogether.

Big City Bosses Are Finding Selves In Trouble

Two men slain and five wounded in post-election shootings in the hills of eastern Tennessee, served to highlight something important at the other end of the Volunteer State. Ed. H. Crump, Tennessee boss and czar of the big river city of Memphis, took a beating in the Democratic state primary, last week. His candidates for United States Senator and Governor were both defeated, and Representative Estes Kefauver, successful senatorial candidate, did nearly as well in Memphis as Crump's man did. This was the latter's first major ballot box defeat in 20 years.

The incident warrants a survey of the group to which Crump belongs Pendergast of Kansas City went to prison and died in retirement. Some of the bosses are getting old Crump and Hague of Jersey City are both septuagenarians. In order to save their tickets, Hague and other Big Shots in the eastern cities tried desperately to unhorse Truman and nominate Eisenhower at the Democratic convention and failing, swung in again behind the President—an inglorious spectacle. Does the Twilight of the Big City Bosses (Democrats all) impend?

Everybody likes to see the man who poses as an expert take a header which is why people read the weather forecasts.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

HOW TO KEE PWELL—Aug 12 ...

Management Of Animal Bites

Dr. Van Dellen

The bite of a cat is said to be more serious that that of a dog, because the bacteria in kitty's mouth are more harmful to man. Furthermore, its teeth are sharper and smaller and as such are capable of penetrating like a needle. As a result, germs are trapped beneath the skin, a situation that invites infection. But the scratch of a cat's paw is less likely to become infected than that of old Rover because dogs are not particular where they roam; their nails are dirty and harbor millions of organisms capable of contaminating an open wound.

Regardless of the type of injury, it is best treated by cleansing the area thoroughly with soap and water, applying an antiseptic, and covering the region with a sterile bandage. The value of cauterization is questionable and nowadays, most physicians believe that washing away the contaminated material is better than attempting to destroy it with nitric acid. Furthermore, strong solutions impair the surrounding tissues, making them less capable of fighting infection.

The main trouble with dog bites revolves about the question of rabies. The very thought of this possibility is terrifying; consequently, most individuals who are bitten waste little time in seeking medical aid.

The problem must be handled with common sense. Rabid dogs are more likely to be strays than pets. In addition, a sick canine has the desire to wander far and wide, proceeding at a running gait, and biting everything in sight. Of greater importance is the fact that these infected dogs usually die within 48 hours after developing unmistakable signs of the disease. Thus if the animal can be found and isolated, the question as to whether he is rabid solves itself in a hurry. On the other hand, if it remains alive, it can be released after ten days to two weeks and is none the worse for its experience. Owners should be willing to part with their pets or keep them confined for this length of time because rabies is a serious malady and no unnecessary chances should be taken.

A delay of two or three days while awaiting to make certain is not hazardous because the Pasteur treatment offers protection in 95 per cent of all cases even when administered six days after being bitten. When the dog cannot be found, the problem becomes more complex. In the circumstances, the Pasteur injections are recommended because there is no way of knowing. If other cases appear in the neighborhood, the possibility that the animal has the disease is greater. But no one can afford to wait because once the malady develops, the outcome is invariably fatal.

Rabies is on the increase among animals in many communities. This is true particularly in rural areas where dogs are bitten by wolves, foxes, squirrels, etc. To combat this danger, health authorities are now advising routine vaccination of dogs. In this way, we can save our pets as well as ourselves.

LAZY BOY

F. M. writes: My 15 year old son is strong but has no inclination to work. Is he lacking in vitamins?

Reply

If vitamins were the answer, we would have heard about it long ago. Give the young man time to develop an incentive. Some persons are less ambitious than others but the solution will not come from nagging.

POOR CIRCULATION

M.C.L. writes: Can you tell me something about blood vessels in the leg, that do not dilate?

Reply

In this condition, the tissues of the legs do not obtain their full quota of blood. As a result, they are cold and painful, especially on walking. In the more severe forms, these symptoms arise even when resting in bed.

THE SAME

T. T. writes: Does premature change of life due to total hysterectomy differ in any way from the ordinary menopause?

Reply

Not if the ovaries were removed in addition to the uterus.

SUN AND T. B.

T. B. writes: Is it permissible for an arrested case of tuberculosis to sit in the sun an hour or two, provided the chest is covered properly?

Reply

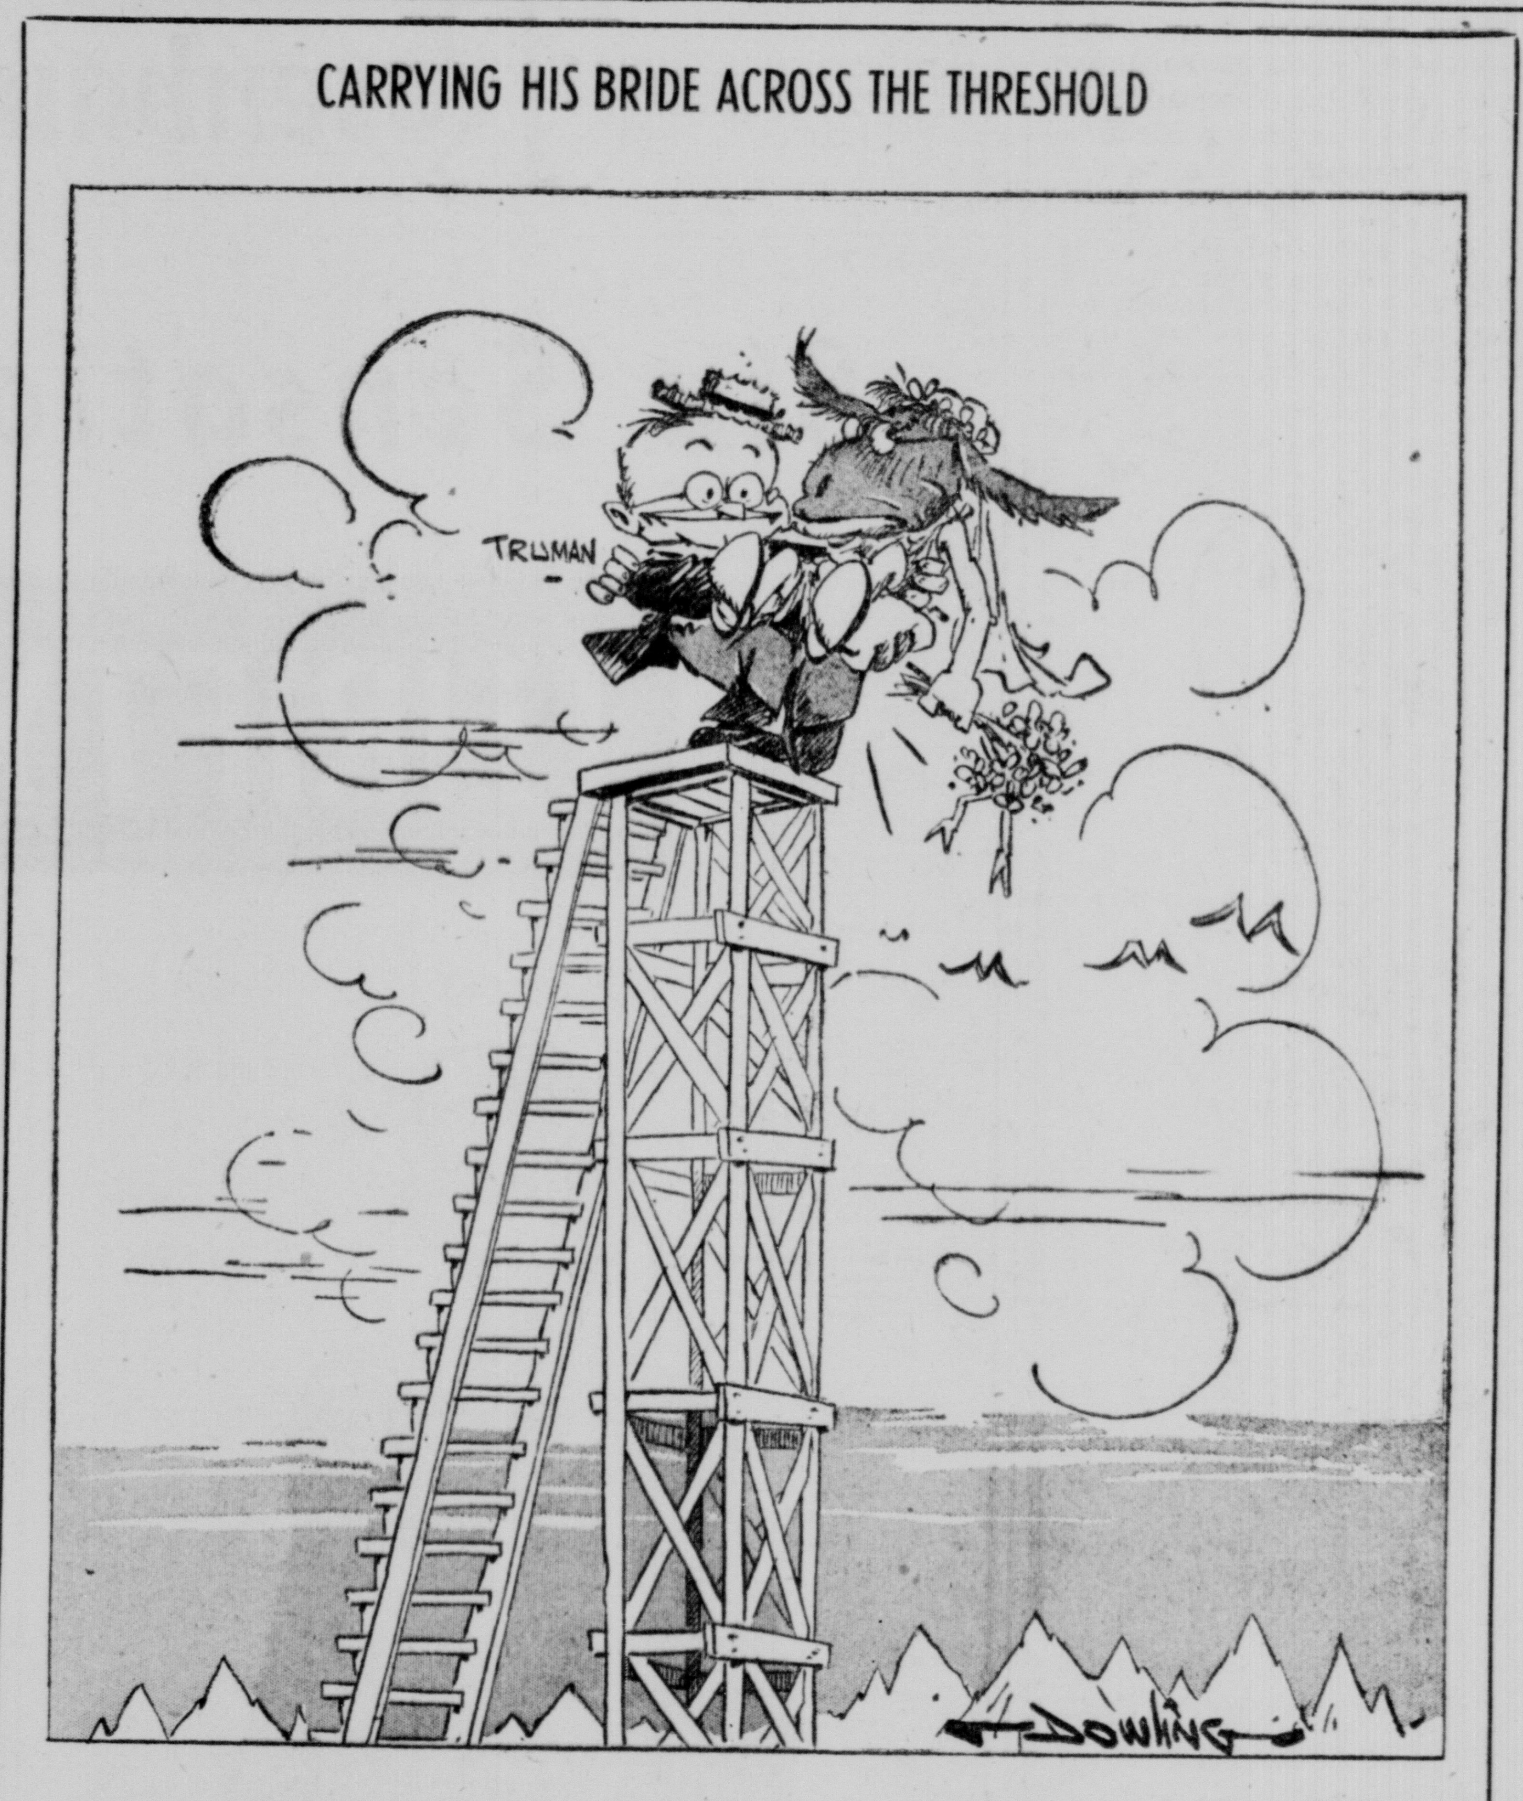
CARRYING HIS BRIDE ACROSS THE THRESHOLD



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Joe Cannonism Returned To House Of Representatives; Speaker Joe Martin Imitates Dictatorial Methods Of Speaker Cannon Regarding U. S. Gold Reserve

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—Uncle Joe Cannon of Danville, Ill., long-time GOP Speaker of the House of Representatives, was famous for two things: The straightest and longest aim of any tobacco-chewer in Congress; and the iron-handed dictatorship which he imposed on the House of Representatives for a quarter of a century.

Eventually, a coalition of Democrats and progressive Republicans rebelled against Uncle Joe and the days of Cannonism were supposed to have ended.

One week ago today, however, Cannonism was back in the House of Representatives in all its short-sighted, mail-fisted glory.

This time it probably should have been called Martinism; for Speaker Joe Martin, who, underneath his genial, easygoing smile, can be a tough and ruthless parliamentary dictator, was wielding the gavel. And he refused to permit more than twenty minutes of debate for each side on a question affecting Government credit and the savings of millions of people.

In the closing rush of Congress, the incident escaped much public attention. But it was one of the most significant things happening in the two years of the 80th Congress.

Unexpectedly, the House Banking and Currency Committee had inserted a provision in the anti-inflation bill increasing the gold certificate requirement of Federal reserve banks from 25 to 40 per cent. This was something which Wall Street has been lobbying for ever since the war.

What Wall Street has in mind, according to the Treasury Department, is to depreciate the value of Government bonds—now at par or above—following which the banks and insurance companies could buy them in again at lower prices and make a killing.

Bond Debacle Of First War

This is what happened after World War I. At that time a wave of Government bond selling sent liberty bonds down to $80, despite the fact that interest rates were higher. Small bondholders, worried over the price-drop, sold out wholesale, following which the insurance companies, banks and big estates bought them in.

Ever since World War II, the Federal Reserve Board has kept the price of Government bonds high by buying them in as fast as they were offered for sale.

This was the issue at stake in the anti-inflation bill reported to the floor of the House by the Banking and Currency Committee and which was given only twenty minutes to each side for debate.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder had opposed this provision in the bill. Federal Reserve Chairman Tom McCabe had also opposed it.

Martin's Gag Rule

Yet despite this advice, and the fact this provision might have started a run on the bond market and shaken U. S. Government credit, Speaker Joe Martin insisted on a gag rule and limited debate.

At one time Democratic Leader John McCormack of Boston, Mass., rose to ask for an extension of time because of the importance of the subject. But Martin refused even to recognize him.

Not only was debate from the floor limited, but no amendments from the floor were permitted. It was a travesty on the so-called parliamentary system.

But during that same afternoon, the Republicans consumed hours of time making political speeches for publication in the congressional record and to be mailed back to the voters.

Thus ended one of the most shameful sessions of undemocratic debate in the recent history of Congress. Fortunately, Republican leaders in the Senate were wiser. Uninfluenced by the Wall Street lobby, they cut out the House provision raising the gold reserves for Federal reserve banks.

Paul Porter's Ruptured Duck

A friend stopped former OPA Administrator Paul Porter after he finished drafting President Truman's recommendations for price control legislation.

"Have you been discharged from your White House service yet?" asked the friend. Porter said that he had.

"Did they give you a discharge button?" asked Porter's friend.

Steel To Sweden

The House Small Business Committee has protested to the Commerce Department against heavy shipments of steel to Sweden. Sweden is already producing more steel than she can use, is shipping the surplus behind the Iron Curtain. Yet the United States is exporting more steel to Sweden than any other country.

The Small Business Committee believes some of it also comes back to the United States and is sold on the black market. Meanwhile, American manufacturers are so short of steel that they cannot fill all their military orders.

Fooling Scott Lucas

Mischievous Senate pages had some fun the other day with Illinois' Senator Scott Lucas, Democratic whip. The boys made an impression of a quarter in tinfoil and planted it on the Senate floor.

Lucas, thinking it was a real quarter, stooped and scooped it up. When all he got was empty tinfoil, he looked as if Wherry of Nebraska, the merry mortician, had planted it on him.

The guilty pages scooted hastily out the door.

So last week Donaldson abruptly canceled a 25 per cent increase he had given them. The Government, he said, was still more important than the railroads.

Potato-Buying Policy To Keep Prices Up Economic Insanity

By MARK SULLIVAN

The first article in this column about the government buying potatoes for the purpose of keeping the price up, was printed in January, 1947. Since then, several articles have been printed, and many newspapers and periodicals have informed the public about various phases of this government practice. But the public information is still far from complete. In the Wall Street Journal for July 28th is a carefully written article by Mr. Edward Hughes which illustrates how this practice grows by what it feeds upon, how an economic folly once started, begets still more folly.

Government, through the Department of Agriculture, buys potatoes at some $1.55 a bushel. The Department does not want these potatoes, has no use for them, is in fact put to great trouble and expense to find ways of getting them off its hands. The Department buys the potatoes for the sole and avowed purpose of what is called "price support"—that is, for the purpose of keeping the price from going down, which is the same as to say for the purpose of compelling consumers to pay a price higher than they otherwise would need to.

Would Rather Dump Them

That purpose is fulfilled, once the Department has bought the potatoes. Without any doubt the Department would like to stop at this point and dump the potatoes, or let them rot in the ground, or destroy them, as the Department has done in the past. In a recent statement, the Department says frankly and accurately:

"Generally speaking, dumping would be the most economic disposition of surplus potatoes, from a dollar and cents standpoint, since the cost of sacking, grading, loading and freight would not be incurred."

But the Department has an uneasy memory of what followed two years ago when, in carrying out the price support law, it let millions of bushels of potatoes rot in the ground, and destroyed other millions, among other methods, piling them in heaps and drenching them with kerosene so as to make them inedible. A good deal of public uproar followed that, and one infers the Department would like to avoid repetition of it. So, having spent $1.55 per bushel to buy the potatoes, the Department now proceeds to spend more in order to get rid of them. It pays some 40 cents a bushel freight to ship the potatoes to processors who make them into potato flour. The cost to the Department is now $1.95 a bushel. From the processors, the Department gets a tiny return, the processors pay 9 cents a bushel for the potatoes. The net of the transaction, to the taxpayer, is $1.86 paid by the Department for a bushel of potatoes—bought for the purpose of making the taxpayer, in his role of consumer, pay a higher price than he would otherwise need to for the potatoes he himself consumes.

But the taxpayer's grief is not yet complete. The processors, after they have made the potatoes into potato flour, find a market for it in the Army, which uses the flour to feed people in occupied Germany. For the flour, the Army pays 7 cents a pound. As 10 pounds of flour come from each bushel of potatoes, this amounts to 70 cents per bushel. This Army expenditure is of course borne by the taxpayer. But this example of government ineptitude, still feeding the German people three years after the end of the war, is another story not relevant here.

Government Loss Is Enormous

The total losses incurred by the government by buying potatoes for the purpose of keeping the price up, are enormous. In 1946 the loss was $90,963,000, a large portion of which was paid for potatoes which were left to rot in the ground or otherwise destroyed or spoiled in storage. Last year the loss was $39,529,000. This year the Department has already paid out $17,000,000 for 11 million bushels of early potatoes. The total to be bought by the government is expected to be 45 million bushels, at an anticipated cost of $70,000,000 or more. The loss involved cannot yet be estimated, but it will be great.

These figures are the measure of an economic insanity and a perversion of government. The perversion is embodied in acts of Congress, which make it mandatory for the Department of Agriculture to support the prices of farm products. Since farm products are food, this amounts to an assumption that keeping up the price of food is a proper function of government. The perversion is made glaring by the effect on the whole public, literally everybody, who are consumers of food. The cost to the public, as taxpayers, is ascertainable, and large enough, but the cost in the form of increased prices paid for

Man With Eye On Political Nomination Handled Spy Case

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Now it comes out—a man high up in the Truman administration with an eye on a political nomination handled the presentation of evidence to the New York Federal grand jury which failed to indict any of the persons alleged to have been part of the Communist "spy ring."

It was Assistant Attorney General T. Vincent Quinn, who, it is officially announced,, now is going to accept the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Fifth district in New York City.

For more than a year Mr. Quinn has been in charge of the Department of Justice's case before the Federal grand jury. While 12 persons were indicted who were Communist members, nobody touching the Democratic administration in Washington was indicted, despite all the revelations of evidence before congressional committees in the last ten days.

Did Mr. Quinn present the case in such a way that the grand jury was not persuaded to indict? Did he present the case aggressively and request indictments and do in every way a creditable job?

Assuming that Mr. Quinn handled the task as well as anybody could and without any idea of whitewashing the Democratic Administration in a political-campaign year, the question still may be asked: What was lacking in the evidence or with the laws that require proof?

Basic Purpose of Investigator

Can virtual disloyalty be practiced in America and yet no laws of the land be violated? If so, then congressional committees have every right to ask for every piece of evidence and all the transcripts of the testimony before the jury in order to determine whether further legislation is needed. That is the basic purpose of an investigating committee, though every now and then, as in the hearings as to Gen. Bennett Meyers, some evidence crops up in a congressional hearing that leads the Department of Justice to institute an indictment.

The American people will not like to believe that political prejudice had anything to do with the presentation of the evidence to the New York grand jury. It would have been better—and still would be—for the administration therefore to furnish every scrap of information bearing on the case, if only to disprove any of the political implications which now will be read into the episode.

The whole tenor of President Truman's attack on the Congressional committees investigating disloyalty was that the inquiry "serves no useful purpose." He added:

"The federal grand jury found this information insufficient to justify indictment of the federal Employees involved."

Already the administration apologists are using the fact that the grand jury didn't indict as a means of disparaging what the congressional committees have learned through self-confessed spies. Will not this lead to a retort from the Republicans concerning the nature of the case presented to the grand jury by a person now active in politics?

Complete FBI Statement Needed

The best way out of the mess is for the administration to authorize the FBI to make a complete statement of the case and its reasons for believing that the evidence was insufficient, if indeed it was. A congressional committee likewise should have access to all facts bearing on Administrative laxity.

To keep everything secret, on the other hand, is to raise considerable suspicion. Mr. Quinn is now a free agent. Presumably he can discuss the case and argue that he didn't find the evidence sufficient or else that he failed to persuade the jury and that he himself thought the evidence sufficient.

It would be interesting to have Mr. Quinn's version before a congressional committee. It will be argued from a technical basis that it is improper to disclose what went on in the grand jury room. But it can be done impersonally, as the American people are now interested in what steps are being taken or must be taken to assure their security. In such an emergency, testimony before a congressional committee affords a means of clearing up a problem that is a source of genuine worry to the public.

These Days

Techniques Of Discipline

THE American political parties recognize the rights of individuals to opinions and judgments of their own. This was made amply clear at both the Republican and Democratic conventions at which direct attacks were made upon the party leadership.

As a matter of fact, both parties, in convention, were fruitful in factionalism, which is regarded as wholesome because it is indicative of independence of view.

To contrast, I cite the Communist Party of this country, which received a report from Bob Klonsky, Organizational Secretary of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, on the expulsion of a faction led by Francis Franklin. It seems that Franklin had ideas of his own, which no Communist may have unless he is so authorized by those who control the party. Franklin is described as a "petty-bourgeois renegade," also as a "petty-bourgeois opportunist."

His crime is described as "an organized struggle against the main line and policies of our Party, conducted under the ideological leadership of Franklin and other anti-Party groupings, which if permitted to develop, would destroy the Party."

Franklin is accused of having committed thi sheinous offense:

". . . in the course of pre-convention discussion in his club to defend his 'right' as a Party member to attack the present leadership and present as part of pre-convention discussion what he called '. . . basic and fundamental disagreements with the Party line,' as a 'right' guaranteed him by the Party Constitution."

He also did this:

". . . A refusal to contribute to the fighting fund against the Mundt Bill on the ground that '. . . the Party was 'crying wolf' in order to raise the funds'."

After Franklin and his associates were expelled from the party, ". . . They proceeded to organize within the Party a factional struggle against the expulsion on the grounds that it was a 'violation of legal and constitutional rights'." This is considered to be a crime.

In a word, freedom of thought, freedom of expression are absolutely forbidden. Criticism of the leadership of the party is absolutely forbidden. "Unrestricted discussion" and the "rights of minority opinion" are forbidden. This is in the United States of America, not somewhere in the Balkans.

This report of Bob Klonsky is an official document which lays down the party line to be followed by all members. It is important to note that while Communists stand on their Constitutional rights as citizens of the United States, they reject constitutional rights for members of their party. While as citizens of the United States, they make a tremendous to-do about minority rights, they reject minority rights within their own party. While as citizens of the United States, they demand freedom of speech, of the press, of conscience, of opinion, within their own party, they insist on obedience to a stated and recognized line with no deviation from it on any basis.

Whereas citizens of the United States, they demand and insist upon their constitutional right to denounce, smear, criticize everyone including the President, the Supreme Court and Congress, they deny to their own members the right even to criticize the leadership of their party.

How abject a human being may become under such pressures appears in Earl Browder's rejected application for readmission to the be let in again but he is turned down because he failed to say that he had been in every respect wrong during the prolonged period of his party leadership. Klonsky, in his accusations against Francis Franklin and others, makes the point:

"It is significant here to note that this same person, (Francis Franklin) the 'leftist' of today, sent a letter to the National Committee at the time of Browder's expulsion in defense of Browder." Heinous offense!

And Frederick Vanderbilt Field ends his "Proposals on the Far East" with the sentence:

> ". . . This point is important not only for an objective analysis of American imperialism, but for the struggle against Browderism and other reformist apologetics for American imperialism."

He has thus proclaimed his orthodoxy.

Glorified Fun!

Eighteen years ago I bought a Nova Scotia island—well, a rather medium large thick-set island, with two other small ones tagging beside it, and here for a brief slice of time I commune with nature, the birds, the squirrels, with God—and occasionally with a mosquito, or a drove of them.

The smell of the pine air, and the soft breezes from the large lake, in which I am located for the two summer months ,and the heavenly silence, give me very much to think about, even though I read the newspapers regularly and many books.

Two of my good New York friends recently went several hundred miles out of their way just to pay me a visit—an over-night one. Apparently, expecting a miniature mansion, the lady had her furs and gold slippers, and other fancy apparel, not a thing essential for this place of mine. Sometimes I like to show off and say that it is my summer home, but more often I try to impress upon the minds of my friends that it is just a camp—with a few luxuries of good old home, such as hot and cold water, a shower bath, electric lights—and nice bed springs and "beauty rest" mattresses on which to repose tired bodies.

My superior companion can't understand why I didn't install a bath tub, but I thought the ten mile one (the lake) was quite sufficient. Here also I have all sorts of tools and accessories, for I am off the mainland, as islands usually are, and so I have to store all sorts of things for emergencies. I never throw anything away that I think may some day prove just the thing wanted. The other evening the lights went out—and so, presto, the old oil lamps were lit—but not for long.

Yes, occasionally, the fuses blow out, the roof may leak, the motor that pumps the water from the lake, gets cranky, the squirrels jump all over me when I want to read in my hammock on the porch. I have to drive or boat across the lake for my mail and provisions, and when I want my log fire to show off, it smokes! But it's all glorified fun—fun that I would consider menial in my city home. But I would rather spend these brief weeks here in this almost perfect climate than take a trip around the world! The air is conditioned to my taste here on this island—and I am happy.

Tax Relief Should Be General in Scope

At long last, Governor Lane has discovered that his Administration has been demanding too much money in taxes from the people of this State. That fact became known a day or so ago when Mr. Lane suggested that the Board of Revenue Estimates prepare a new compilation of the expected tax collections during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1949.

Governor Lane is frank enough in stating that a surplus of $20,773,515 which has piled up in the treasury during the past year is too much. He says he hopes that it will be possible to lessen this monetary burden on individuals through the levying of income taxes on fewer people. In face of the latest estimate, covering the current fiscal year the present surplus would be increased $5,000,000, for a total of more than $25,000,000.

If it hadn't, it should have dawned on Mr. Lane as long ago as last November that much more money than the State would require was being accumulated through the payment of income taxes and the retail sales tax—the one revenue source which is causing increased irritation among the people. He was reluctant, even then, to offer any relief from this but finally gave his approval to a change which advanced the starting point for collecting this levy from 10 to 13 cents. But the in-take has continued upward until the excess from this source alone amounts to approximately $9,000,000 over what had been estimated it would yield.

Realizing, no doubt, that it is not good politics to keep dipping into the pockets of the people (already over-burdened by demands of the Federal government) for more revenue than is needed to meet the State's proposed programs and obligations, Gov. Lane is now seeking ways to correct this error. It is doubtful if he is going to make much of a dent in the surplus if the cut in income taxes, he tentatively proposes, is limited to those in the low income brackets.

Mr. Lane's Board of Revenue Estimates should keep in mind, in attempting a readjustment of this tax, that under the provisions of a measure which Gov. Lane sponsored two of the three income rates are slated to be advanced next April. The earned income rate will be increased from 2 to 2½ per cent, while the rate against corporations will be jumped from 1½ to 4 per cent. The present rate of 5 per cent against incomes from investments will remain at that figure. Is it the intention of Governor Lane to have those changes revoked? We think they should be. In fact, consideration should be given to repeal of the income tax altogether and reducing the sales tax to the very minimum, in the light of collections from that source during the past year.

The Governor and his administration has shown little in the way of accuracy in estimating what the income and sales taxes would produce. They erred badly, and while it may be pointed out that in doing so they erred on the side of safety, it can also be pointed out that such a resulting surplus was not in accordance with sound taxing principle.

The error has been recognized, however, and it to be hoped that the imposition on the taxpayers will be corrected without too much delay. But the relief given should be general in scope and not confined to a minority.

War On Insects Being Won At Maryland Station

The fear that insects some day will overrun and destroy mankind is without basis in fact. At least that is the comforting word that comes from the research center of the Federal Department of Agriculture in the Maryland community of Beltsville, where the weapons are being forged to enable man to retain his supremacy over bugs and bacteria.

According to government scientists, who were hosts at the Maryland research center the other day to fellow-scientists from 42 nations, the means are already at hand to keep most of the world's food-destroying and disease-producing insects under control. The guns that are being used in this war include aircraft of all types and, of course, such things as mist-makers, sprayers and death-dealing insecticides.

But man is not yet out of the woods. It is stated, for instance, by Norris E. Dodd, Undersecretary of Agriculture, that in the United States alone, 10 per cent of all crops raised are destroyed by insects before they reach the market. The toll that was thus taken from the grain crops last year is estimated at 300,000,000 bushels.

And there are millions of square miles of territory where people cannot live safely today because of diseases that are spread by flies and mosquitos. Before the rich resources of these regions can be tapped for man's benefit, the scientists will have to make the lands inhabitable. That is the problem they are working on now.

In any event, it is reassuring to learn that we are not only holding our own against the insects but have good prospects of defeating them altogether.

Big City Bosses Are Finding Selves In Trouble

Two men slain and five wounded in post-election shootings in the hills of eastern Tennessee, served to highlight something important at the other end of the Volunteer State. Ed. H. Crump, Tennessee boss and czar of the big river city of Memphis, took a beating in the Democratic state primary, last week. His candidates for United States Senator and Governor were both defeated, and Representative Estes Kefauver, successful senatorial candidate, did nearly as well in Memphis as Crump's man did. This was the latter's first major ballot box defeat in 20 years.

The incident warrants a survey of the group to which Crump belongs Pendergast of Kansas City went to prison and died in retirement. Some of the bosses are getting old Crump and Hague of Jersey City are both septuagenarians. In order to save their tickets, Hague and other Big Shots in the eastern cities tried desperately to unhorse Truman and nominate Eisenhower at the Democratic convention and failing, swung in again behind the President—an inglorious spectacle. Does the Twilight of the Big City Bosses (Democrats all) impend?

Everybody likes to see the man who poses as an expert take a header which is why people read the weather forecasts.

HOW TO KEE PWELL—Aug 12 ...

Dr. Van Dellen

The bite of a cat is said to be more serious that that of a dog, because the bacteria in kitty's mouth are more harmful to man. Furthermore, its teeth are sharper and smaller and as such are capable of penetrating like a needle. As a result, germs are trapped beneath the skin, a situation that invites infection. But the scratch of a cat's paw is less likely to become infected than that of old Rover because dogs are not particular where they roam; their nails are dirty and harbor millions of organisms capable of contaminating an open wound.

Regardless of the type of injury, it is best treated by cleansing the area thoroughly with soap and water, applying an antiseptic, and covering the region with a sterile bandage. The value of cauterization is questionable and nowadays, most physicians believe that washing away the contaminated material is better than attempting to destroy it with nitric acid. Furthermore, strong solutions impair the surrounding tissues, making them less capable of fighting infection.

The main trouble with dog bites revolves about the question of rabies. The very thought of this possibility is terrifying; consequently, most individuals who are bitten waste little time in seeking medical aid.

The problem must be handled with common sense. Rabid dogs are more likely to be strays than pets. In addition, a sick canine has the desire to wander far and wide, proceeding at a running gait, and biting everything in sight. Of greater importance is the fact that these infected dogs usually die within 48 hours after developing unmistakable signs of the disease. Thus if the animal can be found and isolated, the question as to whether he is rabid solves itself in a hurry. On the other hand, if it remains alive, it can be released after ten days to two weeks and is none the worse for its experience. Owners should be willing to part with their pets or keep them confined for this length of time because rabies is a serious malady and no unnecessary chances should be taken.

A delay of two or three days while awaiting to make certain is not hazardous because the Pasteur treatment offers protection in 95 per cent of all cases even when administered six days after being bitten. When the dog cannot be found, the problem becomes more complex. In the circumstances, the Pasteur injections are recommended because there is no way of knowing. If other cases appear in the neighborhood, the possibility that the animal has the disease is greater. But no one can afford to wait because once the malady develops, the outcome is invariably fatal.

Rabies is on the increase among animals in many communities. This is true particularly in rural areas where dogs are bitten by wolves, foxes, squirrels, etc. To combat this danger, health authorities are now advising routine vaccination of dogs. In this way, we can save our pets as well as ourselves.

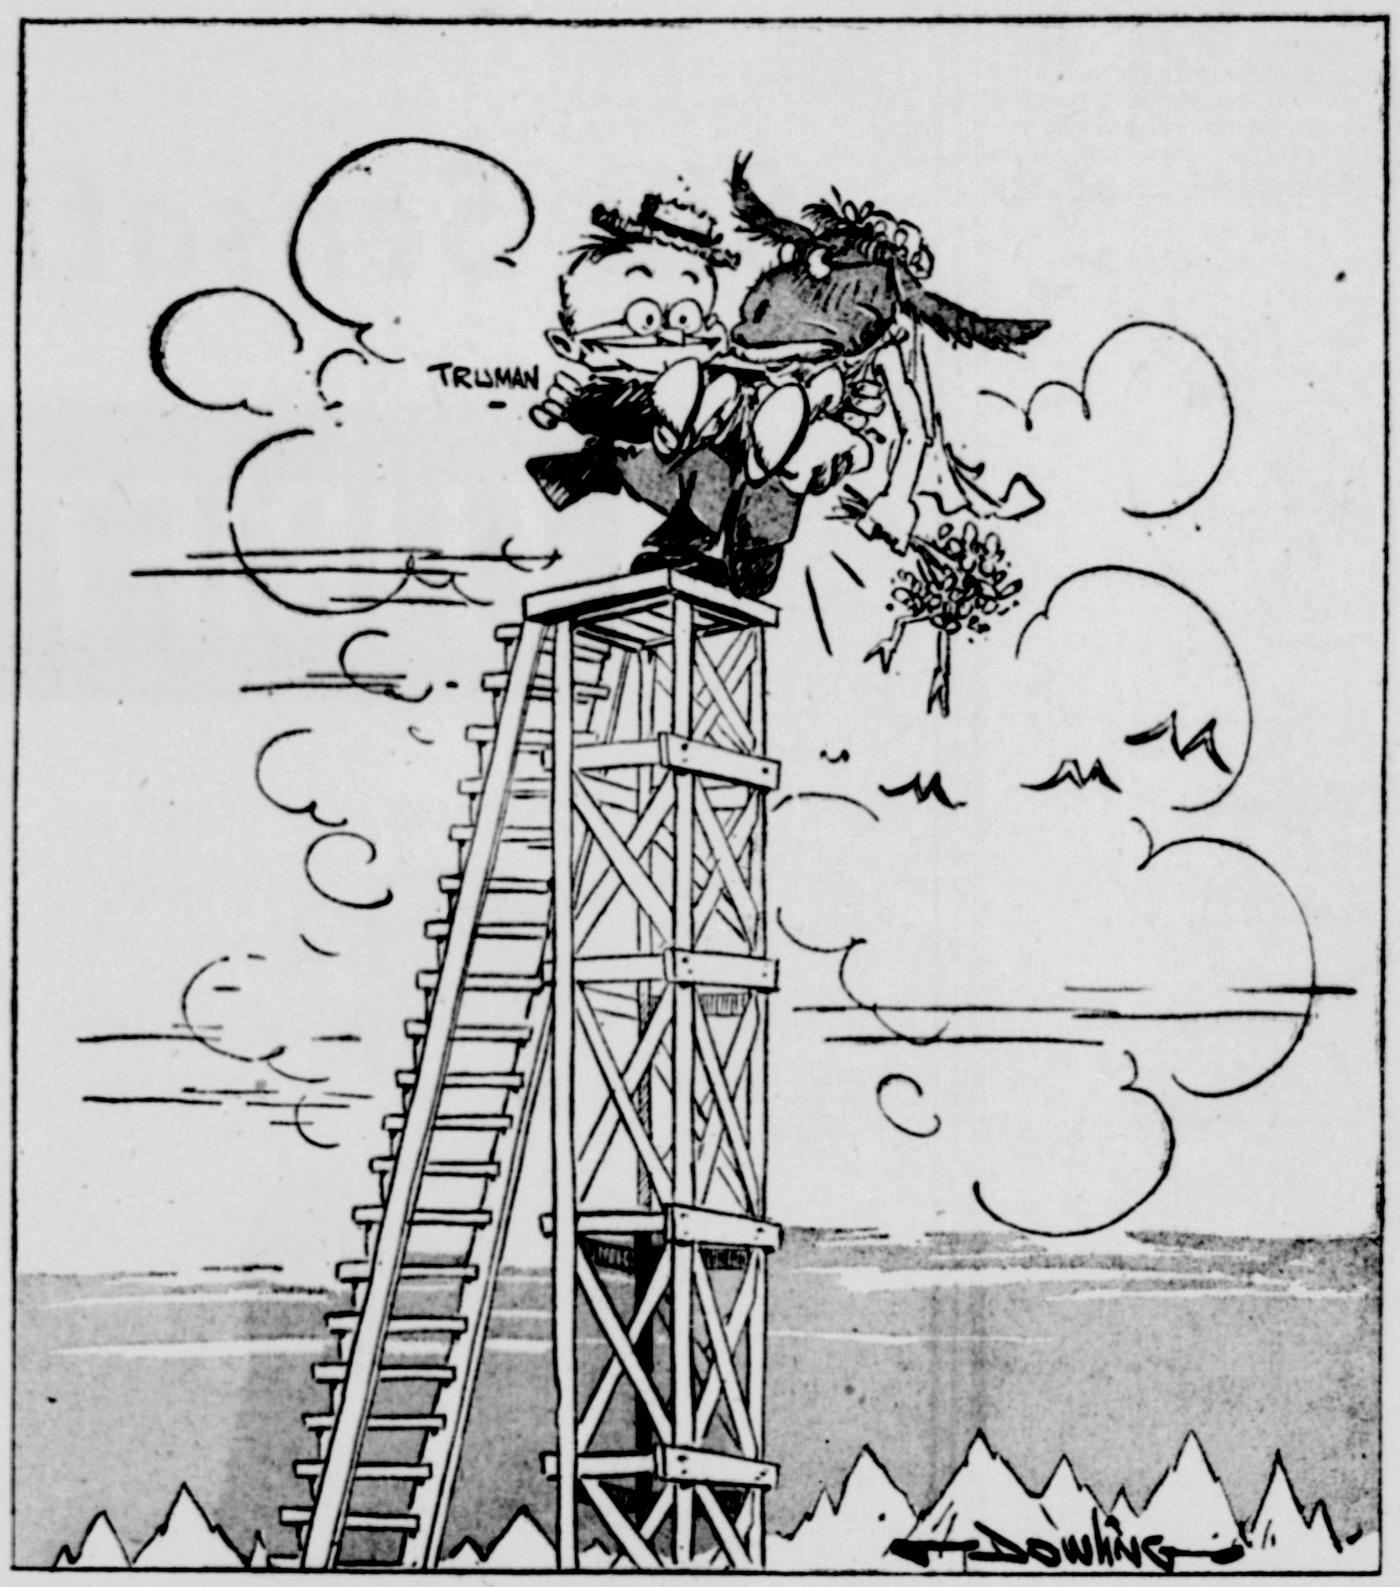
CARRYING HIS BRIDE ACROSS THE THRESHOLD



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—Uncle Joe Cannon of Danville, Ill., longtime GOP Speaker of the House of Representatives, was famous for two things: The straightest and longest aim of any tobacco-chewer in Congress; and the iron-handed dictatorship which he imposed on the House of Representatives for a quarter of a century.

Eventually, a coalition of Democrats and progressive Republicans rebelled against Uncle Joe and the days of Cannonism were supposed to have ended.

One week ago today, however, Cannonism was back in the House of Representatives in all its short-sighted, mail-fisted glory.

This time it probably should have been called Martinism; for Speaker Joe Martin, who, underneath his genial, easygoing smile, can be a tough and ruthless parliamentary dictator, was wielding the gavel. And he refused to permit more than twenty minutes of debate for each side on a question affecting Government credit and the savings of millions of people.

In the closing rush of Congress, the incident escaped much public attention. But it was one of the most significant things happening in the two years of the 80th Congress.

Unexpectedly, the House Banking and Currency Committee had inserted a provision in the anti-inflation bill increasing the gold certificate requirement of Federal reserve banks from 25 to 40 per cent. This was something which Wall Street has been lobbying for ever since the war.

What Wall Street has in mind, according to the Treasury Department, is to depreciate the value of Government bonds—now at par or above—following which the banks and insurance companies could buy them in again at lower prices and make a killing.

Bond Debacle Of First War

This is what happened after World War I. At that time a wave of Government bond selling sent liberty bonds down to $80, despite the fact that interest rates were higher. Small bondholders, worried over the price-drop, sold out wholesale, following which the insurance companies, banks and big estates bought them in.

Ever since World War II, the Federal Reserve Board has kept the price of Government bonds high by buying them in as fast as they were offered for sale.

This was the issue at stake in the anti-inflation bill reported to the floor of the House by the Banking and Currency Committee and which was given only twenty minutes to each side for debate.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder had opposed this provision in the bill. Federal Reserve Chairman Tom McCabe had also opposed it.

Martin's Gag Rule

Yet despite this advice, and the fact this provision might have started a run on the bond market and shaken U. S. Government credit, Speaker Joe Martin insisted on a gag rule and limited debate.

At one time Democratic Leader John McCormack of Boston, Mass., rose to ask for an extension of time because of the importance of the subject. But Martin refused even to recognize him.

Not only was debate from the floor limited, but no amendments from the floor were permitted. It was a travesty on the so-called parliamentary system.

But during that same afternoon, the Republicans consumed hours of time making political speeches for publication in the congressional record and to be mailed back to the voters.

Thus ended one of the most shameful sessions of undemocratic debate in the recent history of Congress. Fortunately, Republican leaders in the Senate were wiser. Uninfluenced by the Wall Street lobby, they cut out the House provision raising the gold reserves for Federal reserve banks.

Paul Porter's Ruptured Duck

A friend stopped former OPA Administrator Paul Porter after he finished drafting President Truman's recommendations for price control legislation.

"Have you been discharged from your White House service yet?" asked the friend. Porter said that he had.

"Did they give you a discharge button?" asked Porter's friend.

Steel To Sweden

The House Small Business Committee has protested to the Commerce Department against heavy shipments of steel to Sweden. Sweden is already producing more steel than she can use, is shipping the surplus behind the Iron Curtain. Yet the United States is exporting more steel to Sweden than any other country.

The Small Business Committee believes some of it also comes back to the United States and is sold on the black market. Meanwhile, American manufacturers are so short of steel that they cannot fill all their military orders.

Potato-Buying Policy To Keep Prices Up Economic Insanity

By MARK SULLIVAN

The first article in this column about the government buying potatoes for the purpose of keeping the price up, was printed in January, 1947. Since then, several articles have been printed, and many newspapers and periodicals have informed the public about various phases of this government practice. But the public information is still far from complete. In the Wall Street Journal for July 28th is a carefully written article by Mr. Edward Hughes which illustrates how this practice grows by what it feeds upon, how an economic folly once started, begets still more folly.

Government, through the Department of Agriculture, buys potatoes at some $1.55 a bushel. The Department does not want these potatoes, has no use for them, is in fact put to great trouble and expense to find ways of getting them off its hands. The Department buys the potatoes for the sole and avowed purpose of what is called "price support"—that is, for the purpose of keeping the price from going down, which is the same as to say for the purpose of compelling consumers to pay a price higher than they otherwise would need to.

Would Rather Dump Them

That purpose is fulfilled, once the Department has bought the potatoes. Without any doubt the Department would like to stop at this point and dump the potatoes, or let them rot in the ground, or destroy them, as the Department has done in the past. In a recent statement, the Department says frankly and accurately:

"Generally speaking, dumping would be the most economic disposition of surplus potatoes, from a dollar and cents standpoint, since the cost of sacking, grading, loading and freight would not be incurred."

But the Department has an uneasy memory of what followed two years ago when, in carrying out the price support law, it let millions of bushels of potatoes rot in the ground, and destroyed other millions, among other methods, piling them in heaps and drenching them with kerosene so as to make them inedible. A good deal of public uproar followed that, and one infers the Department would like to avoid repetition of it. So, having spent $1.55 per bushel to buy the potatoes, the Department now proceeds to spend more in order to get rid of them. It pays some 40 cents a bushel freight to ship the potatoes to processors who make them into potato flour. The cost to the Department is now $1.95 a bushel. From the processors, the Department gets a tiny return, the processors pay 9 cents a bushel for the potatoes. The net of the transaction, to the taxpayer, is $1.86 paid by the Department for a bushel of potatoes—bought for the purpose of making the taxpayer, in his role of consumer, pay a higher price than he would otherwise need to for the potatoes he himself consumes.

But the taxpayer's grief is not yet complete. The processors, after they have made the potatoes into potato flour, find a market for it in the Army, which uses the flour to feed people in occupied Germany. For the flour, the Army pays 7 cents a pound. As 10 pounds of flour come from each bushel of potatoes, this amounts to 70 cents per bushel. This Army expenditure is of course borne by the taxpayer. But this example of government ineptitude, still feeding the German people three years after the end of the war, is another story not relevant here.

Government Loss Is Enormous

The total losses incurred by the government by buying potatoes for the purpose of keeping the price up, are enormous. In 1946 the loss was $90,963,000, a large portion of which was paid for potatoes which were left to rot in the ground or otherwise destroyed or spoiled in storage. Last year the loss was $39,529,000. This year the Department has already paid out $17,000,000 for 11 million bushels of early potatoes. The total to be bought by the government is expected to be 45 million bushels, at an anticipated cost of $70,000,000 or more. The loss involved cannot yet be estimated, but it will be great.

These figures are the measure of an economic insanity and a perversion of government. The perversion is embodied in acts of Congress, which make it mandatory for the Department of Agriculture to support the prices of farm products. Since farm products are food, this amounts to an assumption that keeping up the price of food is a proper function of government. The perversion is made glaring by the effect on the whole public, literally everybody, who are consumers of food. The cost to the public, as taxpayers, is ascertainable, and large enough, but the cost in the form of increased prices paid for potatoes is

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Now it comes out—a man high up in the Truman administration with an eye on a political nomination handled the presentation of evidence to the New York Federal grand jury which failed to indict any of the persons alleged to have been part of the Communist "spy ring."

It was Assistant Attorney General T. Vincent Quinn, who, it is officially announced,, now is going to accept the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Fifth district in New York City.

For more than a year Mr. Quinn has been in charge of the Department of Justice's case before the Federal grand jury. While 12 persons were indicted who were Communist members, nobody touching the Democratic administration in Washington was indicted, despite all the revelations of evidence before congressional committees in the last ten days.

Did Mr. Quinn present the case in such a way that the grand jury was not persuaded to indict? Did he present the case aggressively and request indictments and do in every way a creditable job?

Assuming that Mr. Quinn handled the task as well as anybody could and without any idea of whitewashing the Democratic Administration in a political-campaign year, the question still may be asked: What was lacking in the evidence or with the laws that require proof?

Basic Purpose of Investigator

Can virtual disloyalty be practiced in America and yet no laws of the land be violated? If so, then congressional committees have every right to ask for every piece of evidence and all the transcripts of the testimony before the jury in order to determine whether further legislation is needed. That is the basic purpose of an investigating committee, though every now and then, as in the hearings as to Gen. Bennett Meyers, some evidence crops up in a congressional hearing that leads the Department of Justice to institute an indictment.

The American people will not like to believe that political prejudice had anything to do with the presentation of the evidence to the New York grand jury. It would have been better—and still would be—for the administration therefore to furnish every scrap of information bearing on the case, if only to disprove any of the political implications which now will be read into the episode.

The whole tenor of President Truman's attack on the Congressional committees investigating disloyalty was that the inquiry "serves no useful purpose." He added:

"The federal grand jury found this information insufficient to justify indictment of the federal Employees involved."

Already the administration apologists are using the fact that the grand jury didn't indict as a means of disparaging what the congressional committees have learned through self-confessed spies. Will not this lead to a retort from the Republicans concerning the nature of the case presented to the grand jury by a person now active in politics?

Complete FBI Statement Needed

The best way out of the mess is for the administration to authorize the FBI to make a complete statement of the case and its reasons for believing that the evidence was insufficient, if indeed it was. A congressional committee likewise should have access to all facts bearing on Administrative laxity.

To keep everything secret, on the other hand, is to raise considerable suspicion. Mr. Quinn is now a free agent. Presumably he can discuss the case and argue that he didn't find the evidence sufficient or else that he failed to persuade the jury and that he himself thought the evidence sufficient.

It would be interesting to have Mr. Quinn's version before a congressional committee. It will be argued from a technical basis that it is improper to disclose what went on in the grand jury room. But it can be done impersonally, as the American people are now interested in what steps are being taken or must be taken to assure their security. In such an emergency, testimony before a congressional committee affords a means of clearing up a problem that is a source of genuine worry to the public.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Techniques Of Discipline

THE American political parties recognize the rights of individuals to opinions and judgments of their own. This was made amply clear at both the Republican and Democratic conventions at which direct attacks were made upon the party leadership.

As a matter of fact, both parties, in convention, were fruitful in factionalism, which is regarded as wholesome because it is indicative of independence of view.

To contrast, I cite the Communist Party of this country, which received a report from Bob Klonsky, Organizational Secretary of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, on the expulsion of a faction led by Francis Franklin. It seems that Franklin had ideas of his own, which no Communist may have unless he is so authorized by those who control the party. Franklin is described as a "petty-bourgeois renegade," also as a "petty-bourgeois opportunist."

His crime is described as "an organized struggle against the main line and policies of our Party, conducted under the ideological leadership of Franklin and other anti-Party groupings, which if permitted to develop, would destroy the Party."

Franklin is accused of having committed thi sheinous offense:

". . . in the course of pre-convention discussion in his club to defend his 'right' as a Party member to attack the present leadership and present as part of pre-convention discussion what he called '. . . basic and fundamental disagreements with the Party line,' as a 'right' guaranteed him by the Party Constitution."

He also did this:

". . . A refusal to contribute to the fighting fund against the Mundt Bill on the ground that '. . . the Party was 'crying wolf' in order to raise the funds'."

After Franklin and his associates were expelled from the party, ". . . They proceeded to organize within the Party a factional struggle against the expulsion on the grounds that it was a 'violation of legal and constitutional rights'." This is considered to be a crime.

In a word, freedom of thought, freedom of expression are absolutely forbidden. Criticism of the leadership of the party is absolutely forbidden. "Unrestricted discussion" and the "rights of minority opinion" are forbidden. This is in the United States of America, not somewhere in the Balkans.

This report of Bob Klonsky is an official document which lays down the party line to be followed by all members. It is important to note that while Communists stand on their Constitutional rights as citizens of the United States, they reject constitutional rights for members of their party. While as citizens of the United States, they make a tremendous to-do about minority rights, they reject minority rights within their own party. While as citizens of the United States, they demand freedom of speech, of the press, of conscience, of opinion, within their own party, they insist on obedience to a stated and recognized line with no deviation from it on any basis.

Whereas citizens of the United States, they demand and insist upon their constitutional right to denounce, smear, criticize everyone including the President, the Supreme Court and Congress, they deny to their own members the right even to criticize the leadership of their party.

How abject a human being may become under such pressures appears in Earl Browder's rejected application for readmission to the Party. Browder asks to be let in again but he is turned down because he failed to say that he had been in every respect wrong during the prolonged period of his party leadership. Klonsky, in his accusations against Francis Franklin and others, makes the point:

"It is significant here to note that this same person, (Francis Franklin) the 'leftist' of today, sent a letter to the National Committee at the time of Browder's expulsion in defense of Browder." Heinous offense!

And Frederick Vanderbilt Field ends his "Proposals on the Far East" with the sentence:

". . . This point is important not only for an objective analysis of American imperialism, but for the struggle against Browderism and other reformist apologetics for American imperialism."

He has thus proclaimed his orthodoxy.

Glorified Fun!

Eighteen years ago I bought a Nova Scotia island—well, a rather medium large thick-set island, with two other small ones tagging beside it, and here for a brief slice of time I commune with nature, the birds, the squirrels, with God—and occasionally with a mosquito, or a drove of them.

The smell of the pine air, and the soft breezes from the large lake, in which I am located for the two summer months ,and the heavenly silence, give me very much to think about, even though I read the newspapers regularly and many books.

Two of my good New York friends recently went several hundred miles out of their way just to pay me a visit—an over-night one. Apparently, expecting a miniature mansion, the lady had her furs and gold slippers, and other fancy apparel, not a thing essential for this place of mine. Sometimes I like to show off and say that it is my summer home, but more often I try to impress upon the minds of my friends that it is just a camp—with a few luxuries of good old home, such as hot and cold water, a shower bath, electric lights—and nice bed springs and "beauty rest" mattresses on which to repose tired bodies.

My superior companion can't understand why I didn't install a bath tub, but I thought the ten mile one (the lake) was quite sufficient. Here also I have all sorts of tools and accessories, for I am off the mainland, as islands usually are, and so I have to store all sorts of things for emergencies. I never throw anything away that I think may some day prove just the thing wanted. The other evening the lights went out—and so, presto, the old oil lamps were lit—but not for long.

Yes, occasionally, the fuses blow out, the roof may leak, the motor that pumps the water from the lake, gets cranky, the squirrels jump all over me when I want to read in my hammock on the porch. I have to drive or boat across the lake for my mail and provisions, and when I want my log fire to show off, it smokes! But it's all glorified fun—fun that I would consider menial in my city home. But I would rather spend these brief weeks here in this almost perfect climate than take a trip around the world! The air is conditioned to my taste here on this island—and I am happy.

Borrow Meat Dish From French In Blanquette de Veau

Parlez-vous francais? It is not necessary to speak French to cook French! Food, to coin a phrase, is an international language. So you can borrow one of the best French ideas for a thrifty veal dish without knowing a word of the language. A Parisienne would call this meat dish "merveilleux" and it doesn't take much language savvy to translate that into "marvellous!"

Also a Frenchman calls this thrifty veal dish "Blanquette de Veau" but we'll settle for Veal with Golden Sauce as more descriptive to our American ear. Blanquette de Veau or Veal with Golden Sauce is traditional in some of the finest French cuisines and yet it's a dish made with a very thrifty cut of veal—the shoulder, to be specific. It's really a stew gone high hat (in taste and looks, not in price!), a stew delicate with the flavor of veal accented by herbs and cooked with little onions and carrots.

The golden touch is the final touch—and what an inspiration it is! The delicious, herb-scented veal broth in which the meat was cooked is laced with lemon and egg yolk to produce a poem of a sauce. But yes! It is buttercup gold in color and to the taste it is like liquid velvet hinting of Hollandaise. A last-minute sprinkle of chopped parsley gives the final perk to this pretty picture.

Serve this on your best platter for all to admire, and you don't have to keep it for "company" (though you'll surely want to show it off on special occasions) because this is family-thrifty on account of the economy cut of veal used and the humble onions and carrots all dressed up to go places.

These days, to make a hit with a girl a man doesn't have to have a lot sense. He's got to have the right scent

According to a survey taken by a national magazine, the American male is going in for hair dressings, hand lotions, and even cosmetics. Yes sir, the day is gone when a man could get by on combing his hair with axle grease.

I can see a sandhog stopping in the middle of his work, turning to his buddy and saying, "Do my hands have that rough unseemly look?"

I heard about one girl who went out with a man for months. She didn't like him. She just wanted to find out where he got his cologne.

One of the Hollywood starlets looked at a wolf the other night and said, "I smell a rat." He said, "No, it's just my hair tonic." Yes, sir, when a girl gets a proposal these days, she turns to her boy friend and says, "I still don't know whether it's your or your after-shaving lotion."

The survey stated that men get their hair shampooed, too. That goes against my grain. I don't mind the gossip, but I can't stand those dryers.

Of course, these days when they refer to men as the stronger sex, it just means they are using more powerful perfume.

And if men continue using so many beauty helps, you'll soon see a change in magazine ads. They'll read. "Attention, men, try Acme after-shaving cream for that new, desirable look. Why be half shaved?"

Mary Elizabeth Judy Is Bride Of E. Clarke Coning

Ceremony Performed In Bride's Home

Miss Mary Elizabeth Judy, daughter of Mrs. Estella Judy, Bedford Road, and the late Oscar C. Judy, became the bride of Elden Clarke Coning, Annapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Coning, Hollyoak, Del., last night.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in the home of the bride, which was elaborately decorated with bouquets of gladioli and summer flowers. Rev. Gordon Hall, pastor of the Union Grove Methodist Circuit, officiated.

Mrs. Lee D. Judy, sister-in-law of the bride, was her matron of honor and only attendant. Robert Knight, Annapolis, served as Mr. Coning's best man. The traditional wedding marches and a program of nuptial music were played on a portable organ by Cecil Hardinger.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Leo D. Judy, was attired in a Navy blue satin street length dress, fashioned with an extremely plain front and peg top flounce in the back. The annual picnic supper will be held at 5:30. A program will be presented, consisting of a black face musical by the Twiggtown Planning Group, under the direction of Mrs. Howard Frost; two readings in the nature of a comedy by Mrs. Shirley Higgs; and group singing, led by Mrs. Harry J. Barton. The Farm Girl judging will be held at 8 o'clock and a weiner roast and social hour will follow at 9:30.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Builds Fantastic Air Castles Around Man Of Whom She Knows Little

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year and a half ago I met a very nice fellow of whom I grew very fond. I have never been out with him, but saw him every night last summer and he used to walk me home from where the gang hangs out. He told several people he liked me an awful lot but wouldn't want to give me any ideas because he was too young, and also because of something that happened while he was in service. Last January he went back in service and promised to write but never did. He also told someone that because of what had happened overseas, I was too good for him. I will not say I am in love with him, but I think an awful lot of him and find myself thinking of him constantly.

Now I have a chance to go steady with another fellow who says if I want to go with him I have to forget the other one. I don't want to lose his friendship but I don't want to give up my dreams either. What should I do?

"MIXED UP"

Dear "Mixed Up":

You certainly are dreaming, aren't you, to romanticize a young man of whom you know practically nothing, and who gives himself a very dubious reputation into the bargain. You will be very silly indeed to let any such daydreams interfere with other friendships. Use your head, and stop indulging yourself in building fantastic air castles.

Book That's Been Closed

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Two years ago I met a fellow just out of the Army. We went out together and had fun, and finally I fell in love with him. He told everyone he felt the same way about me, but never told me in those words.

Last year a certain girl moved into our community, and he stopped going with me and went out with this other girl. I have heard lots of bad things about her. Early this year I heard they were engaged, and now they are married. But everyone says this marriage is about to go on the rocks. What should I do?

"HEARTACHES"

Dear "Heartaches":

What you should do is to stay completely out of this situation which is none of your business. Nothing but trouble ever comes of injecting yourself into anybody else's marriage, happy or otherwise.

Don't see why you would want this man again, anyhow, even though his marriage does break up. He certainly didn't seem seriously interested in you in the first place, since he never told you he was in love with you, and in the second place his record as a husband is far from encouraging. I'm sure you will be very sorry if you have anything further to do with him whatever. He himself closed the book on his friendship with you. It would be a bad mistake for you to try and open it up again.

Siam Will Keep Sundays

BANGKOK—(AP)—Siam has abandoned plans to abolish Sundays as official holidays and substitute the Buddhist sabbath, which varies with the moon.

The Minister of Commerce said it would create business confusion.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs said foreign interests opposed the plan.

The Minister of Finance said tax collecting would be more difficult.

The Ministry of Education said school schedules would be upset.

The sponsors broke in about that time and said maybe the proposal was all a mistake, better forgotten.

Just Between Us

Self-Admiration Anything But A Social Asset To You

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Nancy Mottram

Call it conceit, or ego. But once one acquires fame for being over-important to himself, his social rating with the people he'd most like to be with will slip several notches.

There are quite a few around who seem to have terrific cases of self-admiration. You can't help noticing the fact that they're rather pleased with themselves, since it's always obvious in their talk or actions. You're most likely to wonder exactly why they think they're that good.

In their own minds they rate tops. And in everyone else's they just don't rate at all. It might be a cover-up for an inferiority complex, or they really might believe it. But whenever a lad or lass deserves that tag, you can be positive that he or she will never make out as a friend. They're too busy thinking and doing things for themselves to bother about you. And you can recognize them right off the bat.

There's the gal who rarely starts out with a word other than "I . . ." Who sounds off hour after hour about the things she's done, the places she's been, all the members of the male sex she has dangling on the end of a string. If stretching facts a little will give her any added glamor in the eyes of others, she can spin a fancy tale, all with the firm idea that you're impressed. She can't see far enough to realize all her chatter is being taken with a grain of salt by her listeners. Unfortunately for her, those mannerisms and stories are more amusing than interesting.

Or it's the fellow whose high-flown opinion of his success with women goes over with a dull thud where the rest of the crowd is concerned. His specialty is "charm," which no lass is supposed to be able to resist. He honestly believes that the more he builds himself up, the greater Casanova he'll be, and so he sets out on every date with the intention of making the gal see how fortunate she is to be seen with him.

His "line" is a mile long, and as obvious. It's merely a lot of sentences strung together without a bit of meaning, but he figures it adds another name to his little black book, and that's his aim. What he doesn't know is that his temporary success is balanced on wobbly stilts, and after he's been the subject of discussion at a strictly girl party, his future with them looks pretty dim.

Both these characters are too wrapped up in themselves to notice what's going on in the world around them. Blowing your own horn as loudly as possible very rarely gets the reaction you've been looking for. Instead, you're very likely to find yourself left alone in your private little dream-world. Trying to make yourself important by mere words is very rarely successful. You aren't really fooling yourself, or anyone else. You do it to raise yourself in other peoples' estimations, but it's actions that command respect and liking, not bragging that's spoken one minute and forgotten the next.

The guys and gals you want for friends aren't gained by recitations of the famous names you know, or your wordly goods. They'll like you for yourself, and the way human nature works—the less you try to impress them, the more you'll "belong." You don't have to be humble, but if you spend time thinking about others instead of yourself exclusively, you'll be well on the road to popularity.

Demon Hanover Wins Hambletonian Classic

Amvets Host To Frostburg In Bi-State Headliner

League Lead In Balance As Rivals Collide

Final Meeting Of Deadlocked Teams

The leadership of the Bi-State Baseball League is at stake today when the Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars battle the Cumberland Amvets at Community Park at 5:30 o'clock.

This will be the final meeting of the teams at present deadlocked for first place with 19 and 8 records during the regular 36-game schedule and Frostburg will be seeking a sweep of the series.

To date Manager Frank Urbas' Mountain City tossers hold a 3-0 edge in the series and Manager Norman Gerdeman of the Amvets plans to send Danny Drew, one-time Frostburg ace, to the rubber to shake the jinx. Danny is about the hottest thing in the league right now and his back-breaking curve ball has enabled him to rack up five consecutive victories in as many appearances on the rubber.

The series opened on May 22 with Bob Cook gaining a 5-4 verdict over Ival "Speed" Lambert in ten innings. Al "Lefty" Lauber decisioned Lambert, 11-4, in the second game on June 20 and Frostburg made it three straight on July 31 when Cook was returned the winner over Lease Zembower, 4-2.

Cook, winner of 10 games and loser of three, will probably get the mound assignment for the Mountain City team and he'll be gunning for his third straight victory over the Amvets.

The game is a "natural" and should attract a large turnout of fans to the Wineow Street Park.

Georgia Town To Honor Negro Girl

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 11 (AP)—For the first time in history this south Georgia town is going to have a parade for a negro—Alice Coachman, olympic champion.

The plans were being made today and just about every big wig in the community is planning to be on hand to honor the 25-year-old daughter of a laundry worker.

Miss Coachman was the first American woman to cop a gold medal for first place in the track and field events at London. She crossed the bar in the high jump at 5 feet 6½ inches to set a new olympic record.

That was just one-half inch higher than her coach, Chris Roulhac at Albany State College, predicted she would go.

Right now the college, headed by Dr. Aaron Brown, is planning to send a station wagon all the way to New York to greet Miss Coachman as she steps from the liner Aug. 30 or Sept. 1.

The station wagon, bearing a sign that an olympic champion is riding therein, will drive Miss Coachman back to Albany by way of Atlanta and Macon.

In addition to the parade there will be a ceremony at the municipal stadium and then a banquet and dance in her honor at the college.

This business of winning track events started for a much younger Alice back in 1937 when a school teacher, Cora Bailey, noticed that the second oldest of the Coachman's six children could run like a rabbit.

After Alice graduated her teacher hustled her to Tuskegee Institute and managed to get her enrolled in the Alabama college.

She won her first title in the 50-meter hurdles in 1939 when she competed in the A.A.U. events. She's won the same event every year since.

Right now she holds the A.A.U. high jump record of 5 feet 4 and 13-16 inches. Besides all that she has won the 50-meter dash in the A.A.U. several times.

K. Of C.-Outdoor Game Heads Today's Program

Teams battling for fourth place and a place in the Shaughnessy playoffs will tangle in today's top game in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The Cumberland Outdoor Club, holding 4th place by the margin of 2½ games, will do battle with the Knights of Columbus, fifth place team, at East Side Field. A win for the Outdoor team would boost their margin to 3½ games but a defeat would reduce their lead to 1½ games.

The first place Eagles and the third place Elks will meet at Fort Hill, the Loyal Order of Moose, holders of 2nd place, will face Potomac Edison on the Rolling Mill diamond and Celanese will oppose the Amvets at Campobello.

True's Homerun Wins For Kline's Tossers

Dick True smashed out a homerun with two mates aboard in the seventh inning yesterday to give Kline's Market an 18-17 decision over the Naval Reserve in the second game of their semi-final playoff. The victory gave the winners a two-game sweep of the series. Kline's won the opener Tuesday, 7-5.

The second game of the doubleheader at Stitcher Field between the Marine Reserves and the Cassino Cubs was postponed because of darkness and will be played Friday at Stitcher Field at 5:45 p. m. The Marines defeated the Cubs, 5-2, in their first meeting. The finals between Kline's and the winner of the Marine-Cubs series will begin next week.

Jack Devault paced the comeback for Kline's, who trailed at one point in the game by ten runs, with four hits in five trips to the plate. Eady and Helmstetter each had three for four for the winners. The score:

U. S. ELIMINATES MEXICO, 71 TO 40, IN OLYMPIC FRAY

LONDON, Aug. 11 (INS)—America's giants of the courts won their semi-final test in the Olympic basketball tournament today by thrashing Mexico, 71 to 40.

The U. S. quintet will face France in the Olympic final. France defeated Brazil 43 to 33 in another tight semi-final match. It was the first defeat the South Americans sustained in seven straight games.

The American victory, although impressive, was not as one-sided as the 31-point victory margin indicates. The taller Yankee players swept into a 30-15 half time lead, but the Mexicans, outfitted in flashy red uniforms, played fine basketball.

Indians-Browns Split; A's Go Into First

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns knocked Cleveland out of first place in the red hot American League pennant chase by walloping the Indians 12-4 in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader tonight. City Loop Stars Take Second Tilt From County Ten

Score 5-3 Win; $103 Collected

The City Softball League All-Stars made it two in a row over the County League stars by copping a 5-3 decision at Hyndman, Pa., yesterday in the series for the benefit of injured players.

The City tossers edged the losers 5-2 in the opening game Monday at Community Park.

The visitors hopped off to a three-run lead in the first inning when "Bee" Orndorff doubled, took third on an error and scored on Doyle George's outfield fly. Vern Penner then walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on the first of Lou Riehl's two hits, a single. Riehl later tallied the third run on Pete Deremer's single.

Penner hit a homerun with the bases empty in the third for another City tally and George's triple and Riehl's second single brought home the final score.

The County stars rallied for three runs in the final frame but couldn't overcome the big lead built up by the winners.

O'Baker opened the last half of the seventh with a single and Robinette walked. Cecil, who collected three of the losers' six hits, then singled and all three runs came home on George's error in left field.

Deremer topped the City batters with three for three while Riehl and Orndorff had two bingles apiece. Riehl's catch of a foul fly off Miller's bat was the fielding feature.

The third game of the series will be played Friday at Hyndman. The game yesterday brought in a total of $103 which makes the total now $220 for the benefit fund. The score:

DODGERS TOP PHILS

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (INS)—The second - place Brooklyn Dodgers swept the three-game series with Philadelphia Phillies today, winning 3 to 2 on Marv Rackley's ninth-inning single, his fourth hit.

Rackley scored Billy Cox from second to secure an eight-hit victory for 20-year-old righthander, Erv Palica.

Palica, who got two of the 12 hits off loser Dutch Leonard, singled Cox to second in the ninth, after the third baseman had walked with two out.

The Phillies tied the game in the ninth on Eddie Miller's home run. Previously, Dick Sisler had homered for the Phillies in the sixth.

BAMBINO ILL—Babe Ruth (above) is shown emaciated and aged by his long illness as he sought health in the sun at Miami Beach, Fla., last February. The home run king's condition was reported as critical today by the Memorial Hospital in New York where his illness was complicated by a high temperature and a pulmonary condition.

Ruth's Condition Critical Hospital Attaches Report

Wife, Daughters Are At Bedside

By JOE HALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Babe Ruth, baseball's home run king, lay critically ill in a hospital today.

Sick and under constant treatment for two years, Ruth took a sudden turn for the worse from complications growing out of a cold.

The cold first was reported Monday. Yesterday his condition seemed improved with his temperature down.

But this morning the Memorial Hospital Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases said Ruth's temperature had risen and added:

"There are pulmonary complications. Conditions critical."

At 1:30 p. m. (EST) the hospital said his condition was unchanged.

A 5 p. m. bulletin reported his condition "slightly improved" but "still critical."

The exact nature of the Bambino's illness never has been divulged. He has continued to make public appearances from time to time, but his loss of weight and rasping voice have revealed the severity of his ailment.

The Babe's wife, Claire, his adopted daughter, Mrs. Dorthy Sullivan, and a sister, Mrs. Wilbur Moberley, were at his bedside. Another adopted daughter, Mrs. Richard Flanders of North Conway, N. H., was reported flying here.

The Memorial Hospital switchboard was jammed with calls from the great slugger's well wishers. Twenty children, their faces sad, brought a bouquet to the hospital and a nurse promised to put it in his room if possible.

Ruth, now 53, underwent a delicate neck operation at French Hospital two years ago. Since then he has divided his time between hospital rooms and his Riverside Drive apartment, always under a doctor's care.

But he was able to take a Florida vacation last winter and he took part in various activities of the Babe Ruth Foundation.

Favorite Cops Both Heats In Trotting Event

Driver Is First Amateur To Win

By PAT ROBINSON
INS Sports Writer

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 11 (INS)—Demon Hanover, the odds-on favorite, romped away with the $60,000 Hambletonian trotting classic today.

Driven by his owner Harrison Hoyt, a hat manufacturer of Bethel, Conn., the great 3-year-old colt made a runaway of both heats of the race, eliminating any need for a third heat in the two-out-of-three affair.

He led from beginning to end of both heats, winning the first by a length in 2:03 1-5 for the mile and the second by three lengths, eased up, in 2:02.

Rollo Is Second

In each heat Coldstream Stud's Rollo was second and in each heat Saunders Mills' Egan Hanover was third in the field of eleven.

Hoyt is a comparative newcomer to the game. He has been driving only four years. And today he became the first amateur driver ever to win the Hambletonian. He also was the first owner-driver ever to win the stake.

He drove with all the skill and sureness of his veteran professional rivals.

He broke his horse on top in each heat and once out in front there never was any doubt about the result.

The 20,000 who overflowed the stands for the rustic classic in this little town sent the Demon off at 4 to 5 in the first heat and 2 to 5 in the second.

Worth $75,000

There was a tense hush as the horses shot away for the first heat, but before the first turn had been reached on the kite-shaped track the race was in the bag.

Hoyt, who bought the horse as a yearling for $2,600, said he might accept $75,000 for him.

"I had him under a steady pull in both heats and he was never challenged," said Hoyt.

Tom Berry, Del Miller, Frank Safford and other veteran professional drivers in the race paid high tribute to Hoyt's skill.

"Nobody could have driven better," said Berry, "and he had much the best horse."

U. S. Earns More Olympic Medals

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—America's court titans breezed into the finals of the basketball tournament tonight with a 71-40 victory over Mexico that climaxed a series of other U.S. successes over the dwindling olympic front.

Paced by the six-foot-seven Alex Groza of the University of Kentucky, who meshed 19 points, Uncle Sam's proficient lads had little more than a workout with their good neighbors to the south.

In other sectors, the Americans added emphasis to the greatest of all their olympic showings by capturing canoeing and weight lifting championships, gaining the finals in the sabre tournament and moving forward stoutly in the familiar boxing ring.

A Yonkers, N. Y., team, Steve Macknowski and Steve Lysak, paddled a homemade canoe to victory in the 10,000 meter (six miles, 376 yards) Canadian pairs event for America's first olympic canoeing championship in history.

Their time was 55 minutes, 55.4 seconds to beat out Czechoslovakia and France with strokes to spare.

Another American canoer—Frank Havens of Cabin John, Md. — finished second in the 10,000 meter Canadian singles to Frantisek Capek of Czechoslovakia.

The other championship show was put on by a couple of muscle men with utter diseregard for records — heavyweight weightlifter John Davis, former New York subway guard, and Stanley Stanczyk, a 24-year-old Detroit and York, Pa., clerk.

Davis set two world heavyweight records by lifting 314 pounds in the snatch competition and 391¼ in the jerk.

His feats climaxed a United States performance that included four first places and clinched the team crown with a total of 63 points.

Stanczyk set new olympic marks in three events — the two-hand clean and press, two-hand snatch and two-hand clean and jerk — and he had the highest olympic total ever for the three — 919½ pounds.

The Americans qualified five men for the quarter-finals in the boxing tournament — Frankie Sodano of Philadelphia, flyweight; Edward Johnson of Kansas City, featherweight; Wallace Smith of Cincinnati, lightweight; Horace Herring of St. Petersburg, Fla., welterweight, and heavyweight Jay Lambert of West Jordan, Utah.

In crowded Torquay Harbor, U. S. yachtsmen kept their title hopes alive by winning two races — the international six-meter and swallow — and finishing in the top ten in the other three.

Team Gets Medals

LONDON, Aug. 11. (AP)—The American 400-meter relay team, declared Olympic champions by jury of appeal yesterday, received its gold medals today at a special ceremony in Wembley stadium.

Amvets Host To Frostburg In Bi-State Headliner

League Lead In Balance As Rivals Collide

Final Meeting Of Deadlocked Teams

The leadership of the Bi-State Baseball League is at stake today when the Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars battle the Cumberland Amvets at Community Park at 5:30 o'clock.

This will be the final meeting of the teams at present deadlocked for first place with 19 and 8 records during the regular 36-game schedule and Frostburg will be seeking a sweep of the series.

To date Manager Frank Urbas' Mountain City tossers hold a 3-0 edge in the series and Manager Norman Gerdeman of the Amvets plans to send Danny Drew, one-time Frostburg ace, to the rubber to shake the jinx. Danny is about the hottest thing in the league right now and his back-breaking curve ball has enabled him to rack up five consecutive victories in as many appearances on the rubber.

The series opened on May 22 with Bob Cook gaining a 5-4 verdict over Ival "Speed" Lambert in ten innings. Al "Lefty" Lauber decisioned Lambert, 11-4, in the second game on June 20 and Frostburg made it three straight on July 31 when Cook was returned the winner over Lease Zembower, 4-2.

Cook, winner of 10 games and loser of three, will probably get the mound assignment for the Mountain City team and he'll be gunning for his third straight victory over the Amvets.

The game is a "natural" and should attract a large turnout of fans to the Wineow Street Park.

Georgia Town To Honor Negro Girl

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 11 (AP)—For the first time in history this south Georgia town is going to have a parade for a negro—Alice Coachman, olympic champion.

The plans were being made today and just about every big wig in the community is planning to be on hand to honor the 25-year-old daughter of a laundry worker.

Miss Coachman was the first American woman to cop a gold medal for first place in the track and field events at London. She crossed the bar in the high jump at 5 feet 6½ inches to set a new olympic record.

Right now the college, headed by Dr. Aaron Brown, is planning to send a station wagon all the way to New York to greet Miss Coachman as she steps from the liner Aug. 30 or Sept. 1.

The station wagon, bearing a sign that an olympic champion is riding therein, will drive Miss Coachman back to Albany by way of Atlanta and Macon.

In addition to the parade there will be a ceremony at the municipal stadium and then a banquet and dance in her honor at the college.

This business of winning track events started for a much younger Alice back in 1937 when a school teacher, Cora Bailey, noticed that the second oldest of the Coachman's six children could run like a rabbit.

After Alice graduated her teacher hustled her to Tuskegee Institute and managed to get her enrolled in the Alabama college.

She won her first title in the 50-meter hurdles in 1939 when she competed in the A.A.U. events. She's won the same event every year since.

Right now she holds the A.A.U. high jump record of 5 feet 4 and 13-16 inches. Besides all that she has won the 50-meter dash in the A.A.U. several times.

K. Of C.-Outdoor Game Heads Today's Program

Teams battling for fourth place and a place in the Shaughnessy playoffs will tangle in today's top game in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The Cumberland Outdoor Club, holding 4th place by the margin of 2½ games, will do battle with the Knights of Columbus, fifth place team, at East Side Field. A win for the Outdoor team would boost their margin to 3½ games but a defeat would reduce their lead to 1½ games.

The first place Eagles and the third place Elks will meet at Fort Hill, the Loyal Order of Moose, holders of 2nd place, will face Potomac Edison on the Rolling Mill diamond and Celanese will oppose the Amvets at Campobello.

Dick True smashed out a homerun with two mates aboard in the seventh inning yesterday to give Kline's Market an 18-17 decision over the Naval Reserve in the second game of their semi-final playoff. The victory gave the winners a two-game sweep of the series. Kline's won the opener Tuesday, 7-5.

The second game of the doubleheader at Stitcher Field between the Marine Reserves and the Cassino Cubs was postponed because of darkness and will be played Friday at Stitcher Field at 5:45 p. m. The Marines defeated the Cubs, 5-2, in their first meeting. The finals between Kline's and the winner of the Marine-Cubs series will begin next week.

U. S. ELIMINATES MEXICO, 71 TO 40, IN OLYMPIC FRAY

LONDON, Aug. 11 (INS)—America's giants of the courts won their semi-final test in the Olympic basketball tournament today by thrashing Mexico, 71 to 40.

The U. S. quintet will face France in the Olympic final. France defeated Brazil 43 to 33 in another tight semi-final match. It was the first defeat the South Americans sustained in seven straight games.

The American victory, although impressive, was not as one-sided as the 31-point victory margin indicates. The taller Yankee players swept into a 30-15 half time lead, but the Mexicans, outfitted in flashy red uniforms, played fine basketball.

City Loop Stars Take Second Tilt From County Ten

Score 5-3 Win; $103 Collected

The City Softball League All-Stars made it two in a row over the County League stars by copping a 5-3 decision at Hyndman, Pa., yesterday in the series for the benefit of injured players.

The City tossers edged the losers 5-2 in the opening game Monday at Community Park.

The visitors hopped off to a three-run lead in the first inning when "Bee" Orndorff doubled, took third on an error and scored on Doyle George's outfield fly. Vern Penner then walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on the first of Lou Riehl's two hits, a single. Riehl later tallied the third run on Pete Deremer's single.

Penner hit a homerun with the bases empty in the third for another City tally and George's triple and Riehl's second single brought home the final score.

The County stars rallied for three runs in the final frame but couldn't overcome the big lead built up by the winners.

O'Baker opened the last half of the seventh with a single and Robinette walked. Cecil, who collected three of the losers' six hits, then singled and all three runs came home on George's error in left field.

Deremer topped the City batters with three for three while Riehl and Orndorff had two bingles apiece. Riehl's catch of a foul fly off Miller's bat was the fielding feature.

The third game of the series will be played Friday at Hyndman. The game yesterday brought in a total of $103 which makes the total now $220 for the benefit fund. The score:

DODGERS TOP PHILS

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (INS)—The second - place Brooklyn Dodgers swept the three-game series with Philadelphia Phillies today, winning 3 to 2 on Marv Rackley's ninth-inning single, his fourth hit.

Rackley scored Billy Cox from second to secure an eight-hit victory for 20-year-old righthander, Erv Palica.

Palica, who got two of the 12 hits off loser Dutch Leonard, singled Cox to second in the ninth, after the third baseman had walked with two out.

The Phillies tied the game in the ninth on Eddie Miller's home run. Previously, Dick Sisler had homered for the Phillies in the sixth.

BAMBINO ILL—Babe Ruth (above) is shown emaciated and aged by his long illness as he sought health in the sun at Miami Beach, Fla., last February. The home run king's condition was reported as critical today by the Memorial Hospital in New York where his illness was complicated by a high temperature and a pulmonary condition.

Ruth's Condition Critical Hospital Attaches Report

Wife, Daughters Are At Bedside

By JOE HALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Babe Ruth, baseball's home run king, lay critically ill in a hospital today.

Sick and under constant treatment for two years, Ruth took a sudden turn for the worse from complications growing out of a cold.

The cold first was reported Monday. Yesterday his condition seemed improved with his temperature down.

But this morning the Memorial Hospital Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases said Ruth's temperature had risen and added:

"There are pulmonary complications. Conditions critical."

At 1:30 p. m. (EST) the hospital said his condition was unchanged.

A 5 p. m. bulletin reported his condition "slightly improved" but "still critical."

The exact nature of the Bambino's illness never has been divulged. He has continued to make public appearances from time to time, but his loss of weight and rasping voice have revealed the severity of his ailment.

The Babe's wife, Claire, his adopted daughter, Mrs. Dorthy Sullivan, and a sister, Mrs. Wilbur Moberley, were at his bedside. Another adopted daughter, Mrs. Richard Flanders of North Conway, N. H., was reported flying here.

The Memorial Hospital switchboard was jammed with calls from the great slugger's well wishers. Twenty children, their faces sad, brought a bouquet to the hospital and a nurse promised to put it in his room if possible.

Ruth, now 53, underwent a delicate neck operation at French Hospital two years ago. Since then he has divided his time between hospital rooms and his Riverside Drive apartment, always under a doctor's care.

But he was able to take a Florida vacation last winter and he took part in various activities of the Babe Ruth Foundation.

Lindsay, Zimmerman and Barich each had two hits for the Ridgeley tossers with Zimmerman banging out a three-bagger. The score:

By PAT ROBINSON
INS Sports Writer

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 11 (INS)—Demon Hanover, the odds-on favorite, romped away with the $60,000 Hambletonian trotting classic today.

Driven by his owner Harrison Hoyt, a hat manufacturer of Bethel, Conn., the great 3-year-old colt made a runaway of both heats of the race, eliminating any need for a third heat in the two-out-of-three affair.

He led from beginning to end of both heats, winning the first by a length in 2:03 1-5 for the mile and the second by three lengths, eased up, in 2:02.

Rollo Is Second

In each heat Coldstream Stud's Rollo was second and in each heat Saunders Mills' Egan Hanover was third in the field of eleven.

Hoyt is a comparative newcomer to the game. He has been driving only four years. And today he became the first amateur driver ever to win the Hambletonian. He also was the first owner-driver ever to win the stake.

He drove with all the skill and sureness of his veteran professional rivals.

He broke his horse on top in each heat and once out in front there never was any doubt about the result.

The 20,000 who overflowed the stands for the rustic classic in this little town sent the Demon off at 4 to 5 in the first heat and 2 to 5 in the second.

Worth $75,000

There was a tense hush as the horses shot away for the first heat, but before the first turn had been reached on the kite-shaped track the race was in the bag.

Hoyt, who bought the horse as a yearling for $2,600, said he might accept $75,000 for him.

"I had him under a steady pull in both heats and he was never challenged," said Hoyt.

Tom Berry, Del Miller, Frank Safford and other veteran professional drivers in the race paid high tribute to Hoyt's skill.

"Nobody could have driven better," said Berry, "and he had much the best horse."

U. S. Earns More Olympic Medals

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—America's court titans breezed into the finals of the basketball tournament tonight with a 71-40 victory over Mexico that climaxed a series of other U.S. successes over the dwindling olympic front.

Paced by the six-foot-seven Alex Groza of the University of Kentucky, who meshed 19 points, Uncle Sam's proficient lads had little more than a workout with their good neighbors to the south.

In other sectors, the Americans added emphasis to the greatest of all their olympic showings by capturing canoeing and weight lifting championships, gaining the finals in the sabre tournament and moving forward stoutly in the familiar boxing ring.

A Yonkers, N. Y., team, Steve Macknowski and Steve Lysak, paddled a homemade canoe to victory in the 10,000 meter (six miles, 376 yards) Canadian pairs event for America's first olympic canoeing championship in history.

Their time was 55 minutes, 55.4 seconds to beat out Czechoslovakia and France with strokes to spare.

Another American canoer—Frank Havens of Cabin John, Md. — finished second in the 10,000 meter Canadian singles to Frantisek Capek of Czechoslovakia.

The other championship show was put on by a couple of muscle men with utter diseregard for records — heavyweight weightlifter John Davis, former New York subway guard, and Stanley Stanczyk, a 24-year-old Detroit and York, Pa., clerk.

Davis set two world heavyweight records by lifting 314 pounds in the snatch competition and 391¼ in the jerk.

His feats climaxed a United States performance that included four first places and clinched the team crown with a total of 63 points.

Stanczyk set new olympic marks in three events — the two-hand clean and press, two-hand snatch and two-hand clean and jerk — and he had the highest olympic total ever for the three — 919½ pounds.

The Americans qualified five men for the quarter-finals in the boxing tournament — Frankie Sodano of Philadelphia, flyweight; Edward Johnson of Kansas City, featherweight; Wallace Smith of Cincinnati, lightweight; Horace Herring of St. Petersburg, Fla., welterweight, and heavyweight Jay Lambert of West Jordan, Utah.

In crowded Torquay Harbor, U. S. yachtsmen kept their title hopes alive by winning two races — the international six-meter and swallow — and finishing in the top ten in the other three.

Team Gets Medals

LONDON, Aug. 11. (AP)—The American 400-meter relay team, declared Olympic champions by jury of appeal yesterday, received its gold medals today at a special ceremony in Wembley stadium.

Move To Shift U.N. From U.S. Quelled

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Truman's signature on a $65,000,000 American loan for United Nations headquarters today quelled moves to transfer the United States.

Elated United Nations officials said construction will begin in October on the skyscraper quarters on New York City's East Side. The United Nations hopes to begin moving in by the summer of 1950. The target date on completion is 1951.

Diplomatic observers viewed the final American approval as removing any serious probability that the United Nations now will move to Europe.

The House finally passed the loan bill 164 to 27 August 5. The Senate had approved the measure at the regular session, but it was left in a House pigeon hole in the preconvention adjournment rush.

President Truman signed the bill in a White House ceremony today attended by Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie, Assistant Secretary-General Byron Price and others. The President used eight pens and handed one to each of those present.

The President said the step demonstrates the United States' faith in a peaceful future. He called it another example of the solidarity of the American people behind a bipartisan foreign policy to strengthen the United Nations and the cause of world peace and security.

Foster Named Head Navy Junior Gridders

Foster's staff will include Marine Lt. Col. Lowell English and Ensign Charles A. Kiser of Mason City, Iowa, line coaches; and assistant lacrosse coach Bill Bilderback and Ensign Bill McClain of Etowah, Tenn., backfield coaches, it was announced by Athletic Director Tom Hamilton.

Foster, English and Bilderback have been stationed here several years; Kiser and McClain, recent graduates, are reporting for duty at the Naval Academy for the first time.

Western Envoys

conveyed this answer to Molotov on behalf of all three countries at the meeting of Friday, August 6. Smith was quite tough. He said the West would not now negotiate its right to stay in Berlin since it already had this right. Nor, would the West pay off for lifting the blockade with a lot of concessions in return. Smith implied strongly that the Kremlin was trying to shakedown the Western powers by the Berlin blockade.

Molotov replying to Smith took up control of the Ruhr, delay in formation of the Western German state and the agenda for the Big-Four conference. But Smith and his colleagues would not budge on any of these points. Frank Roberts, of the British Foreign Office, said London had authorized him to say that the Western Powers were proceeding with all their plans for Germany; that the German problem already had been delayed too long by negotiation.

When Molotov persisted, Ambassador Smith said the orders of the western diplomats were to discuss two things: The lifting of the blockade and the Big-Four conference. Molotov held out for an agenda. Again Smith declined, saying the granting of an agenda now would be interpreted as something the West gave Moscow in exchange for the lifting of the blockade.

These are the reasons why no fruits have yet come from the conferences. The two sides haven't even been able to agree on the wording of a joint communique on the conferences. And Molotov, like the name he bears, has been hammering away trying to get an extra ounce of flesh before formalizing any agreements.

AWAIT CONTRACT REPORT—A crowd estimated at over 1,000 persons last night stood in a steady drizzle outside the union hall on North Mechanic Street to hear the negotiating committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, give details of the new contract negotiated with the Celanese Corporation of America providing for a 15 cent flat wage increase at the Amcelle plant. The union hall was filled to overflowing before the meeting began at 8 p. m. Union officials installed loud speakers so the waiting workers might hear the full report of the negotiating committee. Final action on the agreement will be taken at a meeting this morning at 10:30 o'clock. (Story on Page 18.)

Vote Decisive

Will Cost $2,500,000

The contract will increase the purchasing power of the Cumberland area by about two and one half-million dollars during the next year, it was pointed out.

The Celanese union opened negotiations in May for a 25 cents an hour wage increase, improved vacation clauses, additional holidays, inclusion into the contract of group insurance and pension plans and a union shop.

Contract talks became deadlocked June 26 when the working agreement covering the some 8,000 hourly rated workers of the plant expired.

At that time, when the union asked the United States Conciliation Service to assist in the dispute here, tentative agreement was reported on a number of issues, leaving unsettled money issues and a relatively small number of other points.

A series of conference called by Holden, who was assigned to the contract dispute, resulted in other progress, including a tentative agreement on the check off of union dues but bogged down completely on the wage issue.

Drops To 18 Cents

The union, which had opened talks on the basis of the 25 cent figure, dropped to 18½ cents about the middle of July and a week later lowered its sights another half cent without securing a wage proposal from the firm.

Holden, on July 28, reported following a fruitless session that he would call another meeting whenever either side showed willingness to recede from their positions or when a break in the rayon industry provided a basis for the resumption of discussions here.

When that break appeared last week, as American Viscose Corporation workers were offered an average boost of 15 cents and other rayon firms offered comparable increases, preparations were made for the resumption of discussions here.

Holden reported "progress" at meetings held Monday and Tuesday and the feeling grew at that time that a proposal would be ready for reaction of the membership last night.

Last week the way was paved for union security clauses in the contract when the union won by an overwhelming majority a union security election held under National Labor Relations Board auspices. The union for a number of years has had a maintenance of membership clause in its contracts.

The union also approved at the meeting last night a proposal to increase the union dues from $1.50 to $2 a month. The action was endorsed by some 1,600 delegates at the recent TWUA convention, officers pointed out.

Soccer Players To Receive Pay

LONDON, Aug. 11. (AP)—England's football soccer association has fallen into line with Europe on payment to amateur athletes for "broken time" while playing soccer.

It was decided in certain cases to make "reasonable payments" to amateur soccer players who lose wages or salary when playing football. At the moment this concession will be restricted to cases of real hardship, a spokesman said today.

King Scores Double

BATH, Eng., Aug. 11. (AP)—King George, whose racehorses have not been in the big money this season, pulled off a "double" today.

Gordon Richards, Britain's champion jockey, won on the King's two-year-old "Gigantic" in the Fernley Plate of $800. His Majesty's "Royal Blue," another two year old, won in the Bathampton Plate, also worth $800.

The Potomac Edison Company yesterday was threatened with legal action by a Ridgeley, W. Va., resident who complained of fly ash and cinders being blown on private property during hauling.

"My client has told me that the hauling of fly ash and cinders, generally starts in the early morning hours and continues all night long with the dust and ashes emanating from the trucks settling upon her property causing no little grief.

"Mrs. Malamphy has suffered damages as a result of your hauling but she would be willing to forego her damages at this time, provided you would be willing to make other arrangements about hauling your fly ash and cinders. My client has requested me to bring suit in Mineral County Circuit Court enjoining your trucks from further hauling but I suggested that if we could accomplish this without court action she would forego damages and not inconvenience your company.

Move To Shift U.N. From U.S. Quelled

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Truman's signature on a $65,000,000 American loan for United Nations headquarters today quelled moves to transfer the United States.

Elated United Nations officials said construction will begin in October on the skyscraper quarters on New York City's East Side. The United Nations hopes to begin moving in by the summer of 1950. The target date on completion is 1951.

Diplomatic observers viewed the final American approval as removing any serious probability that the United Nations now will move to Europe.

The House finally passed the loan bill 164 to 27 August 5. The Senate had approved the measure at the regular session, but it was left in a House pigeon hole in the preconvention adjournment rush.

President Truman signed the bill in a White House ceremony today attended by Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie, Assistant Secretary-General Byron Price and others. The President used eight pens and handed one to each of those present.

The President said the step demonstrates the United States' faith in a peaceful future. He called it another example of the solidarity of the American people behind a bipartisan foreign policy to strengthen the United Nations and the cause of world peace and security.

Foster Named Head Navy Junior Gridders

Foster's staff will include Marine Lt. Col. Lowell English and Ensign Charles A. Kiser of Mason City, Iowa, line coaches; and assistant lacrosse coach Bill Bilderback and Ensign Bill McClain of Etowah, Tenn., backfield coaches, it was announced by Athletic Director Tom Hamilton.

Foster, English and Bilderback have been stationed here several years; Kiser and McClain, recent graduates, are reporting for duty at the Naval Academy for the first time.

Western Envoys

conveyed this answer to Molotov on behalf of all three countries at the meeting of Friday, August 6. Smith was quite tough. He said the West would not now negotiate its right to stay in Berlin since it already had this right. Nor, would the West pay off for lifting the blockade with a lot of concessions in return. Smith implied strongly that the Kremlin was trying to shakedown the Western powers by the Berlin blockade.

Molotov replying to Smith took up control of the Ruhr, delay in formation of the Western German state and the agenda for the Big-Four conference. But Smith and his colleagues would not budge on any of these points. Frank Roberts, of the British Foreign Office, said London had authorized him to say that the Western Powers were proceeding with all their plans for Germany; that the German problem already had been delayed too long by negotiation.

When Molotov persisted, Ambassador Smith said the orders of the western diplomats were to discuss two things: The lifting of the blockade and the Big-Four conference. Molotov held out for an agenda. Again Smith declined, saying the granting of an agenda now would be interpreted as something the West gave Moscow in exchange for the lifting of the blockade.

These are the reasons why no fruits have yet come from the conferences. The two sides haven't even been able to agree on the wording of a joint communique on the conferences. And Molotov, like the name he bears, has been hammering away trying to get an extra ounce of flesh before formalizing any agreements.

AWAIT CONTRACT REPORT—A crowd estimated at over 1,000 persons last night stood in a steady drizzle outside the union hall on North Mechanic Street to hear the negotiating committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, give details of the new contract negotiated with the Celanese Corporation of America providing for a 15 cent flat wage increase at the Amcelle plant. The union hall was filled to overflowing before the meeting began at 8 p. m. Union officials installed loud speakers so the waiting workers might hear the full report of the negotiating committee. Final action on the agreement will be taken at a meeting this morning at 10:30 o'clock. (Story on Page 18.)

Will Cost $2,500,000

The contract will increase the purchasing power of the Cumberland area by about two and one half-million dollars during the next year, it was pointed out.

The Celanese union opened negotiations in May for a 25 cents an hour wage increase, improved vacation clauses, additional holidays, inclusion into the contract of group insurance and pension plans and a union shop.

Contract talks became deadlocked June 26 when the working agreement covering the some 8,000 hourly rated workers of the plant expired.

At that time, when the union asked the United States Conciliation Service to assist in the dispute here, tentative agreement was reported on a number of issues, leaving unsettled money issues and a relatively small number of other points.

A series of conference called by Holden, who was assigned to the contract dispute, resulted in other progress, including a tentative agreement on the check off of union dues but bogged down completely on the wage issue.

Drops To 18 Cents

The union, which had opened talks on the basis of the 25 cent figure, dropped to 18½ cents about the middle of July and a week later lowered its sights another half cent without securing a wage proposal from the firm.

Holden, on July 28, reported following a fruitless session that he would call another meeting whenever either side showed willingness to recede from their positions or when a break in the rayon industry provided a basis for the resumption of discussions here.

When that break appeared last week, as American Viscose Corporation workers were offered an average boost of 15 cents and other rayon firms offered comparable increases, preparations were made for the resumption of discussions here.

Holden reported "progress" at meetings held Monday and Tuesday and the feeling grew at that time that a proposal would be ready for reaction of the membership last night.

Last week the way was paved for union security clauses in the contract when the union won by an overwhelming majority a union security election held under National Labor Relations Board auspices. The union for a number of years has had a maintenance of membership clause in its contracts.

The union also approved at the meeting last night a proposal to increase the union dues from $1.50 to $2 a month. The action was endorsed by some 1,600 delegates at the recent TWUA convention, officers pointed out.

Soccer Players To Receive Pay

LONDON, Aug. 11. (AP)—England's football soccer association has fallen into line with Europe on payment to amateur athletes for "broken time" while playing soccer.

It was decided in certain cases to make "reasonable payments" to amateur soccer players who lose wages or salary when playing football. At the moment this concession will be restricted to cases of real hardship, a spokesman said today.

King Scores Double

PE Is Threatened With Legal Action

The Potomac Edison Company yesterday was threatened with legal action by a Ridgeley, W. Va., resident who complained of fly ash and cinders being blown on private property during hauling.

Mrs. Anna Malamphy, represented by Howard P. Shores, Keyser, W. Va., said the fly ash is hauled from the PE's River Plant past her home in the early morning hours. Shores in a letter to the company, stated:

"My client has told me that the hauling of fly ash and cinders, generally starts in the early morning hours and continues all night long with the dust and ashes emanating from the trucks settling upon her property causing no little grief.

"Mrs. Malamphy has suffered damages as a result of your hauling but she would be willing to forego her damages at this time, provided you would be willing to make other arrangements about hauling your fly ash and cinders. My client has requested me to bring suit in Mineral County Circuit Court enjoining your trucks from further hauling but I suggested that if we could accomplish this without court action she would forego damages and not inconvenience your company.

192,131 School Lunches Served In Hardy County During 1947-48

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—R. S. Dispanet, superintendent of Hardy County Public Schools, announced that 192,131 school lunches were served during the school year 1947-1948 on the basis of figures submitted by Mrs. Fannie T. Didawick, supervisor of the Hardy County School Program.

Dispanet reported that the income for the hot lunch program amounted to $33,706.87 and included $13,710.83 from the Department of Agriculture, $16,614.37 in payments from the children, $1,838.05 from the State of West Virginia and $1,543.62 from P-TA Associations, Farm Women's clubs, teachers lunches and miscellaneous.

The total expenditure amounted to $32,132.73, divided thus: for foods, $20,663.31, labor $9,308.69, utilities and equipment $2,160.73.

Almost 50 per cent of the school children participated in the program. The cost per lunch was 18.9 cents with 12.2 cents for food, 5.5 cents for labor and 1.2 cents for utilities and equipment.

Since rice cannot be grown in the cold uplands of Tibet, it is a luxury eaten only by the wealthy inhabitants.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11—(INS)—Lana Turner is due to arrive in New York September 3. I hope she will listen to her bosses at MGM when she gets back in Hollywood. Up to now, she's been unwilling to listen to any advice other than that given by her bridegroom, Bob Topping.

Louella Parsons

"Madame Bovary" is being made ready for her with Pandro Berman as the producer, and I hear by cable from Antibe that she has already started to take off her added poundage.

A little you-know-what was raised by Niven Busch when he heard that a bootleg galley proof of "The Furies," his yet unpublished novel, was being circulated among our movie producers.

Niven, who wrote the book from which "Duel In the Sun" was taken, wants his new book to hit the stands and get circulation value before it's bought by any of the companies.

The tale is that of a feud between a daughter and father, both land barons of New Mexico. Sounds like it might be a little on the order of "Duel."

Chatter in Hollywood: Mrs. Gladys O'Brien, Margaret's mother, is writing a book called "Hollywood Mother." Well, she's the one who can tell all about being a movie mama. She has been with Margaret all her movie career which started when the child was a mere babe.

•—•—•

Gary Cooper isn't exactly what you'd call a chatty type. He has been called the most taciturn actor off the screen. And that was certainly proved today on the set of "The Fountainhead" where he is working with Pat Neal.

Gary had to carry Pat across the room. Suddenly, King Vidor noticed he was very white and perspiring profusely.

"What's the matter, Gary?" King asked.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Now I've heard everything! A musical satire based on the Kinsey report is being written by Daniele Amfitheatrof, head musical director of U-I, for Broadway presentation—how that can be put on the stage, I wouldn't know.

Good for Joan Crawford. She gave a luncheon for Gertrude Michael and had all Gertrude's old friends there. So often we forget people who have been unfortunate.

If the Humphrey Bogart baby is a girl she will be named Leslie after Leslie Howard, Bogey says. Reminds me, I saw Mrs. Howard in London and she's lost a lot of weight.

Errol Flynn gets back Monday from his vacation in the British West Indies. With Nora Flynn in Hollywood, Warners didn't have to page Errol, for once, to start his next movie. He couldn't wait to get back.

Ran into Rory Calhoun at Trabert and Hoeffer's buying a ring for Isabelita. Could be they're getting married earlier. No, I wasn't buying a diamond tiara—I was getting my watch fixed.

Saw Norman Kerry in New York. He's on his way to Europe with Edmund Goulding as Eddie's assistant. Norman looks better than he has in a long time.

Governor Earl Warren and his attractive family will be among the guests at the reception given by Betzi and Bob Stack in honor of Jeanette MacDonald after her Hollywood Bowl concert on the 17th.

Kay Thompson opens in the Florentine room of the Beverly Wilshire hotel in October, and there will certainly be a sell out with that gal's popularity.

That's all today.

A bright new comet is visible in the early morning in the constellation of Andromeda. Of the fourth magnitude, it can easily be picked up with binoculars, and may also be spotted with the naked eye by those people who are far from city lights.

16,500 Americans Visiting Holland

THE HAGUE — (AP) — American travel in Holland has hit a new high this summer, the Netherlands Tourist Bureau reports, and the figure may even go higher as a result of efforts to extend the season into the autumn.

Present estimates are that 16,500 Americans will have visited Holland by the end of the summer. These include about 12,000 tourists from the United States, 3,000 from the American forces in Germany and 1,500 students coming under the auspices of various organizations such as the American Youth Hostelers, the International Students Service, Experiment in International Living, and International Seminars.

The pigeon is the only bird that drinks by suction. All other birds take the water into their mouths and throw their heads back in order to swallow.

Chinese Opera Dying

SHANGHAI — (AP) — The Peiping opera—the form of Chinese opera preferred by foreigners—is in danger of disappearing in China, principally because of motion picture competition.

Still considered the best form of opera in China, the Peiping opera flourished during the Manchu dynasty, Two decades ago, the opera carried on through the patronage of Chinese society.

Today, the Chinese prefer the movies, particularly Occidental films. As a result, the number of opera houses in Shanghai has been reduced from 12 before the war to four. The others have been converted into movie theaters.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11—(INS)—Lana Turner is due to arrive in New York September 3. I hope she will listen to her bosses at MGM when she gets back in Hollywood. Up to now, she's been unwilling to listen to any advice other than that given by her bridegroom, Bob Topping.

"Madame Bovary" is being made ready for her with Pandro Berman as the producer, and I hear by cable from Antibe that she has already started to take off her added poundage.

• — • — •

A little you-know-what was raised by Niven Busch when he heard that a bootleg galley proof of "The Furies," his yet unpublished novel, was being circulated among our movie producers.

Fred Waring Will Honor Composer Of Many Musicals

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The networks often make a fuss over men who write beautiful music but seldom say much about the men who supply the lyrics for sings or the books for musical shows.

But tonight at 10:30 over NBC the shoe will be on the other foot. Otto Harbach, who coined the words and books for many of the most beautiful operettas and musical shows ever produced on Broadway, will be honored by Fred Waring.

The "Fred Waring Show" has woven a birthday salute for Harbach, who will be 75 years old this month, from the musical plays that dominated musical life in New York and elsewhere for many years.

From "Roberta, written with Jerome Kern, Waring has chosen "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes." Others to be included are "Who" from "Sonny" and the 'Indian Love Call," hit number of "Rose Marie," written by Harbach in collaboration with Rudolf Friml.

The malajusting effects of one small incident on a small boy "The Tinwnistle" will be re-presented by Mutual's "The Family Theater from 10 to 10:30 tonight. This specially scripted drama, originally given a year ago on Aug. 21, will be presented by an all-star cast of Hollywood actors.

British Beaver Born

LONDON (AP) — Beavers at the Dudley zoo came out into the open with a baby and according to vital statistics it is the first beaver born in England since 1916. Zoo manager Donald Bowles gave positive assurance that under no circumstances will it be sent out of the British Isles.

The parents are beavers sent as a gift last October from the Jasper National Park, Edmondon, Alberta.

Slapsie Maxie Malaprop

John Crosby

Maxie Rosenbloom, who was pretty funny as light heavyweight champion of the world, has attempted to turn his rather distinctive talents to commercial uses in a new comedy program (N. B. C. 10 p. m. E.D.T.) Fridays). Slapsie, I'm told, fractures his friends with his happy innocence of the English language and I suppose it was this gift, if gift is the word for it, which led to his presence on the air.

I don't know though. He strikes me as something less than hilarious, which may mean some lack in my sense of appreciation. This uneasy conviction was strengthened by the announcement (which some one very carefully made on the show) that Maxie had received rave notices in "Variety." Consequently, distrusting my own sensibilities concerning Mr. R., I tried him out on a roomful of friends. They received him with polite interest which turned gradually into astonishment and ultimately to indifference. Apparently I'm not alone in my response to Slapsie.

In this show, Slapsie is cast as a sort of village idiot, constantly victimized by society and his own stupidity. He has a manager named Tiger who cuffs him about and a girl named Patricia Bright, who is a pale imitation of Miss Duffy. Miss Bright—that's her real name, by the way—keeps trying to get Slapsie into show business. This provokes a lot of discussion as to whether Maxie is a singer or an actor and I must admit there are grounds for discussion.

There is a genius underfoot who flies into unreasoning rages and then says "I'm sorry." There's a swish character—no comedy show can long survive apparently without one of these people around—who says—and I quote—"Just look at that muscle."

"Where?" asks Maxie.

"Oh, you scared it!"

Maxie's mismanagement of language has been widely reported in the sports columns but I feel duty bound to pass along a couple of his Malapropisms which have none of the inventive genius of Ed Gardner's "Variety (The magazine) is the slice of life."

"You know the motto of show business?"

"Sure. The mail must go through."

"No, I'll keep my clothes on."

As for his singing, Mr. Rosenbloom has twice done that duet in which he is assigned one word in a song, for example, the "it's" in "It's delicious, it's delightful, it's de-lovely." It's a pretty funny routine if you don't hear it too often but I have heard it too often. Much too often. It has been done in several nightclub acts. I understand a U.S.O. comedian practically went around the world on the strength of it. And Milton Berle just did it on television. I think it ought to be retired now for a little while.

Besides Mr. Rosenbloom's comedy, the program is bolstered by a lot of music, namely Norman Gloutier's band—he seems to be all over the air this summer—and a girl singer who, unless my ears were playing me tricks, sang one song in at least twelve different keys. There's also a quartette and a guest star. In fact a lot of money appears to have been spent on this enterprise and I'm sorry I can't embrace it with more enthusiasm and I'm happy to report that others have.

Gold Boom In South Africa

CAPE TOWN—(AP)—Odendallsrus, center of the new Orange Free State goldfields, is still a boom town. The price of land has risen steeply. A $248,000 hotel is going up. Most of the buildings in this little village were of wood and iron but these are rapidly being replaced with brick houses.

Before the boom began the population was 450. Population today is 2,600. Prosperity has touched everyone in Odendallsrus. It is said that even old-age pensioners who used to have to eke out a precarious existence are today driving around in expensive American motorcars.

Fred Waring Will Honor Composer Of Many Musicals

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The networks often make a fuss over men who write beautiful music but seldom say much about the men who supply the lyrics for sings or the books for musical shows.

But tonight at 10:30 over NBC the shoe will be on the other foot. Otto Harbach, who coined the words and books for many of the most beautiful operettas and musical shows ever produced on Broadway, will be honored by Fred Waring.

The "Fred Waring Show" has woven a birthday salute for Harbach, who will be 75 years old this month, from the musical plays that dominated musical life in New York and elsewhere for many years.

From "Roberta, written with Jerome Kern, Waring has chosen "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes." Others to be included are "Who" from "Sonny" and the 'Indian Love Call," hit number of "Rose Marie," written by Harbach in collaboration with Rudolf Friml.

The malajusting effects of one small incident on a small boy "The Tinwnistle" will be re-presented by Mutual's "The Family Theater from 10 to 10:30 tonight. This specially scripted drama, originally given a year ago on Aug. 21, will be presented by an all-star cast of Hollywood actors.

Stock Demand Expands After Early Selling Drive Sends Prices Down

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Demand for stocks expanded late today after an early selling drive had slapped down prices all along the line. Despite the comeback the general price level dropped to the lowest since early May.

Volume expanded on the way down and on the way up. The day's transactions passed the 1,000,000 share mark, with the total of 1,300,000 a peak for the month thus far.

Nickel Plate common and preferred were among the hardest hit issues. The common lost 3½ at 80½ and the preferred was down four at 135. Texas Gulf Sulphur was another weak spot with a decline of 4⅜ at 62.

Marked down around a point or less were General Motors 61½, United States Steel 76½, American Telephone 151, Chrysler 59¼, Cerro De Pasco 23¾, J. I. Case 40⅛, Gruman Aircraft 19¼ (a low for the year), Coca-Cola 158, Electric Power and Light 20, Westinghouse Electric 27⅝, Dow Chemical 44⅜, Owens-Illinois 54, Eastern Airlines 14⅞, Gulf Oil 70⅜, Atlantic Coast Line 55, and Union Pacific 87½.

Among the gainers were Packard, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Martin, Commonwealth Edison, International Nickel, General Electric, Johns-Manville, International Paper, Standard Oil (NJ), and Texas Company.

In the Curb Consolidated Mining dropped 2⅝ and Humble Oil and Aluminum Company each lost two. Down a point or more were McCord Corporation, Derby Oil and Creole Petroleum. Volume of 310,000 shares compared with 160,000 Tuesday.

Government issues were unchanged to slightly lower. An exception were the 2¾s of 1960-65 which were off 10-32 to close at 107 26-32 bid and 107 30-32 asked in the over-the-counter market.

Rails, as usual, provided the greatest activity in the market. Many issues were marked down sharply on a single sale, catching up with the declining market during their inactivity. Gulf, Mobile and Ohio series B mortgage bonds of 2044 were off 1¾ at 60¼ on a single sale.

The volume for the day was $3,350,000 as against $2,942,000 the previous day and $3,056,000 a week ago. The slight upturn is the first since the slow weekend.

Stock Demand Expands After Early Selling Drive Sends Prices Down

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—Demand for stocks expanded late today after an early selling drive had slapped down prices all along the line. Despite the comeback the general price level dropped to the lowest since early May.

Volume expanded on the way down and on the way up. The day's transactions passed the 1,000,000 share mark, with the total of 1,300,000 a peak for the month thus far.

Nickel Plate common and preferred were among the hardest hit issues. The common lost 3½ at 80½ and the preferred was down four at 135. Texas Gulf Sulphur was another weak spot with a decline of 4⅜ at 62.

Marked down around a point or less were General Motors 61½, United States Steel 76½, American Telephone 151, Chrysler 59¼, Cerro De Pasco 23¾, J. I. Case 40⅛, Gruman Aircraft 19¼ (a low for the year), Coca-Cola 158, Electric Power and Light 20, Westinghouse Electric 27⅝, Dow Chemical 44⅜, Owens-Illinois 54, Eastern Airlines 14⅞, Gulf Oil 70⅜, Atlantic Coast Line 55, and Union Pacific 87½.

Among the gainers were Packard, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Martin, Commonwealth Edison, International Nickel, General Electric, Johns-Manville, International Paper, Standard Oil (NJ), and Texas Company.

In the Curb Consolidated Mining dropped 2⅝ and Humble Oil and Aluminum Company each lost two. Down a point or more were McCord Corporation, Derby Oil and Creole Petroleum. Volume of 310,000 shares compared with 160,000 Tuesday.

Government issues were unchanged to slightly lower. An exception were the 2¾s of 1960-65 which were off 10-32 to close at 107 26-32 bid and 107 30-32 asked in the over-the-counter market.

Rails, as usual, provided the greatest activity in the market. Many issues were marked down sharply on a single sale, catching up with the declining market during their inactivity. Gulf, Mobile and Ohio series B mortgage bonds of 2044 were off 1¾ at 60¼ on a single sale.

The volume for the day was $3,350,000 as against $2,942,000 the previous day and $3,056,000 a week ago. The slight upturn is the first since the slow weekend.

Celanese Union Okays 15-Cent Pay Hike Offer

Vote Decisive For Contract At Initial Meeting

Union Shop Clause Not In New Pact

Industrial peace for Cumberland's largest industry was assured last night when members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, at the first of two membership meetings, voted unanimously to accept a contract proposal of the Celanese Corporation of America which provided a 15 cent flat wage increase for over 8,000 hourly rated employes of the Amcelle plant.

Final action on the contract proposal will take place at a second membership meeting scheduled this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the union hall.

A crowd of about 1,000 persons jammed the union hall for the ratification meeting and by 8 p. m., when the meeting was scheduled, at least another 1,000, unable to get inside the hall, jammed the sidewalks outside.

Shortly after 8 p. m. all traffic was stopped on North Mechanic Street between Frederick and Baltimore Streets as the Celanese workers stood awaiting results of the meeting in spite of a steady drizzle.

Union officials placed loud speakers at windows so that the overflow crowd could hear the report of the settlement from James A. Dundon, TWUA official, who headed the union negotiations.

Pact Is Approved

Playford Aldridge, union president, said the membership last night unanimously concurred with the negotiating committee in accepting the agreement. Final action on the pact will be taken at the second membership meeting today, he added.

The pact, which he termed "one of the best in the TWUA," was unanimously recommended for acceptance by the negotiating committee yesterday afternoon.

In his report to the membership, Dundon, a former president of the local, listed the chief points in the contract proposal as:

The company agrees to increase the wage rate in effect by 15 cents per hour effective as of Sunday, August 8.

In lieu of retroactive pay, the company agrees to pay $12 to each hourly rated employe of the plant on the payroll as of August 8, 1948, and who worked two weeks during the six weeks prior to the agreement.

The union did not get the union shop it wished, he added, but kept the maintenance of membership and check off clauses.

The company, he reported, agreed to drop any appeal to the National Labor Relations Board or the courts asking that the recent local 1874 union security election be ruled illegal in Maryland.

Assures Year Of Peace

The report also detailed a number of other clauses negotiated in the agreement including:

A stoppage clause, which releases the TWUA from liability for an unauthorized stoppage and gives the company the right to discipline participants in an unauthorized strike, subject to grievance procedure.

A recognition clause; vacations—a minor change was made due to a recent arbitration ruling; national holidays — one of the eligibility clauses was struck out; rates on transfer, rewritten but no significent change; seniority applications; change in the resignation clause; temporary employes clause; change in the health, safety and sick leave; liberalization in the maternity leave clause; transfer clause—liberalized to allow five days trial period without loss of seniority; order of furlough and share the work, limits to five per cent of the payroll sharing of the work provisions; new check off clause.

Crowd Roars Approval

A roar of approval greeted the call for ratification of the proposal. Not a dissenting vote was heard over the loudspeaker or from the patiently waiting crowd outside.

James A. Holden, federal conciliator who assisted in the difficult contract talks, last night announced the agreement had been reached subject to membership ratification.

He said the first meeting last night ratified the pact and that similar action is expected today.

Holden termed the contract one of the best settlements in the country and said there was no doubt of final ratification. The pact will expire August 8, 1949, and contains no wage reopening clause.

The tentative agreement, which union negotiators agreed to recommend for acceptance, was reached shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday, he said.

Holden commended the union for continuing the negotiations after the contract expired and pointed out that Dundon, who represented the TWUA, agreed on June 26 to

The Weather

A would-be storm yesterday netted 0.23 inches of rain but the temperature only went down one degree from the 82 of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Late last night the thermometer read 66. Umbrellas will be in order today for a few promised showers, although it will still be warm.

TOOTHY SMILE-- Nine-months-old Larry Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ford, 143½ Bedford Street, can add something to his winning smile that most children of his age lack. He has nine pearly white teeth that are presenting a feeding problem to his parents. They say he bites the ends off nipples on his milk bottle almost as fast as they put them on. And Larry's teeth make him eligible for a toothbrush just like mother's and dad's.

Accord Is Reached On River Pollution

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Aug. 11. (AP)—Maryland, West Virginia and federal authorities said they reached "complete accord" today at a meeting to discuss water pollution in the Upper Potomac River Basin.

Declining to comment on discussion at the session, they said a statement was being prepared and would be released Friday at a meeting in Baltimore of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Those at today's meeting were Dr. Joseph McLain, chairman of the Maryland Commission; Frank Wacher of the Maryand Commission; Dr. Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the Maryland Commission; Edwin R. Cotton, member of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac Basin, and Kenneth R. Watson, executive secretary and engineer of the West Virginia Water Commission.

Improvements To Schools Start

Much needed additional space will result from extensive improvements underway at Mt. Royal Elementary and Cresaptown Junior High Schools, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

A ground floor gymnasium is being converted into an auditorium at Mt. Royal with the present auditorium being partitioned into two additional class rooms, Dr. Kopp said.

During the past school term, two classes were taught in the auditorium room, but with present improvements the classes will now be divided into two rooms.

At Cresaptown the improvement program is underway in the cafeteria, where Dr. Kopp said re-organization of space will allow for more cafeteria kitchen room, which is sorely needed.

Plans for the two projects were drawn by Russ Minter, local architect.

U. S. Government Accepts State Child Work Permits

Designation of Maryland as a state in which state age, employment or working certificates shall have the same force and effect as federal certificates of age under the Fair Labor Standards act has been renewed for a year beginning July 1, Frank J. G. Dorsey, regional director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, has announced.

He advised employers to obtain proper certification for all young workers to avoid penalties in case of illegal employment for boys and girls under 16, generally, and under 18 in hazardous occupations.

Divorce Granted

Mary C. McMillan, Moscow, was granted a decree of absolute divorce yesterday in Circuit Court from George W. McMillan, also of Moscow.

Nine-Months-Old English Baby Sets Record With 9 Pearly White Teeth

Child Acquires 5 Teeth Since June

A nine-months-old baby with nine sturdy teeth can be difficult to feed, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ford, 143½ Bedford Street, said, and they should know, for their son, Larry, who was nine-months yesterday, flashes a pearly tooth for each month every time he smiles.

Larry and his parents have only resided in the United States since June and Mrs. Ford said five of the teeth have appeared since the family left England on June 9.

The United States just seems to agree with "my baby," Mrs. Ford said after explaining that she and her husband decided to leave their native home in Southampton and come to Cumberland where Mr. Ford secured a position with the Celanese Corporation of America.

Lawrence Wayne Ford pulled his 23 pounds up in the stroller yesterday, smiled for the cameraman with at least two teeth in evidence, then picked up a beautiful plastic rattle and bit it right in two as though he knew a demonstration of his "unusual acquirement" was expected.

When he left England, the Ford infant already had four teeth—two upper and two lower—then shortly after he arrived in Cumberland five more appeared—three up and two down.

The cutting stage which is so torturous for most babies, didn't appear to bother Larry for he hasn't been sick a day of his nine months. He didn't even join his parents in the ailments of the sea that "practically ruined" their crossing on H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth.

Larry's teeth — about five more than most year-old children have—are posing a problem for his parents. He has chewed the ends off all but one of the rubber nipples brought along from England and won't take milk from those manufactured in the U. S. A.

To combat the problem, Mrs. Ford has written her parents for a new supply and hopes they arrive before the last available one here gets the "nine-tooth treatment."

Maybe the climate and air have caused the rapid growth of Larry's teeth, Mrs. Ford said, for "I have him on a milk and baby food formula just like other children his age."

The baby doesn't walk yet, Mrs. Ford said, but once he is placed in the stroller the travelling time between rooms is considerably shortened, unless parental altertness is sharpened.

It was self-explanatory. Groups of nine little markings were all over her arm—five up and four down.

Truck Driver Is Killed Instantly

A New Jersey truck driver was instantly killed early yesterday morning on the Pennsylvania Turnpike 32 miles east of Bedford, Pa., when his tractor-trailer truck struck the rear of another truck.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford reported that Paul S. Kreider, 33, Hoboken, N. J., was driving west on the Turnpike at about 4:30 a. m., when his truck crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer operated by Ivan Leroy Moffett, 27, Magnetic Springs, Saint Paris, O.

In another Turnpike accident, police reported a car driven by Thomas Jones Murchie, 77, Lakeside Road, Mt. Kisko, N. Y., was damaged to the extent of $300 when it skidded across the medial strip, struck another car and upset.

The other car was driven by Carl Berreitter, 51, Trenton, N. J. Berreitter's car was damaged to the extent of $50.

Police said no one was injured.

City Manager Plan:

851 Cities, Counties Use Manager Plan; Total Rising

By RICHARD S. CHILDS
Chairman of the Council, National Municipal League

In one generation the Council-Manager plan has been adopted by more than 850 municipalities and counties (in June, 1948 the total stood at 851). It is now spreading faster than in any period since 1912 when the movement started. At the current rate the manager plan will overtake the mayor-council system in the late 1950's and become the prevailing form of municipal government. In several states this has already happened.

The first municipal use of the word "manager" was in Staunton, Virginia, in 1908, where the office of "general manager" was created to supervise several departments as a novel adjunct to an otherwise old-fashioned government consisting of a two-house city council and mayor.

What we now know as the Council-Manager plan appeared first in a draft of a charter proposed by the Board of Trade of Lockport, N. Y., in 1911. The Lockport charter was never approved by the state legislature but other cities considered it, civic organizations praised it and in 1912 the town of Sumter, South Carolina, adopted it.

Municipal League Adopts Plan

Three years later the National Municipal League incorporated the plan in its Model City Charter and the leaders of local civic associations among the League's membership began to promote its adoption in various parts of the country.

The plan spread rapidly. Today one out of every four cities of more than 10,000 population has the plan. There are more with the manager plan than with the once popular, but now declining, commission form.

The plan has met with success in Puerto Rico, Alaska and Canada. Erie (Ireland), prescribed it for all counties in 1940. Forty-four of the 48 states have Council-Manager communities; the exceptions are Idaho, Indiana, Louisiana and Rhode Island.

Maine Leads The Nation

Maine, with 88, led all other states in the number of Council-Manager communities in April, 1948. Michigan had 67, Texas 61, California 52, Virginia 51, Florida 49, Pennsylvania 37, Oklahoma 35. Twenty-one of Virginia's 24 cities had the plan.

Manager cities vary in size from Cincinnati (pop. 455,000) to Teterboro, New Jersey (pop. 40). About 14,000,000 Americans live in council-manager communities.

Growth of the plan has been steady. At the end of 1920, eight years after the first adoption, there were 158 manager communities. There were 297 in 1925, 388 in 1930, 451 in 1935, 500 in 1940 and more than 850 by June, 1948.

Thirty-six years of experience have shown that the plan is the best form of government for cities of any size. In other countries the plan is regarded as America's greatest contribution to the science of local government.

Cigaret Is Blamed For Fatal Burns To Alden Brewer

Doctor Says Victim Fell Asleep Smoking

A lighted cigaret was blamed last night for the death of Alden McKenzie Brewer, 33, Danville, who died in Potomac Valley Hospital yesterday as the result of burns suffered in a fire that destroyed his home Tuesday morning, authorities reported.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said he learned from Brewer's wife that the victim had told her he "was smoking a cigaret and apparently fell asleep while sitting in the front room."

Mrs. Brewer was quoted by Dr. Deming as saying that her husband told her he awoke suddenly to find the front room of his home filled with smoke and the chair in which he was sitting on fire.

The McCoole and Keyser Volunteer Fire Companies were called to the Brewer home after a passing motorist found the man, who was alone in the house when the fire started, lying along the road.

The frame dwelling was destroyed and Brewer was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital, where Dr. Deming said he died from first, second and third degree burns which covered his arms, back and face.

Brewer, the medical examiner said, told his wife that when he awoke and discovered the fire he tried to escape through the front door but later was forced to jump through a window into the front yard.

He apparently fell to the ground unconscious, for he was discovered there by the motorist who notified fire companies and took Brewer to the hospital.

The victim, an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America at the Amcelle Plant, was a native of Mineral County, W. Va., and a son of Mrs. Blanche Virginia McKenzie Brewer and the late Samuel Edward Brewer.

Besides his widow, the former Ruth Laverna Shepherd, and his mother, Brewer is survived by three sons, Alden Brewer, Douglas Brewer, and Joseph Brewer, and two brothers, Edward Brewer, Ridgeley, W. Va., and Charles Brewer, Mt. Savage.

A veteran of World War II, he was on the staff at the Celanese Plant for 15 years and was a member of Dawson Methodist Church.

The body was removed to the home of his widow and stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gordon, Danville. A funeral service will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. in Dawson Methodist Church with Rev. Louis P. Chastain, pastor, officiating.

Military rites will be conducted by Queens Point Memorial Post No. 6775, Veterans of Foreign Wars, McCoole, and Nancy Hanks Post No. 3518, VFW, Keyser. Interment will be in Dawson Cemetery.

Ferris Wheel Sticks, Passengers Stranded

Several passengers of a ferris wheel at the Bedford Fair at Bedford, Pa., were stranded for about half an hour yesterday afternoon when a cable jumped a wheel and buckled the machine's frame.

The Bedford Volunteer Fire Company was called to the scene at 4 p. m., but could not use its ladders to rescue the occupants as the machine was leaning precariously.

The passengers were finally removed by attendants at the fair, who moved the giant wheel around by hand while each passenger stepped off as his chair swung close to the ground.

Girl, 17, Injured In Fall From Bike

A 17-year-old Mt. Savage girl, Phyllis Jenkins, was reported in good condition last night in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, where she was admitted after suffering a fractured left wrist in a fall from her bicycle.

Hospital attaches said they were told the girl fell over an embankment when she slipped from the bike. She suffered lacerations of the face and left knee in addition to the fracture.

Meat Strike Talk Hurts Business, Merchants Agree

Term Past Three Days Worst In Long While

Cumberland's retail meat dealers were in accord yesterday on one thing—talk about high prices and meat boycotts have definitely hurt business with the past three days being termed "the worst in a long while."

Families living on fixed incomes are the hardest hit, one dealer said, explaining they are forced to buy the cheaper cuts of meat and frequently go without rather than accept anything but the best.

The cash register is holding its own in recording dollar for dollar sales, but that is not the true picture now, another merchant explained, adding that overall tonnage in meat sales has declined sharply in the past months.

The take-home pay of the average laborer is at a record high, a butcher said, and when they have money they want the very best cuts of beef, pork and veal. This in itself sends the meat prices up because the retailer has to allow for the cheaper cuts which once sold well but now constitute much of the loss.

With the erratic buying sprees that the public stages at the meat counters, retail dealers agreed unanimously that ordering for more than a day or two in advance is practically impossible.

There is plenty of beef, veal and lamb, but pork is becoming a bit scarce, a merchant said, adding that volume sales under present prices are not enough to cover operating costs. "It would be far better if prices were cheaper and sales volume was up," he explained.

Where to place the blame for present soaring meat prices seemed to be a debatable question among the local merchants with some blaming the Department of Agriculture, others the recent halting of shipments of Mexican beef into the country, and still others satisfied that it's just a trend following in the wake of World War II.

The Department of Agriculture attack came from those who cited the federal move to make flour from surplus potatoes. The government is buying surplus potatoes at approximately $1.55 a bushel and selling them for nine cents a bushel—but with a stipulation that the buyer use the excess spuds to make flour.

When the present project is completed the government will be paying about $25.60 a hundred pounds for flour which is about five times that of wheat flour, he said. Potatoes, too, are selling at around $2.60 on the market or for about twice the 1941 price.

With these conditions prices cannot help but soar and then if the public goes on a buying strike there just isn't much the small retail merchant can do, one of the dealers declared.

Walters Reburial Planned Monday

The body of Pfc. Abner W. Walters, 28, husband of Mrs. Irma Dennie Walters, 1010 Virginia Avenue, Hagerstown, will arrive at Hagerstown today and be taken to the Coffman Funeral Home.

Pfc. Walters died April 13, 1945, in the 93rd Evacuation Hospital, Germany. In September, 1944, he had been wounded in action in Italy and hospitalized in France and England until March 1, 1945, when he was sent with the 15th Infantry, Third Division, Seventh Army. Before going overseas in August 1944, he served with 176th Infantry at Fort Benning, Ga. He went into the Army in May, 1941.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Cumberland, in 1935, he had lived with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gross, 515 Woodlawn Terrace, this city, since he was 11 years old. He had been employed by the Celanese Plant here and the U. S. Census Bureau, Washington, D. C.

A member of First Baptist Church here, he also belonged to the Walters Bible Class, since named as a tribute to his memory.

He is survived by his mother, Baltimore; his father, Reginald E. Walters, Freehold, N. J.; a brother, Thurston Walters, Hagerstown, and one son, Dennis Walters, at home.

A funeral service will be conducted at 1:30 p. m. Monday in Hagerstown by Rev. Paul E. Holdcraft, pastor of Emmanuel United Brethren Church. Reburial will be at Antietam National Cemetery, Sharpsburg, with the Hagerstown American Legion Post in charge of military honors.

WACs Visit Cumberland Army Recruiting Office

Two members of the Woman's Army Corps from Maryland District Recruiting Headquarters, First Lt. Sally Coulter and Staff Sgt. Cora Wehmeyer, visited the local recruiting office yesterday to lay groundwork for WAC recruiting activities sometime in September.

Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, in charge of the Cumberland office, said that plans for the proposed recruiting of women into the Army were discussed, but that nothing definite had been decided. It is thought, he added, that WAC representatives will be here two or three days a week after the program is set up.

Navy Jeep Hits Sailor's Car

The sailor, Ralph R. Goode, reported he parked his car on Harrison Street at about 8 p. m. Upon returning at 11:30 p. m., he found Richard N. Anderson, Naval Armory, the driver of the other vehicle, waiting for him.

No charges were preferred.

Luke Paper Mill Workers To Hear Contract Report

Special Meetings To Be Held Today

A full report of contract negotiations between the United Paperworkers of America, CIO, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company which were adjourned in Washington Tuesday, will be presented at special meetings of Luke Local 676 this afternoon.

Wayne Ritchie, president, said the meetings will be held today at 1:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. in the Piedmont Opera House.

Ritchie said the biggest hurdles to an agreement are mill seniority and the effective date of the additional six cents an hour offered by the company for the Luke, Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants.

He said the firm wants the increase effective on the date of signing of the agreement while the union wants the increase retroactive to the date of an interim increase of five cents granted during negotiations in June.

Discuss Mill Seniority

The company said the negotiations adjourned are in effect a continuation of wage and contract discussions originally commenced here the latter part of May and resumed in Cumberland, Md., early in June. In the course of these previous meetings the company granted an interim wage increase of five cents per hour under the present contract, which expires August 20. The company also indicated it was prepared to grant an additional six cents per hour, bringing the total increase to 11 cents per hour, provided the parties could agree on a new contract. The union, however, was unwilling to accept certain proposals advanced by the company concerning the extent and application of "mill seniority," and the effort to reach a new contract had to be postponed.

Most of the questions raised at these earlier meetings were reviewed at the latest session. In addition, the company suggested extending "mill seniority" in such a way as to protect employees with more than five years service with the mill in the case of lay-off, giving them preference throughout the mill. The company continued to insist on retaining freedom of selection in the original assignment of employees from one department to another and in the rehire of laid off employees into departments other than those in which they were previously employed. This was the problem around which most of the difference between the parties developed.

While a number of suggestions were exchanged on other points, the parties were unable to find any common ground on this or other major issues.

Break Off Talks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Company and union negotiators have broken off at least temporarily their efforts to agree on a new work contract at three plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The present contract at Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., runs out August 20. Management and worker representatives began negotiations here last Friday.

Frank Grasso, national secretary of the CIO United Paper Workers of America, said the main issues still unsettled are retention of a pension clause and a wage increase of six cents an hour that would be retroactive for about two months.

Grasso reported the negotiations broke off last night "at least for the present" and added that the union is "completely willing" to engage in further discussions.

As far as the union is concerned, he said, the matter is up to Allan S. Haywood, CIO vice-president and organizational director.

Grasso reported the company was against retaining the pension clause and would not agree to make the wage increase retroactive.

Company representatives were not available for comment.

Representatives of the three union locals have returned to their plants to await developments.

Grasso reported Jay Oliver of the U. S. Conciliation Service came into the discussions last night before they broke up.

"He threw up his hands," Grasso said.

Court Clerk's Brother Admitted To Bar Here

Eskin Taylor Boden, native of Cumberland and brother of Joseph E. Boden, clek of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, was admitted to the bar in this county yesterday morning before Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court.

Boden's brother, Joseph, in his capacity as clerk of the Court, administered the oath. Earl Edmund Manges, local attorney, moved Boden's admission to the bar.

He is a graduate of the law school of the University of Baltimore, and for two years was a special agent for the Department of Internal Revenue.

He was connected with Traffic Court in Baltimore for several years, and later became a secretary at the Baltimore County Court House.

He then worked for a time with a Baltimore title firm, and completed his studies at law school while working with the Department of Internal Revenue.

Auto Driver Injured

A Frostburg man was treated for minor injuries yesterday after police said his car was forced from the highway at North Branch by a truck operated by James E. Walker, Potomac Park.

State Trooper George E. Coddington identified the injured man as Gilbert Baker, Frostburg. No Charges were preferred against Walker, the trooper said.

Chronic Disease Hospital Recommended By Doctor

Suggestion Follows Infirmary Inspection

Dr. Richard J. Williams, local physician, yesterday recommended the construction of a chronic disease hospital adjacent to Memorial Hospital as an answer to "the large indigent medical problem in this county."

The physician also termed the new County Infirmary "a $240,000 patch on the pants of indigent medicine."

Dr. Williams' remarks came in an open letter to Irvin C. Brant, in which the physician reported on an inspection of the Allegany County Infirmary which he made yesterday with Miss Ethel Rose and L. E. Gaiger.

The inspection was made after a woman who was discharged as a cook at the County Home charged that "bug-infested" food was being served to the inmates.

Dr. Williams said that Superintendent and Mrs. Robert Smith were not on the premises at the time of the inspection, but added that they had no reason to expect the inspection.

Aside from suggestions contained in his letter, Dr. Williams also proposed that a ward for the treatment of acute alcoholics be included in the chronic disease hospital.

The text of Dr. Williams' letter follows:

"It was a great pleasure for our committee, composed of Miss Ethel Rose, L. E. Gaiger, and myself to conduct this date (August 11) a sanitary inspection of the County Home. Our report to you is as follows:

"The sanitation was all that one would have a right to ask for, considering the crowded conditions of the building, its need of repair, and its antiquity. I am pleased to state that the people working there were neat, clean and very courteous.

"Superintendent Smith and Mrs. Smith were both absent from the premises at the time of our inspection.

"The foregoing, important as it is, remains still only a small part of the large indigent medical problem in this county. By comparison, it was a tempest in a tea pot. The following will be an attempt to crystallize the thoughts of many of us.

"Because your notions of social justice run so parallel a course to my own, I have watched with a great deal of interest and approval your steady climb in the Townsend Organization. Anyone who seeks to improve the lot of the average citizen must overcome obstacles. If some sclerotic minded, near-sighted, self-centered individuals should, by both direct and devious means, attempt to persecute you, then react as I know you will, like strong men always do.

Care Is A Problem

"Care for the old folks is a problem, and the problem is growing. We have with us today more old people than we ever have had, and there will be more in the future. This is true because the diseases which formerly killed off great numbers of people in early life are now being successfully coped with. Each year more and more people live to that age when they are apt to, and do sooner or later, fall victims to that group of maladies called degenerative diseases. To name a few of them, cancer, heart trouble, diabetes, Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, etc. These usually attack the older age group, and they become disabled to a greater or lesser degree. A book could be written about the long train of social and economic problems which follows.

"Medical men and laymen interested in the problems of older people have long known that there is a need in this area for a chronic hospital. We do not need bigger and better poor houses and asylums, because all of these people are, in the broad sense of the word, sick or else they would be out on their own. Such a chronic hospital could be built adjoining the Memorial Hospital. The two hospitals would be served by the same staffs—medical, nursing and administrative. There are many other technical advantages too numerous to mention here.

"The new chronic hospital would be an integral part of the Memorial Hospital. It would not be under the political thumb of any politician. Positions would be handed out solely on merit. The faithful followers of successful political candidates would be given no preference; good hospitals are not run that way. The harassed general superintendent of the insane asylum, poor house and county farm could return peacefully to the George's Creek region to resume the practice of the ancient and honorable profession of barbering. He would hardly qualify as assistant superintendent of the Memorial Hospital, in charge of the chronic division, should such a position be open.

Could Attract Internes

"Many young women seeking nurses training in the larger hospitals leave our community. We have to employ resident physicians and some general duty nurses, when we could attract internes and more student nurses with a larger plant. It is not an idle dream to say that some day we could have a medical school here. Certainly, there is a nation-wide demand for more physicians.

"In this county, we are bogged down in a mire of Republican mediocrity. Bickering seems to be the order of the day. It is time for

Vote Decisive For Contract At Initial Meeting

Industrial peace for Cumberland's largest industry was assured last night when members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, at the first of two membership meetings, voted unanimously to accept a contract proposal of the Celanese Corporation of America which provided a 15 cent flat wage increase for over 8,000 hourly rated employes of the Amcelle plant.

Final action on the contract proposal will take place at a second membership meeting scheduled this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the union hall.

A crowd of about 1,000 persons jammed the union hall for the ratification meeting and by 8 p. m., when the meeting was scheduled, at least another 1,000, unable to get inside the hall, jammed the sidewalks outside.

Shortly after 8 p. m. all traffic was stopped on North Mechanic Street between Frederick and Baltimore Streets as the Celanese workers stood awaiting results of the meeting in spite of a steady drizzle.

Union officials placed loud speakers at windows so that the overflow crowd could hear the report of the settlement from James A. Dundon, TWUA official, who headed the union negotiations.

Pact Is Approved

Playford Aldridge, union president, said the membership last night unanimously concurred with the negotiating committee in accepting the agreement. Final action on the pact will be taken at the second membership meeting today, he added.

The pact, which he termed "one of the best in the TWUA," was unanimously recommended for acceptance by the negotiating committee yesterday afternoon.

Aldridge praised the aid of James A. Holden in negotiating toward the agreement.

In his report to the membership, Dundon, a former president of the local, listed the chief points in the contract proposal as:

The company agrees to increase the wage rate in effect by 15 cents per hour effective as of Sunday, August 8.

In lieu of retroactive pay, the company agrees to pay $12 to each hourly rated employe of the plant on the payroll as of August 8, 1948, and who worked two weeks during the six weeks prior to the agreement.

The union did not get the union shop it wished, he added, but kept the maintenance of membership and check off clauses.

The company, he reported, agreed to drop any appeal to the National Labor Relations Board or the courts asking that the recent local 1874 union security election be ruled illegal in Maryland.

Assures Year Of Peace

The report also detailed a number of other clauses negotiated in the agreement including:

A stoppage clause, which releases the TWUA from liability for an unauthorized stoppage and gives the company the right to discipline participants in an unauthorized strike, subject to grievance procedure.

A recognition clause; vacations—a minor change was made due to a recent arbitration ruling; national holidays — one of the eligibility clauses was struck out; rates on transfer, rewritten but no significent change; seniority applications; change in the resignation clause; temporary employes clause; change in the health, safety and sick leave; liberalization in the maternity leave clause; transfer clause—liberalized to allow five days trial period without loss of seniority; order of furlough and share the work, limits to five per cent of the payroll sharing of the work provisions; new check off clause.

Crowd Roars Approval

A roar of approval greeted the call for ratification of the proposal. Not a dissenting vote was heard over the loudspeaker or from the patiently waiting crowd outside.

The feeling of the union was probably best summarized by one member who said, "It's a good offer."

James A. Holden, federal conciliator who assisted in the difficult contract talks, last night announced the agreement had been reached subject to membership ratification.

He said the first meeting last night ratified the pact and that similar action is expected today.

Holden termed the contract one of the best settlements in the country and said there was no doubt of final ratification. The pact will expire August 8, 1949, and contains no wage reopening clause.

The tentative agreement, which union negotiators agreed to recommend for acceptance, was reached shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday, he said.

Holden commended the union for continuing the negotiations after the contract expired and pointed out that Dundon, who represented the TWUA, agreed on June 26 to

The Weather

A would-be storm yesterday netted 0.23 inches of rain but the temperature only went down one degree from the 82 of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Late last night the thermometer read 66. Umbrellas will be in order today for a few promised showers, although it will still be warm.

TOOTHY SMILE-- Nine-months-old Larry Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ford, 143½ Bedford Street, can add something to his winning smile that most children of his age lack. He has nine pearly white teeth that are presenting a feeding problem to his parents. They say he bites the ends off nipples on his milk bottle almost as fast as they put them on. And Larry's teeth make him eligible for a toothbrush just like mother's and dad's.

Accord Is Reached On River Pollution

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Aug. 11. (AP)—Maryland, West Virginia and federal authorities said they reached "complete accord" today at a meeting to discuss water pollution in the Upper Potomac River Basin.

Declining to comment on discussion at the session, they said a statement was being prepared and would be released Friday at a meeting in Baltimore of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Those at today's meeting were Dr. Joseph McLain, chairman of the Maryland Commission; Frank Wacher of the Maryand Commission; Dr. Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the Maryland Commission; Edwin R. Cotton, member of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac Basin, and Kenneth R. Watson, executive secretary and engineer of the West Virginia Water Commission.

Improvements To Schools Start

Much needed additional space will result from extensive improvements underway at Mt. Royal Elementary and Cresaptown Junior High Schools, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

A ground floor gymnasium is being converted into an auditorium at Mt. Royal with the present auditorium being partitioned into two additional class rooms, Dr. Kopp said.

During the past school term, two classes were taught in the auditorium room, but with present improvements the classes will now be divided into two rooms.

At Cresaptown the improvement program is underway in the cafeteria, where Dr. Kopp said re-organization of space will allow for more cafeteria kitchen room, which is sorely needed.

Plans for the two projects were drawn by Russ Minter, local architect.

U. S. Government Accepts State Child Work Permits

Designation of Maryland as a state in which state age, employment or working certificates shall have the same force and effect as federal certificates of age under the Fair Labor Standards act has been renewed for a year beginning July 1, Frank J. G. Dorsey, regional director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, has announced.

He advised employers to obtain proper certification for all young workers to avoid penalties in case of illegal employment for boys and girls under 16, generally, and under 18 in hazardous occupations.

Divorce Granted

Mary C. McMillan, Moscow, was granted a decree of absolute divorce yesterday in Circuit Court from George W. McMillan, also of Moscow.

Nine-Months-Old English Baby Sets Record With 9 Pearly White Teeth

Child Acquires 5 Teeth Since June

A nine-months-old baby with nine sturdy teeth can be difficult to feed, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ford, 143½ Bedford Street, said, and they should know, for their son, Larry, who was nine-months yesterday, flashes a pearly tooth for each month every time he smiles.

Larry and his parents have only resided in the United States since June and Mrs. Ford said five of the teeth have appeared since the family left England on June 9.

The United States just seems to agree with "my baby," Mrs. Ford said after explaining that she and her husband decided to leave their native home in Southampton and come to Cumberland where Mr. Ford secured a position with the Celanese Corporation of America.

Lawrence Wayne Ford pulled his 23 pounds up in the stroller yesterday, smiled for the cameraman with at least two teeth in evidence, then picked up a beautiful plastic rattle and bit it right in two as though he knew a demonstration of his "unusual acquirement" was expected.

When he left England, the Ford infant already had four teeth—two upper and two lower—then shortly after he arrived in Cumberland five more appeared—three up and two down.

The cutting stage which is so torturous for most babies, didn't appear to bother Larry for he hasn't been sick a day of his nine months. He didn't even join his parents in the ailments of the sea that "practically ruined" their crossing on H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth.

Larry's teeth — about five more than most year-old children have—are posing a problem for his parents. He has chewed the ends off all but one of the rubber nipples brought along from England and won't take milk from those manufactured in the U. S. A.

To combat the problem, Mrs. Ford has written her parents for a new supply and hopes they arrive before the last available one here gets the "nine-tooth treatment."

Maybe the climate and air have caused the rapid growth of Larry's teeth, Mrs. Ford said, for "I have him on a milk and baby food formula just like other children his age."

The baby doesn't walk yet, Mrs. Ford said, but once he is placed in the stroller the travelling time between rooms is considerably shortened, unless parental altertness is sharpened.

Just so people won't think that Larry is partial to milk bottle nipples with the "nine-tooth treatment" Mrs. Ford pointed to her arm.

It was self-explanatory. Groups of nine little markings were all over her arm—five up and four down.

Truck Driver Is Killed Instantly

A New Jersey truck driver was instantly killed early yesterday morning on the Pennsylvania Turnpike 32 miles east of Bedford, Pa., when his tractor-trailer truck struck the rear of another truck.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford reported that Paul S. Kreider, 33, Hoboken, N. J., was driving west on the Turnpike at about 4:30 a. m., when his truck crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer operated by Ivan Leroy Moffett, 27, Magnetic Springs, Saint Paris, O.

Authorities said no investigation is planned, as the accident was apparently Kreider's fault.

In another Turnpike accident, police reported a car driven by Thomas Jones Murchie, 77, Lakeside Road, Mt. Kisko, N. Y., was damaged to the extent of $300 when it skidded across the medial strip, struck another car and upset.

The other car was driven by Carl Berreitter, 51, Trenton, N. J. Berreitter's car was damaged to the extent of $50.

Police said no one was injured.

City Manager Plan:

851 Cities, Counties Use Manager Plan; Total Rising

By RICHARD S. CHILDS
Chairman of the Council,
National Municipal League

In one generation the Council-Manager plan has been adopted by more than 850 municipalities and counties (in June, 1948 the total stood at 851). It is now spreading faster than in any period since 1912 when the movement started. At the current rate the manager plan will overtake the mayor-council system in the late 1950's and become the prevailing form of municipal government. In several states this has already happened.

The first municipal use of the word "manager" was in Staunton, Virginia, in 1908, where the office of "general manager" was created to supervise several departments as a novel adjunct to an otherwise old-fashioned government consisting of a two-house city council and mayor.

What we now know as the Council-Manager plan appeared first in a draft of a charter proposed by the Board of Trade of Lockport, N. Y., in 1911. The Lockport charter was never approved by the state legislature but other cities considered it, civic organizations praised it and in 1912 the town of Sumter, South Carolina, adopted it.

Municipal League Adopts Plan

Three years later the National Municipal League incorporated the plan in its Model City Charter and the leaders of local civic associations among the League's membership began to promote its adoption in various parts of the country.

The plan spread rapidly. Today one out of every four cities of more than 10,000 population has the plan. There are more with the manager plan than with the once popular, but now declining, commission form.

The plan has met with success in Puerto Rico, Alaska and Canada. Erie (Ireland), prescribed it for all counties in 1940. Forty-four of the 48 states have Council-Manager communities; the exceptions are Idaho, Indiana, Louisiana and Rhode Island.

Maine Leads The Nation

Maine, with 88, led all other states in the number of Council-Manager communities in April, 1948. Michigan had 67, Texas 61, California 52, Virginia 51, Florida 49, Pennsylvania 37, Oklahoma 35. Twenty-one of Virginia's 24 cities had the plan.

Manager cities vary in size from Cincinnati (pop. 455,000) to Teterboro, New Jersey (pop. 40). About 14,000,000 Americans live in council-manager communities.

Growth of the plan has been steady. At the end of 1920, eight years after the first adoption, there were 158 manager communities. There were 297 in 1925, 388 in 1930, 451 in 1935, 500 in 1940 and more than 850 by June, 1948.

Thirty-six years of experience have shown that the plan is the best form of government for cities of any size. In other countries the plan is regarded as America's greatest contribution to the science of local government.

Cigaret Is Blamed For Fatal Burns To Alden Brewer

Doctor Says Victim Fell Asleep Smoking

A lighted cigaret was blamed last night for the death of Alden McKenzie Brewer, 33, Danville, who died in Potomac Valley Hospital yesterday as the result of burns suffered in a fire that destroyed his home Tuesday morning, authorities reported.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said he learned from Brewer's wife that the victim had told her he "was smoking a cigaret and apparently fell asleep while sitting in the front room."

Mrs. Brewer was quoted by Dr. Deming as saying that her husband told her he awoke suddenly to find the front room of his home filled with smoke and the chair in which he was sitting on fire.

The McCoole and Keyser Volunteer Fire Companies were called to the Brewer home after a passing motorist found the man, who was alone in the house when the fire started, lying along the road.

The frame dwelling was destroyed and Brewer was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital, where Dr. Deming said he died from first, second and third degree burns which covered his arms, back and face.

Brewer, the medical examiner said, told his wife that when he awoke and discovered the fire he tried to escape through the front door but later was forced to jump through a window into the front yard.

He apparently fell to the ground unconscious, for he was discovered there by the motorist who notified fire companies and took Brewer to the hospital.

The victim, an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America at the Amcelle Plant, was a native of Mineral County, W. Va., and a son of Mrs. Blanche Virginia McKenzie Brewer and the late Samuel Edward Brewer.

Besides his widow, the former Ruth Laverna Shepherd, and his mother, Brewer is survived by three sons, Alden Brewer, Douglas Brewer, and Joseph Brewer, and two brothers, Edward Brewer, Ridgeley, W. Va., and Charles Brewer, Mt. Savage.

A veteran of World War II, he was on the staff at the Celanese Plant for 15 years and was a member of Dawson Methodist Church.

The body was removed to the home of his widow and stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gordon, Danville. A funeral service will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. in Dawson Methodist Church with Rev. Louis P. Chastain, pastor, officiating.

Military rites will be conducted by Queens Point Memorial Post No. 6775, Veterans of Foreign Wars, McCoole, and Nancy Hanks Post No. 3518, VFW, Keyser. Interment will be in Dawson Cemetery.

Ferris Wheel Sticks, Passengers Stranded

Several passengers of a ferris wheel at the Bedford Fair at Bedford, Pa., were stranded for about half an hour yesterday afternoon when a cable jumped a wheel and buckled the machine's frame.

The Bedford Volunteer Fire Company was called to the scene at 4 p. m., but could not use its ladders to rescue the occupants as the machine was leaning precariously.

The passengers were finally removed by attendants at the fair, who moved the giant wheel around by hand while each passenger stepped off as his chair swung close to the ground.

Girl, 17, Injured In Fall From Bike

A 17-year-old Mt. Savage girl, Phyllis Jenkins, was reported in good condition last night in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, where she was admitted after suffering a fractured left wrist in a fall from her bicycle.

Hospital attaches said they were told the girl fell over an embankment when she slipped from the bike. She suffered lacerations of the face and left knee in addition to the fracture.

Meat Strike Talk Hurts Business, Merchants Agree

Term Past Three Days Worst In Long While

Cumberland's retail meat dealers were in accord yesterday on one thing—talk about high prices and meat boycotts have definitely hurt business with the past three days being termed "the worst in a long while."

Families living on fixed incomes are the hardest hit, one dealer said, explaining they are forced to buy the cheaper cuts of meat and frequently go without rather than accept anything but the best.

The cash register is holding its own in recording dollar for dollar sales, but that is not the true picture now, another merchant explained, adding that overall tonnage in meat sales has declined sharply in the past months.

The take-home pay of the average laborer is at a record high, a butcher said, and when they have money they want the very best cuts of beef, pork and veal. This in itself sends the meat prices up because the retailer has to allow for the cheaper cuts which once sold well but now constitute much of the loss.

With the erratic buying sprees that the public stages at the meat counters, retail dealers agreed unanimously that ordering for more than a day or two in advance is practically impossible.

There is plenty of beef, veal and lamb, but pork is becoming a bit scarce, a merchant said, adding that volume sales under present prices are not enough to cover operating costs. "It would be far better if prices were cheaper and sales volume was up," he explained.

Where to place the blame for present soaring meat prices seemed to be a debatable question among the local merchants with some blaming the Department of Agriculture, others the recent halting of shipments of Mexican beef into the country, and still others satisfied that it's just a trend following in the wake of World War II.

The Department of Agriculture attack came from those who cited the federal move to make flour from surplus potatoes. The government is buying surplus potatoes at approximately $1.55 a bushel and selling them for nine cents a bushel—but with a stipulation that the buyer use the excess spuds to make flour.

When the present project is completed the government will be paying about $25.60 a hundred pounds for flour which is about five times that of wheat flour, he said. Potatoes, too, are selling at around $2.60 on the market or for about twice the 1941 price.

With these conditions prices cannot help but soar and then if the public goes on a buying strike there just isn't much the small retail merchant can do, one of the dealers declared.

WACs Visit Cumberland Army Recruiting Office

Two members of the Woman's Army Corps from Maryland District Recruiting Headquarters, First Lt. Sally Coulter and Staff Sgt. Cora Wehmeyer, visited the local recruiting office yesterday to lay groundwork for WAC recruiting activities sometime in September.

Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, in charge of the Cumberland office, said that plans for the proposed recruiting of women into the Army were discussed, but that nothing definite had been decided. It is thought, he added, that WAC representatives will be here two or three days a week after the program is set up.

Luke Paper Mill Workers To Hear Contract Report

Special Meetings To Be Held Today

A full report of contract negotiations between the United Paperworkers of America, CIO, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company which were adjourned in Washington Tuesday, will be presented at special meetings of Luke Local 676 this afternoon.

Wayne Ritchie, president, said the meetings will be held today at 1:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. in the Piedmont Opera House.

Ritchie said the biggest hurdles to an agreement are mill seniority and the effective date of the additional six cents an hour offered by the company for the Luke, Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants.

He said the firm wants the increase effective on the date of signing of the agreement while the union wants the increase retroactive to the date of an interim increase of five cents granted during negotiations in June.

Discuss Mill Seniority

The company said the negotiations adjourned are in effect a continuation of wage and contract discussions originally commenced here the latter part of May and resumed in Cumberland, Md., early in June. In the course of these previous meetings the company granted an interim wage increase of five cents per hour under the present contract, which expires August 20. The company also indicated it was prepared to grant an additional six cents per hour, bringing the total increase to 11 cents per hour, provided the parties could agree on a new contract. The union, however, was unwilling to accept certain proposals advanced by the company concerning the extent and application of "mill seniority," and the effort to reach a new contract had to be postponed.

Most of the questions raised at these earlier meetings were reviewed at the latest session. In addition, the company suggested extending "mill seniority" in such a way as to protect employees with more than five years service with the mill in the case of lay-off, giving them preference throughout the mill. The company continued to insist on retaining freedom of selection in the original assignment of employees from one department to another and in the rehire of laid off employees into departments other than those in which they were previously employed. This was the problem around which most of the difference between the parties developed.

While a number of suggestions were exchanged on other points, the parties were unable to find any common ground on this or other major issues.

Break Off Talks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Company and union negotiators have broken off at least temporily their efforts to agree on a new work contract at three plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The present contract at Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., runs out August 20. Management and worker representatives began negotiations here last Friday.

Frank Grasso, national secretary of the CIO United Paper Workers of America, said the main issues still unsettled are retention of a pension clause and a wage increase of six cents an hour that would be retroactive for about two months.

Grasso reported the negotiations broke off last night "at least for the present" and added that the union is "completely willing" to engage in further discussions.

As far as the union is concerned, he said, the matter is up to Allan S. Haywood, CIO vice-president and organizational director.

Grasso reported the company was against retaining the pension clause and would not agree to make the wage increase retroactive.

Company representatives were not available for comment.

Representatives of the three union locals have returned to their plants to await developments.

Grasso reported Jay Oliver of the U. S. Conciliation Service came into the discussions last night before they broke up.

"He threw up his hands," Grasso said.

Court Clerk's Brother Admitted To Bar Here

Eskin Taylor Boden, native of Cumberland and brother of Joseph E. Boden, clek of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, was admitted to the bar in this county yesterday morning before Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court.

Boden's brother, Joseph, in his capacity as clerk of the Court, administered the oath. Earl Edmund Manges, local attorney, moved Boden's admission to the bar.

Boden was admitted to the practice of law in this state recently before the Court of Appeals at Annapolis.

He is a graduate of the law school of the University of Baltimore, and for two years was a special agent for the Department of Internal Revenue.

He was connected with Traffic Court in Baltimore for several years, and later became a secretary at the Baltimore County Court House.

He then worked for a time with a Baltimore title firm, and completed his studies at law school while working with the Department of Internal Revenue.

State Trooper George E. Coddington identified the injured man as Gilbert Baker, Frostburg. No Charges were preferred against Walker, the trooper said.

Chronic Disease Hospital Recommended By Doctor

Suggestion Follows Infirmary Inspection

Dr. Richard J. Williams, local physician, yesterday recommended the construction of a chronic disease hospital adjacent to Memorial Hospital as an answer to "the large indigent medical problem in this county."

The physician also termed the new County Infirmary "a $240,000 patch on the pants of indigent medicine."

Dr. Williams' remarks came in an open letter to Irvin C. Brant, in which the physician reported on an inspection of the Allegany County Infirmary which he made yesterday with Miss Ethel Rose and L. E. Gaiger.

The inspection was made after a woman who was discharged as a cook at the County Home charged that "bug-infested" food was being served to the inmates.

Dr. Williams said that Superintendent and Mrs. Robert Smith were not on the premises at the time of the inspection, but added that they had no reason to expect the inspection.

Aside from suggestions contained in his letter, Dr. Williams also proposed that a ward for the treatment of acute alcoholics be included in the chronic disease hospital.

"It was a great pleasure for our committee, composed of Miss Ethel Rose, L. E. Gaiger, and myself to conduct this date (August 11) a sanitary inspection of the County Home. Our report to you is as follows:

"The sanitation was all that one would have a right to ask for, considering the crowded conditions of the building, its need of repair, and its antiquity. I am pleased to state that the people working there were neat, clean and very courteous.

"Superintendent Smith and Mrs. Smith were both absent from the premises at the time of our inspection.

"The foregoing, important as it is, remains still only a small part of the large indigent medical problem in this county. By comparison, it was a tempest in a tea pot. The following will be an attempt to crystallize the thoughts of many of us.

"Because your notions of social justice run so parallel a course to my own, I have watched with a great deal of interest and approval your steady climb in the Townsend Organization. Anyone who seeks to improve the lot of the average citizen must overcome obstacles. If some sclerotic minded, near-sighted, self-centered individuals should, by both direct and devious means, attempt to persecute you, then react as I know you will, like strong men always do.

Care Is A Problem

"Care for the old folks is a problem, and the problem is growing. We have with us today more old people than we ever have had, and there will be more in the future. This is true because the diseases which formerly killed off great numbers of people in early life are now being successfully coped with. Each year more and more people live to that age when they are apt to, and do sooner or later, fall victims to that group of maladies called degenerative diseases. To name a few of them, cancer, heart trouble, diabetes, Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, etc. These usually attack the older age group, and they become disabled to a greater or lesser degree. A book could be written about the long train of social and economic problems which follows.

"Medical men and laymen interested in the problems of older people have long known that there is a need in this area for a chronic hospital. We do not need bigger and better poor houses and asylums, because all of these people are, in the broad sense of the word, sick or else they would be out on their own. Such a chronic hospital could be built adjoining the Memorial Hospital. The two hospitals would be served by the same staffs—medical, nursing and administrative. There are many other technical advantages too numerous to mention here.

"The new chronic hospital would be an integral part of the Memorial Hospital. It would not be under the political thumb of any politician. Positions would be handed out solely on merit. The faithful followers of successful political candidates would be given no preference; good hospitals are not run that way. The harassed general superintendent of the insane asylum, poor house and county farm could return peacefully to the George's Creek region to resume the practice of the ancient and honorable profession of barbering. He would hardly qualify as assistant superintendent of the Memorial Hospital, in charge of the chronic division, should such a position be open.

Could Attract Internes

"Many young women seeking nurses training in the larger hospitals leave our community. We have to employ resident physicians and some general duty nurses, when we could attract internes and more student nurses with a larger plant. It is not an idle dream to say that some day we could have a medical school here. Certainly, there is a nation-wide demand for more physicians.

"In this county, we are bogged down in a mire of Republican mediocrity. Bickering seems to be the order of the day. It is time for
